NEWS IN COLVILLE

Members of the Past Noble Grand club of the Rebekah order spent Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Victor Baird in east Colville. The hours were spent in sewing.

Miss Lillian Shackleton, after few days visit at the home of Mrs. Jane Hofstetter, returned to Spokane Tuesday, accompanied by Mrs. L. M. McFarland, who spent a few days in the metropolis. The trip was made in the Shackleton auto.

Mayor R. J. Townsend states that an extra force of marshals will be on duty Halloween evening, Oct. 31, to apprehend any mischief-seeking youths. Any one destroying or damaging property must suffer the penalty.

Judge A. F. Perkins, who went to Spokane to attend the interstate fair, contracted a severe cold and has not sufficiently recovered to return home.

Chauncey St. Clair has added a large wall case to his store fixtures. The case has seven shelves and three large double doors. Two shelves are also under the case. The case is now used for the display of pipes, but next spring will be used for displaying a large stock of fishing tackle. The case was manufactured by Jim Hendricks.

H. C. Smith, proprietor of the Colville Nursery and Greenhouses, a mile east of town, has opened a floral store in the Prindle block, corner of First and Wynne. This store is a substantial benefit to Colville. It will be one of the first business houses encountered by transient visitors coming up from the depot, and the beautiful floral showings in the windows are certain to create a pleasing impression of the town, as it is a reflection of credit to the citizens who support such an institution. Flowers are the most popular luxuries in demand in all ranks of social standing. They carry tokens of sympathy, friendship and love on all occasions, and the establishing of this store by Mr. Smith will afford the citizens of Colville a convenience in securing plants and flowers to embellish their homes and offices. It is hoped that the volume of business will be sufficient to maintain the store the year round. The store will be open from 9 a. m. until 6 p. m., and on Saturdays from 9 until 9. No deliveries will be made except on large floral pieces and very heavy plants of extra size, as the business does not yet warrant a delivery system. Next month Mr. Smith will have a chrysanthemum show, which promises to be popular. The date of the show will be announced later. The building in which the floral store is located has been calcimined and painted. The tables are all painted white, and the flower pots are neatly covered with crepe paper, making the place an up-to-date and inviting conservatory. It is the intention of Mr. Smith to build a greenhouse plant next year on his ranch east of Colville in order to save a large amount of wood hauling, as the greenhouses will have to be rebuilt anyway. Mr. Smith has been in the nursery business here the last eight years, and by constant application to the work his business has steadily increased, until now the plant must be enlarged. This success is a silent tribute to Mr. Smith's ability as a florist.

F. A. Empey, of Spokane, once a resident and business man of Meyers Falls, was in Colville during the past week looking after his real estate interests.

Miss Mary Jones and Ivan Woodard of Threeforks, were married Wednesday by Rev. H. Lorensen, a Congregational minister.

H. R. Williams was a Spokane business visitor Wednesday.

George Stenger was transacting business in Spokane Wednesday.

Mrs. Harry C. Cranke came up from Spokane Wednesday for a short visit with Mrs. W. J. Jackson. She went to Marcus Thursday evening for a few days visit with her sister Mrs. Geo. Jessee.

Thomas Hydorn this week sold to T. E. Yeager 160 acres of land in section 32, township 33, 38, about one mile southeast of Maud postoffice, for a consideration of $6,500. As a part of the consideration Mr. Hydorn took over a hotel in Malden which he has already taken charge of.

The United States has granted to Viola May Starr patent to sew 1/4 ne 1/4 and n 1/2 se 1/4 and ne 1/4 sw 1/4, sec 28, twp 33, r 42.

State Senator Harve H. Phipps, of Spokane, yesterday closed a deal with S. H. Tweedell, also of Spokane, for 1000 acres of timber and agricultural lands situated in the Onion creek basin about seven miles south of Northport. The lands will be converted into a dairy farm and will be highly improved for diversified farming.

Mr. and Mrs. George W. Dexter arrived in Colville Friday evening, after a five months visit in the east. They visited in Baltimore with their son G. A. Dexter, and at Grand Rapids, Mich., with another son, C. S. Dexter. They also visited other relatives at various places in the east. On the return trip they stopped at Los Angeles, San Diego and San Francisco, taking in both fairs. They also visited relatives in Portland, and friends in Seattle. They expect to leave today for their farm home near Meyers Falls.

Tuesday evening the Great Northern depot at Colville was entered through a window and the express department ransacked. The burglars secured little for their trouble, as the mail sacks contained only second, third and fourth class mail, which includes papers, catalogs, etc. The first class mail is kept in the postoffice over night and the mail made up in the morning for the early train. The robbers took a pound box of candy and opened several express packages, evidently looking for clothing, but none was found and the packages were left with their contents. About $1.50 was secured from the depot till. Very little clue was left.

Charles Dunn, Ed. McKay, Johnny Miller spent Sunday on Douglass mountain, returning in the evening with a deer shot by Mr. Dunn.

Cleo Campbell, after a few days visit with relatives in this city, left Friday for Hunters, where she will teach this winter.

LIVESTOCK SHOW

The success of the second annual show and sale of the Stevens County Livestock Association, held in Colville this week, is a credit to the officers, who have labored diligently in the interests of the association. The officers are: President, Alex Morrison of Valley; vice president, J. W. Reynolds, Meyers Falls; secretary, Earle T. Gates, treasurer, C. M. Baker, Colville. The various committees are composed of capable men from all over Stevens county. The association was organized in 1913 for the promotion of the livestock industry, and affords a great benefit to stock men operating on a large scale. All parts of Stevens county were represented at the show by leading stock ranchers, and over 200 head of blooded stock were on the fair grounds. The largest entry was made by Mr. Morrison, who brought up 25 Shorthorns, and the second largest entry was that of H. T. Skeels of Addy, with a herd of eight Jerseys. A large crowd was in attendance. For the convenience of the public, automobile transportation was made to the fair grounds for the nominal sum of 10c. Good accommodations for the care of stock were offered at the grounds and the parades Thursday and Friday afternoons on the grounds exhibited a march of purebred animals several blocks in length. As the procession of purebreds marched along it furnished convincing evidence of the result of breeding for better stock.

At the sales Thursday and Friday afternoons, following the parade, all the stock offered for sale was sold at good prices. The auctioneers were M. A. Daggy, Wm. Buckley of Colville and Harry C. Cranke of Spokane.

C. E. Howell, instructor of animal husbandry at the Washington State College at Pullman, officiated as judge of livestock, and Prof. A. B. Nystrom of the dairy department of the same college, conducted the juvenile judging contest.

Prizes on stock were awarded as follows:

CATTLE. Holstein—James Crawford; first, bull, Gus Selle; first, second, third, cow, second, bull, J. A. Newcomb; third, bull, Joseph W. Reynolds; first, bull; first, second, heifers, W. J. Wilson; third, cow, Mrs. S. E. Bradley; first, second, bull calves, H. T. Skeels; first, second, cow. Shorthorns—Alexander Morrison; five firsts, three seconds, two thirds, J. W. Vincent of Chewah; two firsts, one second, one third, C. M. Baker; second, bull, O. Peterson; third, bull, Willbur Dupuis; third, bull, Lars Johnson; first, bull.

Percheron—Merle Clair; first, stallion, Alfonso Dupuis; second, gelding, Joe Reynolds; second, mare, A. P. Bennett; first, mare. German Coach—G. B. Ide; first, second, mare. Standard bred—Lars Johnson; first, mare.

HOGS AND SHEEP. Berkshires—James Crawford; second, boar, C. M. Baker; first, boar; first, second, sows. Lincoln sheep—George W. Lockie; first, for best herd; second, for best ram, Thomas Graham; second, for best herd; first, for best ram.

SPECIAL PRIZES. The Portland stock yards by C. M. McAllister offered $10 to the boy or girl who is the best judge of hogs—Won by Herb Story, Chewelah. P. H. Graham offered a Holstein calf to the boy or girl who is the best judge of Holstein cattle—Mabel Foudray, Marcus, first; Pearl Foudray, second. J. M. Baker offered a pig to the best girl or boy judge of Shorthorns—Second, James Lorrain, Chewelah. W. C. Reynolds offered a Hampshire pig to the boy or girl who is the best judge of hogs—Benson Crouch, second. James McCroskey offered $5 for second best judge of hogs—Bryon Barber, Chewelah. To the boy or girl who was the best judge of all stock, a trip to the Cascade international stock show at Yakima, November 22-27, 1915—James Lorrain, Chewelah. A. Morrison offered $10 to best judge (under 18 years) of Shorthorn cattle—First, Alice Sell, Northport. D. G. McKenzie offered $5 for third best judge of Shorthorn cattle—Joe Hall, Chewelah. W. C. Todd offered a purebred Berkshire gilt to boy under 21 who proved himself to be the best judge of Berkshires. This gilt was farrowed by Cassandra 9th 188983, sired by Artful Premier B 3d 122481, and is worth $40 to $50—Herb Story, Chewelah.

The association endeavors to make the annual shows educational events in the livestock business, and the addresses given at the Colville theater Wednesday and Thursday were valuable assets to that end. The speakers were all from the Washington State College, as follows: Wednesday, A. B. Nystrom, professor of dairy husbandry, and C. E. Howell, instructor in the animal husbandry department. Thursday, Dr. S. B. Nelson, veterinarian, and Prof. W. K. Whitaker of the poultry department. Tuesday and Thursday evenings concerts were given on Main street by the Colville band, under the leadership of Niel Thomas. On Friday forenoon and afternoon the Chewelah band of 36 pieces, directed by A. D. Plum, rendered several selections.

A banquet was given Thursday evening for the stock men by the chamber of commerce at the Star cafe, at which short talks were made by some visiting professors and by local men.

All the entries were made by Stevens county stock men, as follows:

Hogs—James Crawford, Colville, two entries, Berkshires; A. P. Bennett, Colville, one entry, Duroc Jersey; H. T. Skeels, Addy, one Berkshire; Frank Mitchel, Colville, two Poland Chinas; C. M. Baker, Colville, six Berkshires.

Sheep—G. W. Lockie, Colville, three Lincolns; Alex Morrison, Valley, two Delanies; Thos. Graham, Arden, two Lincolns; Earle T. Gates, Colville, one Shropshire and one Southdown.

Cattle, Holsteins—James Crawford, bull; Gus Selle, Colville, herd of four; G. B. Ide, Colville, two; Thos. Bell, Colville, heifer; J. A. Newcomb, Colville, bull; Joe Reynolds, Meyers Falls, herd of four.

Shorthorns—Alex Morrison, 25, C. M. Baker, O. Peterson of Bossburg, Lars Johnson and William Dupuis of Colville and D. G. McKenzie of Springdale, each one.

Jerseys—H. T. Skeels, Addy, herd of eight; T. E. Bradley, Daisy, herd of five; Hezie Skeels, Addy, one.

Horses—Frank Habein, Alfonso Dupuis, M. F. Belknap and A. P. Bennett, Colville, each one Percheron; Lars Johnson, Shire and Standard Bred, two; G. B. Ide, two German coach mares.

The fall exhibit of the Stevens County Poultry Association, preliminary to the annual show which will be held later, was held in connection with the stock show and proved a greater success than anticipated. Chicken fanciers from Stevens, Ferry and Spokane counties were here, and every coop was filled, representing nearly every variety of birds. Plans are being formulated to hold the annual poultry show in February instead of January as heretofore, to give the chicken fanciers an opportunity to meet with the stock men during their institute. Prizes were not competed for at this time, but ribbons were awarded, the judge being Prof. W. R. Whitaker of the poultry department of Pullman. The ribbon winners are:

Barred Rocks—Mrs. Frank Kostka; first, cock; first, second, third, hen; second, cockerel; first, second, third, pullet; first, second, pen, G. B. Ide; first and third, cockerel; third pen. White Rocks—Joe Cleator; first, cock; first, second, third, hen. Buff Rocks—J. M. Riley, Ferry, Washington; first, cockerel; first, second, third, pullet; first, pen. Single Comb Reds—B. F. Morrison, Valley, Washington; first, second, third, pair. Turkeys—Mrs. W. D. Estey; first, second, gobbler; first, hen.

The chicken industry is rapidly coming to the front, and with such men in charge of the association as the present officers, success is imminent. The president is Walter Gammage, and secretary is Joe Cleator. The annual show promises to be a pronounced success, as no pains are being spared in arranging for the exhibition. Special effort will be made to make a success of the utility class.

The Stevens County Children's Agricultural and Industrial fair was held at the fair grounds Friday. During the preceding ten days district fairs were held at Hunters, Daisy, Kettle Falls, Marcus, Northport, Chewelah and Loon Lake. County Horticulturist J. A. Hughes of Okanogan county was present and gave talks to the children on the organization of girls' and boys' clubs. The exhibits were excellent, and showed great industrial and artistic ability in Stevens county youths.

In the death of Judge Herman D. Crow, one of the justices of the supreme court of the state of Washington, the people of Stevens county mourn the loss of a leading citizen and pioneer of the state whom they have delighted to honor by their voice and franchise in elevating him to a seat in the highest judicial tribunal of the commonwealth. In the early days, as a practicing attorney, he frequently visited the courts of Stevens county where he left the imprint of his high order of integrity; and among the associations he formed on the civic side of life he created many devout and lasting friendships. He was a man of diligence and what he accomplished he worked for, and as the years accumulated Judge Crow grew in intellectual capacity and ability in fulfillment of purpose until his strength as a jurist of the first rank was far more than state wide. Politically Judge Crow was a republican during his whole life, but when the judiciary was by law rendered, to all intents and purposes, non-partisan, he went to the bench with the full confidence of the people in his sincerity to his pledge to freedom from party bias—a confidence which he never betrayed. He served as chief justice of the supreme court with becoming grace and dignity and his career as a lawyer, jurist and statesman will ever be a beacon light to the profession. Judge Frederick Bausman, of Seattle, whom Governor Ernest Lister has appointed to succeed Judge Crow on the supreme bench, goes to his new duties as one of the few men in the state best equipped in legal learning and experience to immediately enter into the activities of the high office. He is 52 years of age and has been in the active practice of the law in this state for more than a quarter of a century during which time he has represented every phase of the work that comes to the profession, and can be denominated, in the highest sense of the term, a successful lawyer. The appointment of Judge Bausman exemplifies the wisdom of Governor Lister in selecting the highest quality of material for the official machinery of the commonwealth. He will take the oath of office November 1.

Evans

Miss Neva Turner and Arthur T. Cherry were united in marriage at Bossburg in the Congregational church Oct. 24, by Rev. J. W. Donovan of Meyers Falls. The wedding dinner was held at the home of the bride's aunt, Mrs. M. C. Read. The couple were recipients of many beautiful gifts. A jolly bunch of Bossburgers gave the charivari with the usual paraphernalia.

The ladies of Evans attended the Ladies Aid at Mrs. Hugh Keneday's at Bossburg Tuesday.

The farmers in this vicinity are having a hard time securing cars for their hay. At present those shipping are C. P. Hunt, C. A. Lewis, Bruce creek; A. Blens, Farnsworth; Chas. Charlott, and Lewis Searle.
