WILL DREDGE WATERWAY

A contract for the dredging of the Hylebos waterway from deep water to 11th street has been awarded to the Tacoma Dredging Co. by James M. Ashton, and work will be started soon in tideland development that will add a new 13,000-foot deep-water slip channel to Tacoma's harbor facilities.

Work also will be started on Commercial waterway district No. 1, which will include the dredging of the same waterway to the Hague box factory. Ashton announced today that the Hylebos waterway will be completed within six months at a cost of $150,000.

It is understood that negotiations looking to the erection of a large shipbuilding plant for Tacoma are under way, but have not advanced sufficiently to warrant an announcement. The plant will be erected on the new waterway.

LIMIT LUMBER OUTPUT

WASHINGTON and Oregon lumbermen at a mass meeting in Tacoma yesterday generally favored a curtailment of manufacturing operations to meet the problem of overproduction and instability in orders. Indications were that 78 mills were confronted with a situation which would mean restricted output from one day a week to two weeks during June and July.

The waterfront strike was discussed as a factor in the lumber situation, several mills declaring that they were not moving much lumber. The shipping situation was said to affect about 25 per cent of the lumber business.

MANY FALLING IN LINE

Employees of all Tacoma banks, from presidents down to office boys, will be in line in the bankers' section in Tacoma's big preparedness parade the morning of July 4. Also, at least 500 members of the Elks lodge will march in silk hats and Prince Alberts.

The lodge has unanimously endorsed the parade, appointing Clarence Parker, G. S. Smitley, Woodburn McDonald and J. E. O'Brien as members of its committee. The Commercial club, the University club, Pierce county officials and 200 colored citizens are ready to fall in line. Huge American flags will be carried.

DEMANDING TEXT BOOKS

BURLINGTON, Wash., June 9.—Any candidate for the job of state superintendent of instruction who wants the backing of the Washington state grange must support an initiative measure providing for the publication by the state of school text books. This warning is contained in a resolution which probably will be adopted today. Two grange members are candidates for the office—Mrs. Josephine Preston, who now holds the job, and M. E. Durham, superintendent of schools in King county.

ROSE FESTIVAL TODAY

Campfire Girls, Boy Scouts, kindergarten classes, little nurses and sewing classes are taking part in the rose festival held today and Saturday in Ferry park for the purpose of interesting Tacoma people in the Tacoma Settlement house, and of raising funds for the new building. The festival is under the direction of the women of home missionary societies of the Methodist churches, which have been carrying on the settlement work.

STACY FOR SCHOOL JOB

The Tacoma school board broke the long standing deadlock yesterday, and elected Ralph S. Stacy, president of the National Bank of Tacoma, to succeed the late Rev. H. B. Hendley as member of the board. The deadlock began May 11, when the members were divided over the selection of Stacy and Attorney A. J. Swindle. Claude Gray, who had been supporting Swindle, switched to Stacy yesterday, making the vote 3 to 1.

LOUIS HILL KNOWS EVERY G. N. EMPLOYEE

ST. PAUL, June 8.—The greatest railroad builder in history.

His son also loves poetry and paints pictures.

He is so good a railroad man his father turned over most of his largest interests to him before he died.

Louis Hill is the most unusual figure in the world of finance—and, by the way he has the utmost contempt for the so-called mysteries of high finance.

He believes the way to make money in railroading is to run good railroads, to put your whole soul into the development of your roads and make an art of it.

Hill is as democratic as was his father. He is known throughout St. Paul as "Louise" and likes it. One of his pet aversions is the "dress suit" and he almost always wears a soft collar.

It is said he has met every employe of his roads from directors to trackwalkers. He has also become acquainted with hundreds of the farmers living along the lines, and makes long trips in his auto to meet those who live far from the right-of-way.

So far as anyone in St. Paul can see, Louis Hill will carry out his father's policy of aiding immigrant farmers—a policy which made the name of "Yim Hill" known in every peasant's cottage in Norway and Sweden; the two countries from which the northwest drew largely for its settlers.

Hill's house next to the elder Hill's on Summit av., shows the reverence he feels for his father's memory. There are pictures of the elder Hill in every room.

In one huge room there is a painting of James J. Hill, his wife and their grand-children that covers an entire wall.

Louis Hill is devoted to his five children, James J. Hill, II, who is 11, has been slated for a railroad career.

The boy is imaginative and artistic. He sketches with remarkable skill and writes as good poetry as some that finds its way into magazines.

His father says this shows he will make a fine railroad man.
