World's Record Dairy Cows and Herds at the Spokane Fair

THE educational functions of the Spokane Interstate Fair have been advancing each year and have been factors of the strongest nature in the upbuilding of the agricultural interests of the Inland Empire.

Dairying—more dairying—has been the talk of the empire builders for years, and each year the Interstate Fair has been the one exposition in which all the new herds and appliances for dairying have been gathered together for the education of the people.

The dairy display at the Spokane Fair this year will see five of the old herds that have previously displayed and at least three new herds from the Inland Empire. The Spokane country now has two cows that hold world's records, and one herd has already carried off the sweepstakes at the Chicago exhibition.

Northwest breeders have no fear these days when they are placed in competition with the world on milk cows.

One of the best educational features for the dairyman at the Spokane Fair will be the large exhibit of dairy appliances which is promised by the manufacturers this year. Not only will the producers exhibit, but both the Washington State college and the University of Idaho will show the most approved and sanitary methods of caring for cattle and producing butter fat products.

The model creamery, which has become a feature of the Spokane dairy exhibit, will be operated again this year.

The second annual Dairymen's congress at the Fair grounds has been arranged for Thursday, Sept. 17, and a long list of noted speakers and demonstrators will be present to explain modern methods of culture and manufacturing. George W. Sisson of Potsdam, N. Y., will judge the dairy exhibits at the Fair this year and will be one of the speakers at the Dairymen's congress. He is one of the best known dairy experts in the United States and judged at the National Dairy Show and the Minnesota State Fair last year.

Drain Tile

Everybody knows what cement is—many know what cement drain tile are.

Compare the cement drain tile with the ordinary clay tile as to price, quality, adaptability and service, and you will readily see the many advantages of the cement drain tile.

Cement drain tile will allow the drainage to seep through the tile as well as the joint, which is a great advantage in draining land. They are made sufficiently strong to withstand a heavy pressure and will not deteriorate nor crumble with age, which is the case in common clay tile.

Made in sizes of 4-6-8-10-12 inch, all one foot in length. Write us and we will be pleased to have our representative call on you and demonstrate this tile.
