H. M. Lund of Newport, Wash., was here Monday when he filed suit against the Idaho & Washington Northern Railway whereby he seeks to enjoin that corporation from occupying the streets of his town for trackage purposes. In his affidavit Mr. Lund states, in effect, that he and his wife, who joins in this action, own all of lot 19 and part of lot 14, block 12, Talmage's addition to Newport, on which they dwell and upon which they have a profitable hardware store located on one of the main streets of the town. On October 24 the aforesaid railway company with a large force of men entered in and upon the streets in the night time and by stealth undertook to lay tracks on the street in front of their place of business. That the street so occupied by a railway and sidetracks will drive the trading from the street and not only the plaintiffs but other business places on the street will be greatly injured. Notice was issued to defendants to appear before the superior court in Colville October 31 to show cause why an injunction should not issue against them.
