

Means Fence Economy

FIRST it is durable. Think of the time you have spent in the last five years repairing and rebuilding fences of other kinds.

Also the time spent in watching your stock and the crops destroyed in spite of your carefulness.

The wire fence overcomes all of these troubles, enhances the appearance and the value of your farm and instead of having a hard, profitless job to keep the fence corners clear of weeds, you cultivate the soil now worse than wasted.

Think this over, then come in and talk wire fencing with us. We will sell you the best and cheapest fencing there is.

The band of elk liberated on Douglass mountain some weeks ago has been contentedly grazing on the side hills and summit, without moving far from the place where they were originally placed. Last week, however, James Crawford observed that they were wending their way into Mill creek valley, where a convenient alfalfa field apparently attracted them. His boys saddled their horses and drove them up the mountain side, where they have since remained.

After 12 years of service in the employ of the Indian department of the government, Clair Hunt has resigned. He surveyed much of the Colville Indian reservation and allotted the Spokane and a large portion of the Colville reservations. Mr. Hunt entered the government service in 1898 as surveyor, under Alloting Agent Harry E. Humphrey. After completing his surveying work he allotted the eastern portion of the north half of the Colville Indian reservation and with that work completed took a big contract to familiarize the Indians with the boundaries of their allotments. For two years, from 1904 to 1906, Hunt was county engineer of Stevens county and the following year again entered the employ of Uncle Sam, this time as allotting agent of the Spokane Indian reservation. After finishing that work he allotted the western portion of the south half of the Colville Indian reservation. The work of allotting the Indian lands being completed, Mr. Hunt's position ceases. His title was special allotting agent, and his work was not a part of the Indian civil service. Although Mr. Hunt has always been a republican, his particularly capable work among the Indians was responsible for his retention after the advent of the democratic administration. He has for years made a study of Indian character and lore, and his prose poems depicting Indian legends, and his collection of Indian photographs, baskets and handiwork, have received prominent mention from experts and from the government museums. The surplus lands of the Colville res-

One of the prettiest games of the season was played at Meyers Falls Sunday between Orin and Meyers Falls. Sperry and Llewellyn worked for the locals, Oaks and Mathews for the visitors. Both pitchers were stingy with hits, not allowing a man to cross the home plate until the eighth inning. B. Mathews up for the visitors struck out, Oaks getting first by being hit. Then Waddell rolled a slow one to Brigham at short who missed it, missing the opportunity to retire the visitors on a double play. Davidson dumped one on front of the plate which was fielded by Llewellyn but threw high to first letting Oaks score from second. T. Mathews, the next up rolled a slow one to third, Waddell having such a lead that Keller was forced to throw to first to catch Mathews who beat the ball and was safe. This was a very close decision for the umpire. Pittman to save Sperry, who is a very promising young pitcher, put Kizer in who made a wild pitch to Llewellyn and allowed Davidson to score from third. T. Mathews was caught at third and LeGault struck out retiring the side. The visitors put one more across in the ninth, winning by 0 to 4. Meyers Falls will play at Orin Sunday.
