

Bank of Colville

Offices: Colville and Kettle Falls
Capital $100,000.00

An Exploded Notion

is that once generally held, that the bank prospers by the misfortunes of others. The bank shares in the prosperity of its depositors and its business decreases when patrons suffer losses.

Therefore the bank is interested first of all in seeing its patrons prosper. Very often its timely assistance means success to its customer when the lack of just such help would mean failure, or heavy losses. The depositor who has established a good line of credit at the bank, has a valuable resource on which he can fall back in time of need.

NOTICE OF SALE OF TIMBER ON SCHOOL LAND

Notice is hereby given that on Tuesday, the 2nd day of September, 1913, between the hours of ten o'clock in the forenoon and four o'clock in the afternoon, commencing at ten o'clock in the forenoon of said day, in front of the main entrance door to the county court house in the city of Colville, county of Stevens, State of Washington, either by the county auditor of said county, or by a member of the board of state land commissioners, the timber on the following described school land will be sold at public auction to the highest bidder therefor, to-wit:

Application No. 8663.
Timber on N½ of SE¼ of section 36, township 36 north, range 87 east W. M., containing 80 acres, more or less, appraised at $224, subject to an easement for right of way for an irrigation ditch heretofore granted to the Fruitland Irrigation Company.
Said timber on said land will be sold for not less than the appraised value, as appraised by the board of state land commissioners in the manner provided by law, a statement of which is now on file in the office of the auditor of said county.
Terms of sale are: Cash to be paid on the day of sale.
The timber on the above described lands is offered for sale in pursuance of an order of the board of state land commissioners, and an order of sale duly issued and certified by the commissioner of public lands of the state of Washington, now on file in the office of the county auditor of said county.

Notice

Notice is hereby given that the secretary of Columbia Irrigation District has completed his assessment book and turned it over to the board of directors, and the board will meet on Aug. 30th, 1913, at 2 p. m. as a board of equalization, and continue in session day after day as long as may be necessary to hear and determine such objections to the valuation and assessment as may come before them. The assessment book can be seen by persons interested, in the office of the secretary.
By order of the board of directors,
W. T. Ferguson, secretary.

Managers, Kettle Falls, Wash.

A weekly summary of events of interest to Kettle Falls and the Upper Columbia River Valley, the garden spot of the great Northwest

At the Dial Club meeting held with Mrs. J. M. Williams on July 24th. Mrs. Rudolph Petter gave a very interesting talk about the Cheyenne Indians, among whom the family have labored for many years. Mr. and Mrs. Petter came from Switzerland in the year 1890, and after spending six months at the Oberlin college in Ohio becoming familiar with our language, went immediately to their work among the Cheyenne Indians located in the region of Oklahoma. The Cheyennes are divided into two groups; one part is located in Montana and the other part in the region of Oklahoma. It is hard for them to become acclimated to the southern climate. It is not possible to change the older ones in their religious faith to any great extent but the parents are very willing that the children should come under the instructions of the missionaries. Mrs. Petter and her daughter were dressed in the costume of the Cheyennes, Miss Olga wearing a beautiful Indian dress of buckskin, trimmed profusely with colored beads. This gown was given to Olga by the mother of an Indian girl who died, out of esteem for the interest shown by the missionary family. The history of the Cheyenne tribe is one of thrilling interest from the remote time when their traditions begin. The tribe originated in Asia and passed across Canada to the vicinity of Labrador and returned to the headwaters of the Mississippi whence they were driven south by hostile tribes of Indians till they located in their present home about the time the white people invaded the valley of the Mississippi. The language of this interesting tribe is more complete in its inflections than Greek and expressive of the minutest shades of thought. The complete mastery of the language of the tribe was the road through which the missionaries were able to reach the hearts of the Indians. Mr. Petter is now engaged in compiling a dictionary of the Cheyenne language.

A good portion of the items from Kettle Falls for last week's issue got mixed up in the shuffle, and went off on another mission; a portion of the items appear in this issue.
On Saturday of last week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Lee a birthday party was given in honor of Judge Jesse Baldwin, a brother of Mrs. Lee, in the celebration of his 59th birthday.
The Party-club held bi-monthly dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. K. Jacobs. About 20 were present. After a dinner in which the inner man was fully satisfied, whist was indulged in for about two hours, Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Kelley winning the honors of the evening.
Residents of Kettle Falls of 10 years or perhaps a little less, will recall the name of T. Schweitzer, who lived for a time on the Gray place near Hortens. Mr. Schweitzer not finding farming agreeable to his taste, left there and sought a larger field for his energies to have play in. He located in Bingham, Utah. Reports say he is doing exceedingly well, is prominent in business as well as politics, is director of the Guardian Fire Insurance, as well as director of the Bingham State bank. His eldest son who was attending the Washington State College, graduated and is now professor in an agricultural college at $150 per month. It is the intention of the father and two sons to take a trip around the world as soon as the youngest son graduates from college.

Mrs. Isaac Garthe is on the sick list.
Mrs. Clarence Johnson is improving from her recent illness.
Mr. N. G. Root drove to Republic over the overland route on Tuesday with a large load of produce.
The new house of Mr. McMeekin is fast approaching completion. It is a very pretty bungalow, and reflects credit on the owner as well as the builder.
The new cement walks just finished on the corner occupied by Larsen & Kelley, is a great improvement. The workmanship is artistic and proves the foreman in the work to be a master of his trade.
Those desiring the best peaches for canning, will do well to place their orders with N. B. Wheeler of Kettle Falls. The size will be large, of the finest quality. adv
Postmaster Antoine Deloria, Gardner, Mich., speaks for the guidance of those troubled with kidney and bladder irregularities, and says: "From my own experience I can recommend Foley Kidney Pills. My father also was cured of kidney disease, and many neighbors were cured by Foley Kidney Pills." Carroll's Pharmacy.—Adv.

"Swat the Rooster!"

"Swat the rooster," says the Missouri state poultry experiment station, and this ought to be the slogan of all poultrymen as soon as the breeding season is over. Millions of dollars' worth of eggs are spoiled every summer because they are fertile, advises the Missouri station, and it is the farmers and poultry raisers who are losing this tremendous sum each year. Since an average of one egg out of five in the summer is bad, the loss from bad eggs reaches a mighty figure in every poultry state.
After the hatching season is over, there is no longer any reasonable excuse for keeping the males with the laying hens. Some people imagine that hens lay more eggs if the roosters are allowed to run with them. This is a mistake. On the contrary, careful experiments have shown that a flock of hens will actually lay more eggs if the males are not allowed with them.
Because the deterioration which takes place in an egg is not easily visible to the naked eye, as it is in fruits, vegetables, etc., people do not realize that it is one of the most perishable of all food products. This is especially true of the fertile egg. A fertile egg kept in a warm room will become unfit for eating purposes almost as quickly as milk.
It is a mistaken idea that a fertile egg has to be in an incubator or under a hen in order for the germ to begin to develop. A very large per cent of the eggs candled out every summer by carlot shippers and the wholesale egg dealers are fertile eggs in which the germ has started to develop and then died when subjected to a lower temperature, thus causing decay to set in. A fertile egg kept in a warm room or a hot country store for even twenty-four hours will be unfit for food on account of the growth of the germ.
To secure infertile eggs, kill or sell the rooster as soon as the breeding season is over, or if the bird is especially fine, and it is desired to keep him for breeding another season, confine him separately from the hens. Young cockerels need to be treated in the same manner, as they are frequently very annoying to the laying hens, particularly when of those breeds which mature early.
Infertile eggs bring more money than fertile ones during the hot summer months because every egg is a good egg

Peter C. McMillan died at his home in Kettle Falls on Wednesday morning after an illness of several months. Mr. McMillan was a bachelor, and so far as known he leaves no near relatives. He was a native of Maine. Moved to Anaconda, Montana in 1882, and engaged in mining; was one of the early prospectors at Rossland, B. C.; was one of the owners of the Ben Venue mine near the Mission, from which several carloads of ore have been shipped at a good profit to the owners. It was in this mine that bad air was encountered, that was the direct cause of Mr. McMillan's last illness. Mr. McMillan was a man naturally modest and retiring, slow to get acquainted with, but once to know him was to always respect and love him. A true friend, reliable, honest and trustworthy. The funeral was held Thursday morning. Though no relatives follow him to his last resting place there were many mourners.
Some of our local tennis players have revised their estimate of their skill at the game, having encountered Norman Baldwin, a young business man of Chicago who has been spending his vacation here.

Max Noteware of Spokane, formerly of this place, was doing business in the old home town the early part of this week.
One way to relieve habitual constipation is to take regularly a mild laxative. Doan's Regulets are recommended for this purpose; 25 cents a box at all drug stores.—Adv.

Evans News

The freight went in the ditch Saturday noon about one mile from Evans. Seven cars were pretty badly smashed up. The track was torn up for some distance. No one was hurt.
Mr. Daniel and others are now shipping ore from the Bonanza mine this week.
