LANGUAGE ON SCOTCH LINKS
 A well known dignitary of the church was golfing on the St. Andrew's links, and like everyone else got into trouble in a bunker. Stroke followed stroke, but he couldn't get out. At length his lips, moving with extreme irritation and the effect of continual muscular effort, his caddy interposed and approaching the reverend, exclaimed: "Will I say it for ye, sir?"

A companion to this story may be given. A player had missed his first round and his opponent said to his rival's caddy, "Say it for him!"

To which the caddy replied: "It's no worth a damn!"
