Shipbuilders Play Soldiers

Manager Billy Speas and his former Tiger confereers, will show fans that one day in the Foundation shipyards is sufficient for them to don the shipworkers colors in a ball game with the 364th Infantry regimental team of Camp Lewis.

The lineup for the game today will see two of the strongest that have ever starred at the park. Here is how the players will line up:

SOLDIERS IN FIGHT TOURNEY

The big boxing tournament scheduled to take place the week of June 3 to settle the Camp Lewis championship of each weight, promises to be a great event. With more than 100 boxers getting into shape to compete, including some of the best amateurs and professionals of the coast, bouts of unusual class are looked for.

SPORT SALAD

What is this we hear murmured on the street about Manager Chet McIntyre staging "something real classy" at the Smelter club on June 11? Speak, Chetwynd!

Several new hats were visible on the domes of some fans the "morning after the Farmer-Darcy scrap." Wonder were they not the insignia of a shrewd fistic forethought?

Doubtless (and perhaps with good reason, too) the Foundation shipyard fans feel that they have now got "some ball team." Yea, verily it would seem so.

The alarming number of straw lids at the ringside Tuesday night would seem to indicate that summer had certainly arrived some time.

The draft or something, it seems, has blown more Smiths into the major leagues than ever before.

One of the greatest mysteries of nature is said to be the dome of a heavyweight wrestler.

Golf officials are planning a new national rule for the game—no Scotch at the 19th hole.

Ouimet Finds Sammies Eager Golf Pupils at Camp Devens

(The second of two articles showing how Francis Ouimet, former open and amateur champion of the world, teaches soldiers at Camp Devens during her work on the fine points of golf.) Golf will be more popular than ever after the war, according to Francis Ouimet training Sammies in the fine points of golf at Camp Devens.

Lincolnites Turn Tables at Stadium

The Lincolnites came back last evening in the Stadium, turning the tables on the North Enders, 9 to 6. This evens up the score of games in the interscholastic series, one all. It shows also that "Doc" Adams did not have the terror for the Lincolnites yesterday that he did on the opening day of the series.

Adams was very wild and lasted only four innings when Coach Deal, seeing the folly of keeping him on the mound, called him off. George Davies who opposed him, pitched a calm, cool and steady game and played with wonderful dexterity in the pinches. The series so far is a tie, each team having one game apiece. Friday will see the third game at the Stadium.

Marty Under Collins' Wing

(United Press Leased Wire.) PORTLAND, May 30.—Marty Farrell, clever light-heavyweight, is en route east today. He has become the protege of Mike Collins manager of Fred Fulton.

SPORT DEATHS TOTAL HIGH SINCE LAST YEAR

As one gazes back over the last 12 months, by far the most fatal to men closely connected with sport, it is impossible to refrain from trying to break the veil and contemplate the ravages of the coming year, with thousands of our athletes at war. Since last Memorial day some of the most prominent figures in sport have "gone west." Pugilism saw the passing of a number of its old-time idols. The first was Bob Fitzsimmons, conqueror of Jim Corbett, who was knocked out in his final battle in October. In February John L. Sullivan, greatest of the great, heard the bell toll 10, and a few days later Terry McGovern, the greatest little fighter of the age, took the count. Late in March, Mike Donovan, Civil war hero and former middleweight champion, heard the call, and the same month saw the passing of Dick Burge, former lightweight champion of England. April marked the death of Charley Mitchell, one of the greatest of English heavyweights, and in May George La Blanche, "The Marine," inventor of the pivot punch, died. Billy Madden, famous old-time manager, and Charley White, the great referee, died during the year. Baseball will mourn Oliver "Patsy" Tebeau, who died recently; Steve Brady, second baseman of the old Metropolitan, and Cliff Markle, a former Yankee pitcher, the first ballplayer killed in Uncle Sam's service in France. Frank Gotch, undefeated wrestling champion, died during the winter, and athletics lost a remarkable figure in the death of Martin Sheridan. The list is a long one—but with our thousands of athletes in France, what will Memorial day of 1919 recall to lovers of sport?

will be able to turn to this form of recreation without seriously impairing his game. The case of Ernest Jones, the English professional who lost a leg in France, is a example. Jones plays about up to his old time form on his reconstructed leg and there are plenty of examples in England and Canada of crippled soldiers who find golf an ideal recreation for them now. While they don't admit it, this is undoubtedly one reason why boys are grasping every opportunity to learn what many of them called "an old man's game" before they went into service. In the upper picture, made especially for the commission on training camp activities of the war department, Ouimet is shown making a half mashie shot. The doughboys are watching him with interest trying to pick up the points of the shot. Below Ouimet is showing a player the proper position of the hands in relation to the ball. The player's hands are too far in front of the ball.

Decorate Stadium Paddlers

Nine swimmers of the Blue and Gold team will receive the gold swimming letters, the first ever given out to a swimming team at either Tacoma high school. This will be the reward of the Blue and Gold's sweeping victory last Friday over the Lincoln team by a score of 74 to 9.

The letters are long, wavy "S's," and the victors will wear them proudly. The South Side institution, however, will have to do without, because not a single man won a first place.

Big Game at Camp Lewis

The Base Hospital baseball team will go up against the 363rd Infantry team at 2:30 this afternoon on the 91st division grounds at Camp Lewis. Among the soldier players who were champions last season, are the following players: Louie Guisto, of Cleveland; Eddie Klein of Northwest league, and Eddy and Levy Reed of the California.

Stakes His Motor Title

(United Press Leased Wire.) PORTLAND, Or., May 30.—Dusty Farnham LaGrande, far western and northwest motorcycle champion, staked all his titles here today at the Rose City speedway when he offered to race any and all of 200 motor fiends gathered here from the coast an dnorthwest states. Red Cogburn and Ed Bertrith are expected to give Dusty his most serious arguments.

FANNIE'S FLICKERS

(BY FANNIE FILM) DON'T FAIL TO SEE THE WINNIPEG KIDDIES Thursday is the last day that anyone will have a chance to see the Winnipeg Kiddies in Tacoma. These little shavers are not amateurs, neither are they professionals, but somewhere in between these two classes there is a rating of ability which exactly fits these little actors and actresses. They are as clever and as entertaining as professionals, but they lack, happily, that blasé, tired and disinterested air of some professional entertainers. They are too full of life, pep and happiness to be professionals and too good to be amateurs, so call them what you will. Little black-haired, snappy eyed Doris Roche, with her sweet, strong voice, which is of a much better tone and quality than that of the average grown-up vaudeville and musical comedy star, is more than pleasing. She is lovable, and the audiences to whom she has been playing in Tacoma have had no scruples in letting her know that she appealed to them. If Doris is charming, so are all of the others of the company, and as each of the little girls appear upon the stage in their different features, each one seems more beautiful and more clever than the last.

Jack Pickford As Bunker Bean

"His Majesty, Bunker Bean." How much that title conveys to all of those who have read the very humorous book of that title by Harry Leon Wilson! "Bunker Bean" comes to the Colonial theater Thursday, with Jack Pickford and Louise Huff in all of the endearing peculiarities and characters which made the book the great success that it was. The Flapper, Napoleon, the canine, the fortune teller, and last but not least the H'l of last year's car. Jack Pickford appears as Bunker Bean and Louise Huff is seen as the Flapper.

Orpheum Bill Here Friday

A new Orpheum bill which promises to be an excellent one, opens at the Tacoma theater tomorrow night for the usual Friday, Saturday and Sunday engagement. It has two headliners, Derwent Hall Caine and Wellington Cross, the well known musical comedy favorite. Caine is the son of the famous English novelist Hall Caine, and is appearing in a thrilling dramatic sketch by his father, called "The Iron Hand." The playlet is based upon the utterances of the kaiser at a review of the new troops at Potsdam in which he reminded them that they were his body and soul and that when the time came that he would command them to fire upon their own relatives, mothers, fathers, sisters and brothers they should not hesitate. Wellington Cross presents songs and stories of the moment and is assisted by Ted Shapiro at the piano. Others on the bill the The Misses Black and White in their novelty diversion; Eddie Carr and company in an absurd farce "The
