With England now the mistress of the top of the sea, and Germany in control of the bottom of the sea, the republicans who were in charge of this government for so long can now point to excellent reasons for not building up a navy or a merchant marine for the United States. They were as far-sighted then as they are now when looking toward office.

The state fair at North Yakima, it is announced, has proved a financial success, the first time in years the big 1915 meet has shown a handsome cash balance on hand, and while it may seem presumptuous on the part of some to mention it, yet it is said that Governor Lister by his presence and by enlisting his personal interest in the enterprise rendered a great service to the management in bringing results. And there was no partisanship about it either.

"I had a count made not long ago in the library of congress," says Elihu Root, "of the number of laws that had been passed in five years ending December 1, 1913. I found that more than 62,000 laws had been passed by congress and the state legislatures in this country in that five years, and I found that there had been reported during that five years and published in 630 volumes of reports of the courts more than 65,000 decisions of courts of last resort in this country. Now, not even Mr. Choate knows all of them by heart. How can you conduct your business and keep out of jail?"

S. W. Straus, president of the American Society for Thrift, has given the American people these startling facts to think over: According to government statistics, 98% of us live from day to day on our wages. A loss of employment would mean pauperism to all but 2% of us. Of 20,250,000 families, less than 6,000,000 own their homes, 11,000,000 being renters. There are 878,798,325 acres of farm land in the United States, slightly over half of which are improved. Discarded tin cans, kitchen utensils, etc., gathered off dump heaps of large cities in one year, produced material valued at $14,000,000. Out of every 100 who die, 66 leave no property; of the 34 who do, 9 leave more than $5,000 worth, the balance less than $1300 each. At the age of sixty-five, 97 out of every 100 of us are partly or wholly dependent upon relatives or the public.

May Arkwright Hutton, one of the best known women in the northwest, died at her home in Spokane Wednesday as a result of Bright's disease. She was born in Ohio 55 years ago, and for nearly 40 years has been identified with the Coeur d'Alenes and Spokane. She was an author, a suffragist worker until women were given a vote in this state, a humanitarian with countless deeds of charity to her credit, and an active worker in democratic politics. Her ability, her wealth, and her desire to serve humanity, have made for her a name which is worth while.

Mrs. Frances K. Headlee, secretary of the state industrial welfare commission, was in Colville the first of the week, checking up working conditions and wages of girls. She found several cases of non-compliance with the wage law for girls, and secured payment for past work in some cases, and failed in others. It was found that no particular effort had ever been made by the commission to give information to employers of this vicinity as to the provisions of the law, and that violations were results in most cases of total ignorance as to any such laws. It is found that occasionally a girl will lose her position as a result of the law's enforcement.

When you open the door of your store or home tomorrow morning and have things started for the day, forget for once that you are a merchant, step outside of your store and look at the surroundings you are working in as if you were a man who wanted to locate in that town. Then approach your store and go through it and see if the service you are giving is the kind of service that a good live stranger would welcome enough to want to live near you.

Look over the street your store and home is on and see if it is the kind of a street that a stranger would like to find himself on every day and by night and especially the town life during those many hours and see if the spirit of your town expressing itself in the towns' doings, is the kind of town spirit that would make you want to live there.

Three employers were induced to pay to Mrs. Headlee the delinquent wage claimed to be due the girls employed by them. Inasmuch as the law does not authorize Mrs. Headlee to collect this money, the admission of guilt puts the matter up to the prosecuting attorney to prosecute on the admitted violations of state law. Two proprietors of mercantile houses refused to make payment, and their cases will also be argued in court.

As a result of the investigations, several girls employed in stores and offices will be discharged and boys employed instead. One professional man stated that he will employ a boy for $6 per week who will not only attend to the office work but also take care of his car and drive him over the country any hour of the night. The minimum wage scale in offices is $10 per week. It was discovered by Mrs. Headlee that some girls were being paid $6 a week, and some were getting less. In some of the cases the girls expressed themselves as entirely satisfied with what they were getting. Some of the men who were hiring girls in offices at $6 state that they can get all the men they want to work at that price, who will spend the day in the office and devote time in the evening at chore work.

A ton of timothy hay removes as much from the soil as do 12 tons of butter. While a ton of hay sells for perhaps $10, the 12 tons of butter would bring from $5000 to $9000. A ton of pork valued at $111 removes fertility worth $5.70 to the soil, while the ton of butter removes only 77c worth of fertility from the ground. The grain farmer takes fertility from the soil in one year what the butter farmer removes in 39 years

Senator Wesley L. Jones was a guest of the Chamber of Commerce Saturday evening at a luncheon at Craven's, and spoke briefly on matters of interest to this vicinity, giving some of his experiences relative to the Colville reservation legislation, and expressing a desire that congressmen be kept in closer touch with the desires of the people. In the evening he gave an enjoyable talk at the opera house on Washington City, showing a number of lantern views of the nation's capital.

NOTES OF MINING

Alexander Sharp of Victoria, B. C., where he is operating some mining property, was here this week looking over the First Thought mine at Orient in contemplation of resuming operations there, at least in a moderate way. Mr. Sharp states that the First Thought is by no means abandoned, and that if the present activity in mines continues here he may return next spring and renew development. He returned to the coast Monday.

Bunkhouses and a boarding house have been erected at the Old Dominion, a gasoline blower has been installed at the lower tunnel, and the first car of ore from the mine under present management will be shipped this week. About 15 men are employed at the mine, and the timbering of the long tunnel is to be pushed along as rapidly as conditions will permit.

J. W. Douglas, who is associated with Volney D. Williamson in the development of the Mayflower group of mining claims at Chewelah, which they recently bonded provisionally for $20,000, was in Colville Monday and Tuesday arranging details with reference to the titles to these properties. It is reported that the Mayflower shows 9 feet of ore within 50 feet of surface which assays $50 to the ton in gold and silver values.

Conrad Wolfe, president of the United Copper at Chewelah, has denied that there is any basis to the rumor that the Day interests have optioned that mine, stating that the mine is under option to eastern capital having no connection with the Day people. The stamp mill is running 74 batteries, and 75 men are treating 250 tons of ore daily at the mill.

The Double Eagle properties of 4 claims and 200 acres, 12 miles west of Valley, are showing some excellent samples of silver and lead. M. Kulzer of Valley is president of this company, and the principal stockholders consist of about a dozen men of Valley and vicinity. Four men have been working on the property for a year or more. The tunnel is in 467 feet, heading toward the slate contact at a depth of 300 feet. The best values are found in the slate contact, one assay running $1000 silver, and another some 70% lead. There is a good road leading westward to the railroad, and shipment is expected to start by snow time.

The Old Dominion Silver-Lead Mining company shipped a car of ore to Tacoma this week. This was the first shipment made from this mine since reworking of the property last spring. James Stevens, who is working over the old dump at the Old Dominion, has shipped five cars of ore.

Sig Dilsheimer, L. E. Jesseph and Bliss Phillips, who purchased the Cleveland mine some five years ago at tax sale for $5, have bonded the property to Coeur d'Alene and Spokane parties for $16,000 on a long time royalty option. A 50-ton concentrator will be installed. It is said there is enough lead ore in sight to pay for the mine.

Arrangements are being made for a joint initiation by the Knights of Pythias lodges of Colville, Rosland, Grand Forks, Chewelah, Marcus and Deer Park, to be held at Colville Oct. 25. The Colville lodge has been doing considerable work this summer and fall, and at the next meeting will confer the rank of knight upon three esquires.
