

DON'T SCOLD FRETFUL CHILDREN.

That nervousness, fretting and restlessness is no doubt caused by worms or constipation. Instead of whipping or scolding, give your child a treatment of Kickapoo Worm Killer. Nice candy confections that kill the worms and are laxative enough to move the bowels and expel not only the worms but the accumulated poisons. These poisons and worms bring on fever, make children nervous and irritable, reduce their vitality and make them victims of sickness. Get a box of Kickapoo Worm Killer today at your druggist, only 25c.—Adv.

German Women as Soldiers. Something like a century ago Prussia rose against Napoleon, who was already weakened by the retreat from Moscow, and with the help of the Austrians and also of a very large body of Russians managed to drive the French army over the frontier, after defeating it in the tremendous two day struggle at Leipzig. It appears that certain women played a prominent part in this fighting. Seventeen daughters of Prussia were at the front during this momentous conflict. They were most capable as soldiers, able to command and able to obey, as well as being capable of withstanding the hardships of campaigning. To cite some instances, Maria Werder, a woman of Silesia, was allowed to serve as a hussar in the same regiment as her husband, who was a wealthy landowner. Eleonora Prochaska is one of the better known of these heroines. She engaged, under the name of "Carl Renz," in the Light Horse when only eighteen, and several poets have sung of her courage. A monument to her memory stands in Potsdam.—Washington Star.

Some National Flowers. Every one knows of the rose, shamrock and thistle as the floral emblems of England, Ireland and Scotland and the leek, though not a flower, for Wales. The sugar maple leaf is the emblem of Canada. Other nations and cities have all their floral emblems, and the lily seems to be the favorite. Italy has chosen the lily and also the city of Florence, known affectionately as "Giglio," which means lily, and the city itself is spoken of as "the Flower of Cities and the City of Flowers." France, of course, has the lily in the fleur-de-lis. Germany's is the cornflower, while Prussia's choice is the linden tree, and the most famous thoroughfare in Berlin is known as the Unter den Linden. Spain's emblem is the pomegranate, and its wonderful city of Granada is named after that fruit. Egypt, with the glories of the Nile, appropriately chooses the lotus. Athens has the violet, while Saxony has the sweet scented mignonette.—Pearson's Weekly.

Court Humor. A legal journal gives the following instances of humor in German courts: In Berlin an ironworker was sent to prison because he had laughed at a policeman. It appears that as this man was proceeding along a street one day his risibilities were aroused by the sight of a particularly stout policeman giving chase to a dog. The offender was promptly haled to court and "sent up" for scandal.

A German in attempting to board a moving train fractured his leg. After six months in a hospital he was discharged, whereupon the state railway department at once prosecuted him for "infringement of regulations." He was fined a sum equivalent to $5.

Upon entering an omnibus a man trod on the foot of a woman, who was so incensed by the incident that she remarked that he walked like a hen. For this term of reproach the lady was fined 20 marks.

Fifteenth Century Artists. Artists in Italy in the fifteenth century were little better off than small shopkeepers. This is shown by the dowries they usually gave their daughters, which varied from $1,040 to $2,080, and it is related as an extraordinary instance that Andrea Mantegna gave his daughter $2,000 at the time of her marriage, which was about the close of the fifteenth century. Michelangelo, Raphael and Titian were the only painters of the fifteenth century who succeeded in attaining a position of ease. Michelangelo at his death left about $48,000, besides some real estate, to his nephew, Leonardo. Raphael's property was estimated to be worth $185,000, while Durer was worth at the time of his death only $31,050. In those days, however, pensions were frequently given to artists by sovereigns and cities.

Thorn Hedge of Ypres. The town with the unpronounceable name, Ypres, once proved literally too thorny a problem for English besiegers. When Henry Spencer, bishop of Norwich, led his troops against it they tried in vain again and again to pierce the mass of thorn bushes that lined the exterior slopes of the ramparts; hence the image of Notre Dame-de-Thuine, "Our Lady of the Garden," in the Cathedral of St. Martin at Ypres and also the fair of Thunday, fixed for the first Sunday in August in honor of the thorn hedge that saved the city.—London Opinion.

Educated Men. It is the worst of educated men that they cannot speak about any great question till they have read everything that has been written about it, for fear that some one should say, "But have you read Schwartzburg?" Then, if they have not read Schwartzburg, they are done.—Tolstoy.

Real Power. Nodd—Do you think it is true that a great, nay a gigantic force, like the press of this country, is controlled by the advertisers? Topp—Why not the press? My wife is.—Life.

He Heard. Diner—I've forgotten what I wanted to order, and I had it on the tip of my tongue. Waiter—What did you say about a tip, sir?—Brooklyn Times.

Boys in Spain. In Spain boys under sixteen are not allowed to lift or carry more than sixteen pounds or push or draw heavy loads.
