Don't be a grouch, but get in and dig. You may have good reasons for souring on everything and everybody. Forget it and be a volunteer in the procession of progress and good fellowship, and by all means do not be too critical as to your neighbor's shortcomings; we all have our faults.

Postoffice Inspector Charles B. Welter of Spokane paid a visit to our city on Monday of this week and made a thorough examination of the local office. Mr. Welter found everything in first class shape and was loud in his praises of our present postmaster, and of the splendid way he had conducted the affairs of his office during the past four years. He also stated that during McKellar's term of office, that not one word of complaint had been sent into the department, which speaks well of the creditable manner in which he has filled this position.

The 32,000 motor vehicle licenses issued by this state will expire May 31. To prevent a last day rush and avoid annoying delays, I. M. Howell, secretary of state, makes this most reasonable appeal to automobile owners: "What we want is that machine owners send in their applications, accompanied by certified check, draft or money order; that they specify whether the license is for a renewal or for a new machine, and that they make application now instead of waiting until nearly the end of the month, when the great rush is on."

"We have gone down to Mexico to serve mankind, if we can find the way. We don't want to fight Mexicans. We want to serve them." In twenty-six words Woodrow Wilson has summed up not only the attitude of the administration but that of nine-tenths of the thinking people of the United States. A few jingoes want war for the sake of excitement; a few speculators would welcome it in the hope of profit. But to the majority of the American people only "a war of service"—never—"a war of aggression"—is to be justified.

Woodrow Wilson chose for secretary of the interior a western man who knows what the west needs. As one result of Franklin K. Lane's appointment the United States land office approved 40,125 entries for patent between July 1, 1913, and April 25, 1914, an increase of 4370 over the record of the preceding year. What is better, the secretary has cut a lot of red tape and declared the policy of lending every proper aid to the man who is trying to gain title to a home on the public domain.

Address Fruit Growers at Kettle Falls.

The annual meeting of the Meyers Falls branch of the Spokane Fruit Growers' Company held here Tuesday was attended by a large number of enthusiastic growers. H. F. Davidson, president of the North Pacific Fruit Distributors, informed the growers concerning organization, methods, and first year's experience of the central selling agency, and demonstrated to the entire satisfaction of his hearers that the organization is right in principle, and that it is accomplishing the objects for which it was created. The points which he called particular attention to were: First, the fact that no other organization in the country with a capital invested equal to that invested by the fruit growers of the Pacific northwest had ever progressed so far in the producing end of the business without having an adequate selling agency under its control. Second, he contrasted the two systems of distribution—the one being that owned and controlled by the commission concerns, whose object he said was always to force as wide a margin as possible between the price that the grower received and that which the consumer paid—the other being that owned and controlled by the growers themselves, the chief object of which is to market the product at cost, and thereby give the consumer the benefit and increase consumption, at the same time allowing a fair margin of profit to the grower.

Mr. Dorman made a brief statement regarding the conditions of the local branch, and then reviewed the year's business, and pointed out the fact that the growers of the Spokane district, in spite of the fact that a high percentage of their product was of varieties which tended to put their sale at a disadvantage, nevertheless, because of the fine grade and pack had made a place on the eastern markets. He called attention to the fact that the orchardists of this district were giving their orchards better attention this season than they had ever before, and that the younger orchards which would bear quite heavily this season were of the varieties most sought after on the markets. As a consequence he felt that with the aid of the remarkable trade names and labels which had been copyrighted by the local company, "Redshin" and "Sunset," the fruit from this district would this season take its place in the front rank with the best of the older districts.

The following were elected as directors of the local branch for the ensuing year: Fred Sengfelder, A. A. McDonald, Fred Carlisle, S. J. Ensminger, Charles J. Webb and John Olson. Charles J. Webb was re-elected as a member of the board of trustees of the Spokane company to represent this local.
