FOURTH OF JULY IN HISTORY

NOTABLE EVENTS THAT HAVE OCCURRED ON THAT DAY

Chronology of the Day From the Third Crusade and Capture of Jerusalem to the Close of the Spanish War.

JULY 4, 1187, the great Sultan Saladin, hero of Moslem romances, in a bloody battle defeated the crusaders, at Tiberias, in the Holy Land. This victory led to the capture of Jerusalem and the third crusade.

July 4, 1591, the oppressive laws by which the Huguenots or Protestants were being persecuted were revoked by an edict of Henry IV. of France.

July 4, 1594, Nova Zembla was discovered.

July 7, 1648, occurred an Indian massacre, the Huron village of St. Joseph being entirely wiped out by a band of savage Mohawks. This was a Catholic mission, and Father, Daniel stood to the last, dipping his handkerchief in water and sprinkling the crowd of suppliants that begged for baptism before death.

July 4, 1653, was the meeting of "Cromwell's parliament," that made Cromwell lord protector of England.

July 4, 1776, Declaration of Independence, the beginning of the United States as a nation.

July 4, 1778, the surprise of Kaskaskia. During the Revolutionary war an American officer, Colonel Clarke, by a stratagem surprised this important Illinois town, together with Fort Gage, on the opposite side of the river, and captured both.

July 4, 1793, John Quincy Adams made his first great speech. He was a famous man from that day.

July 4, 1804, Nathaniel Hawthorne was born.

July 4, 1817, work was commenced on the Erie canal.

July 4, 1826, on the semicentenary of Independence day, two of the original signers died. They were Thomas Jefferson and John Adams, each an ex-president. On the same day Stephen Foster was born. He was the author of many popular songs, including "Old Uncle Ned" and "Suwanee River."

July 4, 1828, the cornerstone of the Baltimore and Ohio, the first railroad in America, was laid by Charles Carroll, the only surviving signer of the declaration of Independence.

July 4, 1831, James Monroe died, the third ex-president whose death came upon this day.

July 4, 1846, during the Mexican war, the Americans at Sonoma, Cal., raised the flag of revolution, General Fremont in command, the first place on the Pacific coast to declare for the Americans.

July 4, 1848, with impressive ceremonies, the cornerstone of the Washington monument was laid at the national capital.

July 4, 1850, while resting under the shade of this monument, President Taylor was stricken with fatal illness, dying on the 9th.

July 4, 1863, the Confederate General Holmes was defeated before Helena, Ark. Pemberton also surrendered Vicksburg to Grant. As the battle of Gettysburg had been won but the day before, this is held to be the turning point of the civil war.

July 4, 1866, a carelessly thrown firecracker caused a $10,000,000 fire in Portland, Me.

July 4, 1890, the provisional government of Spain elected a Prince Hohenzollern to the throne, which gave such offense to France that the Franco-Prussian war was declared the same month.

July 4, 1874, the $6,000,000 Eads bridge at St. Louis was opened for travel.

July 4, 1880, the French government officially presented our government with the Bartholdi statue of Liberty Enlightening the World.

July 4, 1894, after a bloodless revolution, the short-lived Hawaiian republic was proclaimed.

July 4, 1898, was the "Fourth of Rejoicing." Admiral Cervera's fleet was destroyed the day before, and all knew the Spanish war was really at an end.—Leslie's Weekly.

Printers' Ink

The leading "Journal for Advertisers" in the United States, says:

"Inevitably the business man who does not keep his establishment before the public will be forgotten, and as long as there are men who advertise constantly and loudly, nobody will charge his mind with remembering those who do not advertise. Gladstone said that 'nothing except the mint can make money without advertising.' The famous statesman might have gone farther and said that advertising is the mint in which money is coined for wide-awake business men."

SUNDAY SCHOOL CONTEST

Whereas, The Sunday school at the Presbyterian church recently began a special campaign to invite persons not in any Sunday school to come to their Sunday school, definitely stating that members of other Sunday schools would not be counted, and,

Whereas, Members of another Sunday school have been invited and some may have changed their Sunday school relations;

Therefore, We, the undersigned, wish the community to understand that we think every person ought to attend some Bible school, and strongly desire that every person would do so, but, emphatically, we do not wish or desire that any change their relation from one school to another.

STEVENS--DIGHTMAN

The pleasant home of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Dightman was the scene of a charming wedding Wednesday morning, when their youngest daughter, Adelaide, was joined in marriage to Mr. Albert Henry Stevens. Only relatives and a few friends of the bride's family were present. The ceremony was performed by Rev. W. J. Sharp, who read impressively the double ring service of the Presbyterian church. The bride and groom, facing the guests, stood under a beautiful arch of white roses and ivy and in front of a screen of honeysuckle blossoms. They were supported by the bride's brother and sister, Mr. Warren Dightman and Mrs. J. W. King. Her little nephew and niece, Master Floyd Carter and Alice King, each carrying a beautiful calla lily, acted as ring bearers and Miss Agnes Wright played the wedding march. The bride was tastefully attired in white muslin de soi. She wore orange blossoms and carried a lovely bouquet of white roses. After the ceremony a dainty lunch of cakes, ice cream and fruit punch was served. Shortly afterward Mr. and Mrs. Stevens left on the steamer Lydia Thompson for Bellingham, en route to Portland, where they expect to reside for a few months at least.

Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Carter have the sincere sympathy of their many friends in their bereavement occasioned by the death of their infant son, born Wednesday night. The little one lived only a few hours.

The county commissioners will hold their regular quarterly session next week.

BELLINGHAM WILL CELEBRATE

"THERE'LL BE A HOT TIME IN THE OLD TOWN" THE 4TH

Program Designed to Celebrate Both Independence Day and the Consolidation of Whatcom and Fairhaven—Half-Fare Steamer Rates

NOT only Independence Day but the consolidation of Whatcom and Fairhaven is to be celebrated at Bellingham July 4. Quite an elaborate program has been arranged and a "big time" is expected. The literary exercises will be held in the magnificent Beck theatre the morning of the Fourth, immediately following the grand parade at 10 a. m. The parade will form under command of Marshal of the Day Capt. W. H. Hildebrand. It will be an elaborate and imposing pageant, military, industrial, firemen, commercial, fraternal and union, with liberal cash prizes in four divisions. Martial music will be furnished by military bands, bugle corps and drum corps. The rest of the day until evening will be given over to the program of sports.

The committee has well over $1000 subscribed for use in the features of entertainment. Among other attractions will be yacht races between boats that do not go to Victoria for the International regatta. There will be horse races and a trap-shooting contest at the Fair grounds in the afternoon and the celebration will close in the evening with the most hotly contested and exciting Indian war canoe races ever held in the Pacific northwest. It is expected that not less than five different tribes of Puget Sound and British Columbia Indians will compete for cash prizes and the North Pacific championship.

The Puget Sound Navigation Company announces a special rate of one fare for the round trip from all points in this county on the route of the Lydia Thompson, which is scheduled to leave here at 8 a. m.

The Fourth at Roche Harbor

A Fourth of July celebration will be held by the people of Roche Harbor and vicinity at the Scurr Bros. ranch. A fine program has been prepared. One of the features will be a baseball match between the Valley and Mitchell bay teams. There will be sports of all kinds, including high and broad jumps, foot races (100 yards and 1 mile), wheelbarrow race, potato race, and tug of war. Fine display of fireworks in the evening. Refreshments will be served on the grounds, including coffee, sandwiches, cake, ice cream, strawberries, lemonade, soda water, peanuts, candy, etc. There will be an excellent literary program, consisting of speeches, songs and recitations. The grounds will be beautifully decorated with flags and colored lanterns.

CREAMERY MEETING

All farmers interested in the organization of a farmers' creamery are requested to meet at the school house in district No. 2, Thursday evening, July 7, at 8 p. m. It is hoped that there will be a large attendance and that all will be on time.

J. M. FLEMING,
H. H. CUMMINGS,
JOHN TAYLOR,
Committee.

The ISLANDER is requested to announce that arrangements have been made for a varied program of outdoor sports here on the 4th. There will be horse races, foot races, etc., a wrestling match in the afternoon and a ball in the evening.
