New Woman's Party Will Jolt 'em, Says Blind Helen Keller

BY HELEN KELLER.
(Written at Chicago especially for this newspaper.)
(Copyright, 1916.)

CHICAGO, June 9.—For the first time in the history of America women have become a great factor in the selection of a presidential candidate, and the creation of a party's platform.

They are seen everywhere here in Chicago in these pre-convention discussions where a very few years ago their appearance would have caused untold comment. And their influence in affecting every "deal" that the politicians are making. Greatest of all, they have just found a "woman's party," the birth of which I saw as it was started winging its way down the ages.

What does all this mean? hold for the women of America—of the world?

The Woman's Party means more than votes for women. It means more than votes for women. It means more than votes for women. It means more than votes for women.

GIPEY BAND PAYS LAST HONORS TO DEAD KING

High requiem mass was said today over the body of Steve George, late king of the band of Brazilian Gipsies, who have been camped near Tacoma.

Two score or more bareheaded men, accompanied by elaborately shawled women formed a tiny knot around the candle lit casket in St. Leo's as the mass was said.

The small band stared at the singing voice of the priest rose and fell amid the toll of bells and the peal of the large pipe organ. They filed out to their dust-covered automobiles and left for their camp.

The body will be shipped today to Indiana, where it will be buried in the family plot. The band will follow immediately. It was planned to nominate George at a

Practice Friendship Smile If You Would Never Be Wallflower

LILLIAN BENF ELTD THOMPSON

BY LILLIAN B. THOMPSON

Friends are worth cultivating in this life of ours.

The sunny smile will do much towards holding your friends and at the same time help you and them in meeting the trials and tribulations of living.

Of course, the true friend is supposed to stand by one, whether he be gloomy or cheerful.

But I can see no reason for taxing the patience of our friends with an attitude of continual gloom and sourness.

Naturally there comes a time in everyone's life when sorrow overwhelms the ability to smile.

Then it is that the friends of the saddened person can be of real comfort with their friendship smiles, the expression of real, true sympathy.

There is nothing reserved or stingy about the friendship smile. It is broad and expansive, charged with the joy of living, the expression of pleasure with life and the knowledge of good companions.

There should be nothing mechanical about it.

It should be wholesouled and vital.

It is the sort of a smile that says to another person, "I know you are my real friend and I can trust you in my confidence."

I don't have to hedge, to watch my words when you are with me.

Every smile has two meanings. One is for the person receiving the smile, one for the person doing the smiling.

As a rule the real intent of the smile is shown on the face, but at times its real meaning is a bit baffling.

There is no guess work about the friendship smile.

It is so spontaneous that one can tag it at sight.

That is why, I think, it is such an interesting, important smile, such a delightful means of communication between two congenial persons.

The girl with the winning smile need never fear of being a wall flower; of lacking invitations to parties and all the amusements that appeal to happy people.

In fact, her ability to smile will take her far in her conquest of life; will help her over many rough places and aid her in overcoming many seemingly insurmountable obstacles.

If you want to go through life with the reputation of being a grouch, don't smile.

But if you enjoy friends and want them to choose you and associate with you, cultivate that beamy, expansive smile, that is nearly a grin, from the very joyousness of it, and I promise you will not be lacking in happy, congenial companions.

And what is better in life than good friends with whom to talk and confide?

There is so much to be gained from smiling that it seems foolish for anyone not to practice it. I have learned in my own life that my smiles have been an immense benefit and I am glad I can really and truly smile.

Since one gains in health, beauty, business and friendship

BAD COINS CIRCULATED

Ticket sellers of the Robinson circus, which appeared in Tacoma Wednesday night, flooded the city with spurious coins, representing $5 gold pieces, according to the police today.

The coins were merely five-cent pieces, dipped in gold gilt, but in the semi-darkness of the evening performance they were passed out promiscuously by the ticket men, police say.

Several reports already have been received from victims. Three men who had been bilked in a similar manner at Olympia were taken to the circus offices Wednesday night by Sheriff Longmire, and were given their money back.

through the taking of smile medicine, why stint the dose?

It is my advice, girls, to take it in large quantities. It cannot hurt you and will do you a world of good if you are sincere.

Smile, smile and then smile some more.
