HOLLAND IN WORST POSITION

(United Press Leased Wire.) LONDON, Feb. 2.—The neutral nations of Europe are awaiting America's decision as to Germany's new war on the seas with anxiety.

Dispatches today from the capitals of Holland, Spain and the Scandinavian countries hinted that efforts would be made in each to delay any action until that determined upon by the United States is announced.

Holland is perhaps hardest struck of all the European neutrals. Dispatches from across the channel today gave a graphic picture of the seriousness with which the Dutch regarded the German orders, a seriousness which was deepened by knowledge that among the first ships to fall victim to the new sea ruthlessness was a Dutch freighter.

It was pointed out today that if by any chance Germany should attempt violation of Dutch territory, the winter season, when the dykes and canals are frozen and passably by foot is most favorable for such a step.

Messages today from Amsterdam and The Hague indicate fear that The Netherlands is doomed to be crushed between German land and undersea forces. An actual blockade, correspondents declare, means starvation.

Present supplies of foodstuffs in Holland may last a month or two months, according to varying estimates.

The concentration of troops on the German-Dutch frontier is the cause of constant speculation and today it was felt such action which has been in progress for the past few weeks, was taken in advance of the new sea step.

The London Times correspondent in Holland today declared: "While the Dutch, predominately cautious, feel a disposition to stand or fall by their rights, their eyes are turned anxiously toward the United States—the greatest neutral—to see whether she will abandon her little sisters to their fate."

Dispatches from Amsterdam quoted the newspaper Telegraaf as asking, "whether America will withdraw her protecting hand over neutrals and non-combatants."

The Amsterdam Handelsblad declares: "If America holds to the spirit of the notes and ultimatums she has sent to Germany, she must declare war."

Switzerland faces a situation similar to Holland. The blockade cuts off all French ports except Cete, and that means cutting off of essential foodstuffs and raw materials.

Even Spain—America's enemy of the days of '98—awaits America's determination. On the other hand, the British press tone today continued to cooperate with reference to the United States' action on the German note, the editorials generally leaving it up to America to decide her own course.

Some newspapers renewed the suggestion that participation in the war with the allies might possibly react against the entente in the end, the Daily Mail observing that "it might be a positive disadvantage to be thus hampered in peace negotiations by the influence of German-Americans."

SPENT LAST $6 FOR PISTOL TO SHOOT OLSON

John Van Dell, the logger who shot and killed E. W. Olson, chairman of the industrial insurance commission, in the latter's office at Olympia Thursday afternoon, spent his last $6 for the revolver with which he took his victim's life.

H. E. Norwood, manager of a Tacoma private detective agency, who stood just outside the door of Olson's private office when the murder took place, declares that the sales tag was still attached to the gun when Van Dell fired the fatal shots.

Van Dell had no money on him when he gave himself up to the Thurston county sheriff.

"I had been waiting some time to see Mr. Olson," says Norwood. "About 1:15 Van Dell came in and asked the stenographer, Miss Ruby Lenherr, if he could see Olson."

"Apparently he had been there earlier in the day, for the young lady knew him."

"She replied that Mr. Olson was still busy, and Van Dell turned and went out."

"About 10 minutes later he came walking briskly into the office. I was still in the ante-room. I learned that he had been to a hardware store and purchased the revolver between visits."

Leonard in Office "He started for Olson's private office. Miss Lenherr tried to restrain him, saying that Olson had a visitor. Van Dell simply brush-

ASK FOR FINAL PEACE OFFER

(United Press Leased Wire.) NEW YORK, Feb. 2.—A movement for a national appeal for unimpeded consideration of the crisis with Germany, by President Wilson, congress and the press and suggesting a final offer of mediation in the war was started here today by a communication addressed to the president and signed by 26 persons, including Amos Pinshot, Paul H. Kellogg, George W. Kirchwyl and Oswald Garrison Villard.

The appeal was printed in half-page advertisements in newspapers and at the bottom was appended a line asking all persons who endorse sentiments contained in the message to telegraph President Wilson at once.

"We recognize the perplexity of the problem before you," the telegram to the president read, "and we wish to express our confidence in your wisdom and your power of leadership."

The president is asked, however, not to allow the nation "to be dragged into the war at the very end of acts as desperation committed by any of the belligerents."

The following suggestions of a course are then made to the president: "First—That you call on congress and the press of the United States for a deliberate and unimpeded consideration of the international question with the future of mankind in mind as well as in the present crisis."

"Second—That you call on the belligerents, both to meet, as the central powers have already offered to do and also to state their terms, as the allies already have done."

"Third—That you address to the sovereigns and executive heads of the governments a final and personal offer of mediation."

The message reminds President Wilson "that hasty reactions of the public press have not in earlier crisis presented the fundamental feeling of the people."

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 2.—The definite statement that "nothing has gone forward to Germany, yet," was made by the state department today relative to the present German-American crisis.

At the same time the department left the impression that some suggestions, inquiries or instructions may have been sent to Ambassador Gerard, though it was officially emphasized that the department neither affirmed nor denied that impression.

CHARGE SWINDLE ON POOR

(Special to The Times.) OLYMPIA, Feb. 2.—Sworn testimony showing how poor people have been swindled of their savings by the deceptions of so-called mutual savings and loan associations, how they have been induced to become "members" of associations and deposit fees which ate up their interest, was given before the joint banking committees of the house and senate last night.

Prominent members of the State League of Savings and Loan Associations, comprising a large share of the reputable associations in the state, appeared before the committee in the interest of the Chase bill, which limits the membership fees which can be charged, requires written receipts for such fees, and throws other safety appliances around depositors in these institutions.

Specific instances were presented showing how people have been "taken in" for amounts as large as $200. The system, it was shown, is to invite the prospect to deposit his funds by telling him they will bring him from eight to 10 per cent, and that he can withdraw his money any time he wants to. When he comes to take his money out he is told there is a "withdrawal fee" or that his original deposit was one the membership fee on, say 25 shares at $2 a share.

Blame Crooked Agents The argument of representatives of the savings and loan associations under fire aimed at the clause chopping down the amount of "membership" fee.

They declared this fee was all they had to pay agents and running expenses, and that unless a $2 fee were allowed, many of them would have to go out of business. They admitted there have been abuses, but blamed them altogether on crooked agents, such as may be found in all other lines of business.

Drop of Dew More Precious Than Wealth (United Press Leased Wire.) SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 2.—Lieutenant-Colonel Harry G. Bishop, rescued from the Sonora desert after his aeroplane broke down, is in the Letterman General hospital at the Presidio here today. He was sent here from the Yuma, Ariz., hospital to recover from the effects of his experience.

"A drop of dew on a leaf looked bigger to me than a twenty-dollar goldpiece ever will," said Colonel Bishop, describing his emotions after Lieutenant Robertson, his companion, had gone ahead for help.

"One raised from the dead couldn't be more surprised than I when I realized that I was to continue to live. I don't know what I did after Robertson went away. It's a dead blank in my mind. It just seemed that hours afterward I heard someone speak my name. Vaguely I realized that Robertson had found someone, but I couldn't answer."

MANY DIE IN CHICAGO FIRE

(Continued From Page One.) firemen arrived had spread to the wreckage and transformed the debris into a roaring inferno. Rescue of imprisoned and injured women and children, and recovery of bodies was practically impossible.

Two bodies are at the county morgue and reports stated that three others were at private undertaking establishments. Eleven were at the county hospital. The missing list was over 50. Some of these are believed to have taken refuge in the neighborhood.

Red Cross Busy. The Chicago branch of the Red Cross society have taken charge of the relief work. Morris Feldman, janitor, stated that the gas company had been notified to repair the leak in the main on various occasions. An employe of the company, according to Feldman, inspected the pipe yesterday but left without doing anything.

Two deputies from the coroner's office, George B. Schriver and George Webster, are conducting an investigation to ascertain whether the disaster was caused by criminal negligence.

26 in Tenement. There were twenty-six small children in the tenement. All were under ten years of age. Some who escaped were thrown from third story windows by frenzied parents.

Thrilling rescues were made by volunteer rescuers. Clement S. Davis, a switchman, on his way home from work, passed the building shortly after the explosion occurred. Three small children were tossed into his arms from a second story window.

A fourth struck him on the head, rendering him unconscious. He was taken to the hospital. The child was uninjured.

One Lost in Dark. Three small children, in night clothes, were seen to crawl out of a basement window soon after firemen arrived. How they escaped is a mystery to the firemen.

One of the heroines was Mrs. Mary Schoesky. She was sleeping with her small children about her, on the third floor when the outer wall collapsed following the explosion.

Paralyzed with fear and shivering from cold, she gathered her little group about her. With the youngest, eight months old, in her arms and the rest clinging to her skirts, she fought her way through the smoke and fumes to a point where she could drop them to the ground.

John, six years old, was lost in the darkness, and policemen had to forcibly restrain the frantic mother from rushing to certain death in search of him.
