TIGERS MIGHT AS WELL
DEFAULT SERIES TO THE INDIANS AND SAVE TIME

Nick Williams' Indians proved once more to the despair of Tacoma fans yesterday afternoon to the Tigers that there's no chance for the Tacoma boys to beat them. It was the eighth straight game between the two teams, and the sixth victory for Spokane.

It was a freak contest of such quality as has not even been seen in the local semi-pro games this year. Hits were plentiful and errors were numerous. Three Tiger errors counted for runs. Only one of the Tacoma runs was earned.

Al Hartman was put into the game with a sore arm. He tried his best in the first inning, but his arm was so bad that he couldn't even put over a good curve ball. Two infield errors, a single and a home run by Shoenke gave the opposition five tallies in the very first frame.

Rickey Williams took up the cudgels in the second but he was also in poor condition. He walked his first man, and Williams' double brought in a score. Reuther's single sent Williams to third, and a passed ball allowed him to score.

In the second Tacoma made a clean run, Bankhead doubling and Baldwin scoring him with a triple. The Tigers' second score, in the third, was made on an error by Reuther, a passed ball and a double by Williams. In the fourth Tacoma scratched over another tally after Thompson had walked, Connolly was safe on McGinnis' boot, and Reuther hit Peterson and Williams with pitched balls.

There is no comparison between the present Tiger team and the team that represented Tacoma earlier in the season. Instead of experienced players and good hitters, the outfield is occupied by Tacoma amateur players. All of the former star hitters have been released. The pitching staff, outside of one man—Sutherland—is the weakest in the league.

Umpire Howell should get an error for one of his decisions yesterday. It was one of the worst "boners" seen on the Tacoma lot this year. In the sixth inning, with Connolly on second, Bankhead dropped a neat bunt along the third base line. The ball rolled close to the chalk mark, and finally stopped right on the line. Catcher Murray kicked the pill a foot outside, and Howell called it a foul. The kick was seen by everyone at the park—except Howell.

A sensational play was made by Bill Leard and Sammy Bohne in the eighth. With Murray on first, Gislason drove a hard grounder towards second. Leard made a desperate attempt to catch the ball, but merely got one hand on it. He hunted the pill towards second. Bohne stretched out full length on the ground, his feet on the bag, and grabbed the ball as it rolled by. He landed it a second before Murray reached the station.

Discards of Major League
May Win Flag For Dodgers

Did Connie Mack pull a boner when he tied a can to Jack Coombs?

Was John McGraw hasty in firing Rube Marquard and Chief Meyers?

Did Roger Bresnahan "boot" one when he banished Larry Cheney from the Cubs?

Every time he ponders these questions Col. Wilbert Robison laughs in his sleeve. For it is to laugh, says the Brooklyn manager, when you contemplate the performances of this quartet in his club's present pennant dash.

If Brooklyn cops the flag discards must be given credit for the veterans cast adrift by the Cubs, Athletics and Giants have made title-contenders of the Dodger machine.

Each of the above quartet had worn out his welcome on the club with which he played prior to entering Robinson's family but like back with a resounding thud and won 11 encounters and lots six, while operating in 24 battles. He was of little assistance to the Cubs during the first half of the 1915 race owing to a bum knee and failed to assist the Dodgers after being traded for Joe Schultz.

Marquard and Meyers, once the prize battery of the New York Giants, have profited by the change from Coogan's Bluff to Flatbush and while the noble aborigine hasn't slammed the ball with the same fierceness and regularity that marked his efforts for McGraw he has been a prominent factor in the catching department and has hustled like a yearling since the bell rang last April.

Marquard ranks 11th among the pitching stars of the National, and in 18 battles has won 7 and lost two. He's a tower of strength, however, in the role of a rescuer.

Cheney, for years the mainstay of the Cub machine, has come scores of other diamond greats they came back in new environments. Coombs, a cripple, the result of overwork in the role of Mack's iron-man pitcher has found himself again and though not worked as often as other members of the Brooklyn staff has been a prime factor in the club's march of triumph. In 17 games the Kennebeck marvel has turned in 10 winners as against four defeats. That's fair-to-middlin' pitching for a man supposed to have one foot in the grave.

SPORT DOPE

Monday's game was a tough one for Hank Peterson to lose. It was the first time he had pitched since August 1, when he started the game at Vancouver. Pete has been out of the game with injuries, but he said he felt fine Monday, and was confident that he could trim the Indians.

It looks as though Russ Hall got hooked when he took Bankhead to play left field. Bankhead is a good enough fielder, but he can't hit. In six straight games he has only made one safe hit. Since joining the team Aug. 6 he has scored four times and hit safely 10 times.

Jack Wuffli and Sammy Bohne hold the title for perfect attendance this season. The Tiger third sacker and shortstop have not been out of a single game since the season started at the Stadium April 25. Bill Leard ranks next. He has only been out of the game once during the season. That was on Sunday, Aug. 6, at Vancouver.

Jack Hartford, popular Tacoma fighter, is one of the members of Coast Artillery Reserves, Co. No. 4, temporarily stationed at Fort Worden. Among the Seattle artillerymen at the fort is Leo Houck, whom Hartford boxed to a draw at the Tivoli theater, Seattle, a few months ago. It is expected that the two lads will stage an impromptu bout at the fort before they return.

Alexander, the Philadelphia Nationals' pitcher, established a new record Friday when he pitched a no-run victory over the Cincinnati team. It was his 13th shut-out victory during the season. Mathewson, pitching for New York, held the record up to the 1916 season, with 12 shut-out victories during a single season.

Earl Conners will probably appear on the Friday night card at the Tivoli theater, Seattle. An effort is being made to match him with Joe Harrahan, who he has already boxed twice. The main event of the evening will be between Lloyd Madden and George Ingle. Madden is a former amateur champion, and is just now making his debut as a professional boxer.

Emil Huhn, of the Cincinnati club, former Seattle Giant and well known Northwesterner, has one of the toughest jobs in baseball. He works every day at the ball park, yet he never sees a game. Huhn is catching for the Cincinnati pitchers every afternoon.

keeping them warmed up while the game is on, ready at a minute's notice to go into the fray. He keeps busy during the entire game, hidden away in the bull pen behind the grandstand, and he hasn't seen a full game this summer.

Sam Langford and Sam McVey boxed their 15th bout at the Argentine Boxing Carnival in Buenos Ayres about a week ago. The referee called the bout a draw at the end of the 20th round. The crowd pronounced the affair between the two colored heavyweights very tame.

Following the Jack Dillon-Battling Levinsky 10-round bout in Baltimore a few weeks ago, word was sent abroad that Dillon had been whipped in a great bout. This is what Frank Klaus, former middleweight champion, who was an eye-witness to the bout, says: "Both Dillon and Levinsky were disappointed at the small size of the crowd and I am positive that they had an understanding in the ring."

Five matches were played off in the city tennis tournament on the municipal links last evening. Scott defeated Johnson, 8-6, 6-3; Davis defeated Reader, default; Pringle defeated Burrill, 6-2, 10-8; Pessemier and Pessemier defeated Blakiston and Webster, 6-4, 6-3; Pringle and Burrill defeated Pessemier and Pessemier, 6-1, 6-4.

Practically no women or girls have entered the tourney, and women's matches will be called off unless entries are made at once.

Fred Libke, the star semi-pro pitcher of Tacoma, who started south to join the Oregon State league, pitched a game at Portland Sunday, and made a big hit. Fred found that he had started a week too soon, so while laying around Portland he had an opportunity to pitch for the team of the Bricklayers.

Libke will join the Glamath Falls team of the Oregon State league this week and play through the season with McCredie's junior league.

TOO HOT FOR TENNIS PLAY

SOUTHAMPTON, N. Y., Aug. 23.—Because of the extreme heat yesterday afternoon, 17 important matches in the Meadow club tennis tournament were defaulted.

Maurice McLoughlin and M. Kumagai were the two most prominent stars who refused to play. H. Mikami of Japan, partner of Kumagai, lost to Rowland Roberts of San Francisco, 4-6, 3-6, 6-1.

Announce New Game Dates

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 23.—Open season on water fowl, coots, gallinules and jacksnipe in the state of Washington will be from October 1 to January 15, according to the new migratory game laws, just issued by the department of agriculture. Open season on black breasted plover and golden plover, and greater and lesser yellow legs will be from October 1 to December 1.

DAILY CHATS WITH FAMOUS
BALLPLAYERS

GEORGE DAUSS, DETROIT Tigers: "Catchers are often put on the pan for mistakes which cost their teams ball games but there are times when these mistakes are unavoidable. 'Red' McKee of the Detroit club made such a mistake recently and the slip-up let Cleveland win.

"Chapman was on first base, one out and Smith at bat, the time. Chapman made a bluff to steal and McKee tore off his mask to see better where he was throwing. In doing so he hit one eye with the mask and temporarily blinded himself.

"McKee made a perfect peg, had anyone been covering second, but as Chapman didn't go down no one was there and the ball sailed out to center field."

Hazel Dawn In
'Under Cover'

"The End of the Trail" will come to an end with today's run at the Colonial. William Farnum and Gladys Brockwell are featured in this play of the North, as gripping in many scenes as "The Spillers."

The attraction of the new program beginning tomorrow will be "Under Cover," the famous stage success, with Hazel Dawn and Owen Moore (Mary Pickford's husband) featured. Roi Cooper Megrue's melo-drama possesses two great essential elements—swift action and a plot surprisingly unusual. It will keep an audience guessing from beginning to end.

Hawaiian Play
at Melbourne

"It Happened in Honolulu," a five-part Red Feather production, tops the new program that opens at the Melbourne theater today. It is an exceptional feature from the standpoint of scenic beauty and its story is one of many thrills.

The tropical beauty of the Hawaiian islands is revealed in a striking way in many of the scenes and the story is one that holds the closest interest and attention.

Pretty Myrtle Gonzales is the star. She is supported by Val Paul and a company of Red Feather players.

Viola Dana, Clever Dramatic Star,
Makes Her Debut As Metro Star

Viola Dana, who made a hit at the Tacoma theater last year in "The Poor Little Rich Girl," appears in this scene from "The Flower of No Man's Land," with Duncan McRae.

Viola Dana, the charming and gifted young star who made her debut on the Metro program in "The Flower of No Man's Land," a five-part wonderplay of powerful story and interesting setting, comes to the Apollo tonight. This feature was written especially for Miss Dana by John H. Collins, who also directed its production. Miss Dana is supported by an exceptionally strong cast, including Duncan McRae, the well known English dramatic actor. Other notable players in the cast include Mitchell Lewis, playing the part of a heroic Indian, a role similar to the one that brought him recognition in "The Squaw Man," with William Faversham. "The Snowbird" closes at the Apollo tonight. Chief Big Elk, the wonderful Indian baritone, who has been singing at the Apollo since Sunday, will be heard in new songs tomorrow.
