

A weekly summary of events of interest to Kettle Falls and the Upper Columbia River Valley, the garden spot of the great Northwest

KETTLE FALLS HIGH SCHOOL NOTES.

The Chewelah high school basketball team defeated the local team last Friday night by a score of 41 to 24. The game was swift from beginning to end, but the Kettle Falls boys were too light to hold down the heavier players of the Chewelah five. Story and Curtis were the stars for Chewelah. The line-up was: Chewelah—L. LeVigne and C. LeVigne, forwards; Story, center; Curtis and Spedden, guards. Kettle Falls—Hart and Setzer, forwards; Roy, center; Brigham and Keyser, guards. Referee and umpire, Coach Schroeder and Coach Cornelius.

The girls' basketball team of Chewelah played the local girls before the Chewelah versus Kettle Falls boys game, and the game was determined in favor of the local team by a score of 15 to 7. The game was well played throughout, the basket throwing of Miss Smith of Kettle Falls being the sensational feature. The girls' line-up was: Chewelah—Doran and Brown, forwards; Ross, center; Gilson and Mentzel, guards. Kettle Falls—Smith and Johnson, forwards; Weigelt, center; Root and Llewellyn, guards. Referee and umpire, Miss Storer and Miss Maupin.

The student again has a smiling face—semester examinations are a thing of the past.

Kettle Falls has challenged Colville first team for a basketball game, but as yet have received no reply.

DAISY.

Wm. Pea of Covalda is visiting Chas. Pea, who is on the sick list.

E. F. Taylor returned from Spokane Saturday, where he had been called as a witness in the federal court.

J. E. Richey sold 18 head of fat hogs to Mr. Miller of Meyers Falls Saturday. Jan. Burrows assisted him in delivering them Tuesday.

Roy Bishop went to Meyers Falls Tuesday with a load of cream for the Hazelwood Company of Spokane.

The heavy ice in the Columbia river has frozen in the ferry boats at several points. It is reported people are crossing on the ice at Edendale.

Mr. Conroy, traveling passenger agent for the G. N. Ry., who owns an orchard tract in Edendale, was a visitor here Tuesday last.

Chas. Webb has gone to Ford, Wash., to work in a sawmill.

J. J. Charlton, who owns what is known as the Burkhardt orchard west of town and is now teaching in the Pleasant Valley schools was a visitor here Thursday. Mr. Charlton expects to build on his place in the spring and make this his future home.

A commercial club was formed here Monday night. Its purpose is to promote the upbuilding of the Daisy vicinity and the Columbia river valley in general and the opening of the Colville reservation. The permanent officers of the organization elected for the ensuing year are: C. P. Farmer, president; Chas. C. Hall, vice president; D. A. Setzer, secretary; Roy L. Bishop, treasurer. A committee consisting of C. S. Summers, E. F. Taylor and C. R. Grimes was appointed to draft by-laws and report at the next meeting, Monday evening, Jan. 24. C. R. Childs, H. F. Stalder and O. F. Bolen were appointed as an advertising committee. It is expected the opening of the Colville Indian reservation will bring thousands of strangers to this section of the state, and it is proposed to show these visitors that this is the best section of any state to make a home in.

F. S. Ball and wife, Mesdames Louise Sackett, O. M. Richardson and Mabel Pea, were guests at the home of J. W. Maxwell and family of Maud, Wash., Tuesday.

GIFFORD FAVORS COLVILLE.

Greable and resolutions passed by Gifford State Road Association concerning opening of the South Half Colville Indian Reservation.

Whereas, congress nine years ago passed an act providing for settlement of the South Half of the Colville Indian Reservation under certain prescribed rules and specifications; and Whereas, the provisions of that act have not been carried out or put into effect, owing to apparent intent of the Indian department to delay, obstruct or nullify enforcement of said law, therefore, we, members of the State Road Association of Gifford, Stevens county, Washington, in regular meeting assembled on the 9th day of January, 1916, have passed the following resolutions:

First—We most severely condemn the action of the department of Indian Affairs at Washington in delaying the opening of the South Half of the Colville Indian Reservation, ignoring or evading the act of congress relating thereto, and the disposition still shown by the department to obstruct, evade or amend said law.

Second—The unwillingness shown by the chief officers of the Indian department to make a report to the U. S. Senate, or submit to an investigation, as proposed by Senator Poindexter, causes well grounded suspicion that they fear the light of publicity and probable public censure.

Third—That the opening of this reservation will give opportunity to many hundred families to secure homes; will aid in developing an unsettled or sparsely settled region, and in a few years will add immensely to the material wealth of an important section of the state.

Fourth—That we are unalterably opposed to the proposal to set aside large tracts of the reservation as forest reserves for the benefit of the Indians and people of mixed blood residing thereon. We consider this entirely uncalled for, as all such persons have received individual allotments of the choicest lands, and liberal provision has been made even for children yet unborn.

Fifth—That we firmly believe that all agricultural, grazing and timber lands on the reservation should at the earliest practicable time be made available for homestead entry by actual settlers in tracts of not exceeding 160 acres to each entryman. We are decidedly opposed to large areas being withheld for leasing, renting, or for any purpose whatsoever, contrary to that above described. That if the proposed opening shall be held on the registration plan as pursued on the Flathead and Coeur d'Alene reservations, we most heartily commend to your favorable consideration, Colville as a most accessible and convenient point for a registration office. It is the largest town in the county, has rail connections north and south, the first class hotel accommodations, and is within convenient distance over good roads to the reservation.

Seventh—That our thanks are due and are hereby extended to Senators Jones and Poindexter, and Representative C. C. Dill for their firm and uncompromising attitude in opposing the obstructive policy of Commissioner Seals of the Indian department, and that the gentlemen be furnished with copies of these resolutions.

S. C. STURMAN, President, P. L. STICKNEY, Secretary.

FOR RHEUMATISM.

As soon as an attack of rheumatism begins apply Sloan's Liniment. Don't waste time and suffer unnecessary agony. A few drops of Sloan's Liniment on the affected parts is all you need. The pain goes at once. A grateful sufferer writes: "I was suffering for three weeks with chronic rheumatism and stiff neck, although I tried many medicines, they failed. Fortunately I heard of Sloan's Liniment and after using it three or four days am up and well. I am employed at the biggest department store in S. F. where they employ from six to eight hundred hands, and they surely will hear all about Sloan's Liniment.—H. B. Smith, San Francisco, Cal.—Jan. 1915. 25c at all druggists.—Adv.

RECIPES FOR GRAY HAIR.

To half pint of water add 1 oz. Bay Rum, a small box of Barbo Compound, and 4 oz. of glycerine. Apply to the hair twice a week until it becomes the natural shade. Any druggist can put this up or you can mix it at home at very little cost. Full directions for making and use come in each box of Barbo Compound. It will gradually darken streaked, faded, gray hair, and removes dandruff. It is excellent for falling hair and will make harsh hair soft and glossy. It will not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy, and does not rub off.

OUR JITNEY OFFER—This and 5c.

Don't miss this. Cut out this slip, enclose with five cents to Foley & Co., Chicago, Ill., writing your name and address clearly. You will receive in return a trial package containing Foley's Honey and Tar Compound, for coughs, colds and croup, Foley Kidney Pills, and Foley Cathartic Tablets. Carroll's Pharmacy.—Adv.

PASSING OF A PIONEER.

(By John B. Slater, Secretary and Historian of Stevens County Pioneer Association.)

James Monaghan, whose name is inseparably linked with the history and development of the state of Washington during the last 58 years, after a long illness, passed peacefully away at his home in the city of Spokane, on January 11, 1916. Dislocation came, as of one at peace with the world and with profound confidence in the promise of reward in the future life abounding in a well spent life. He was surrounded at the last by the members of his family and a few friends when the end came.

James Monaghan was one of nature's noblemen in the truest sense of the term and a genius of the frontier type. He was born in the humble walks of life of pronounced Irish lineage. Orphaned at a very early age he quickly and aptly adjusted himself, both in thought and action, to the limited field of experience afforded by the narrow confines of the Old country. At the age of 16 he was lured by the New World, almost involuntarily broke all home ties and took passage on an outgoing sailing vessel for New York and there almost immediately found employment as a clerk in a drug store. The West continued to call, and soon as he had earned enough to bear the expenses of another sea voyage, he sailed for Panama, crossed the isthmus and worked his way to Fort Vancouver, where he arrived in May, 1858, without a friend in the country he had never known or heard of before, and without a cent with which to begin life in a new and untried country. Young as he was he was not above discovering opportunities. He first found employment conducting a ferry on the DesChutes river in Oregon. A half year of this sufficed to whet his appetite for a test of the virtues of the new country farther inland and he secured a berth on the steamer Col. Wright, the first to ply the waters of the Columbia above Celilo. A visit to Walla Walla, which was the Mecca of all overland travelers, gave him new courage in the knowledge that he had reached the land of promise and he stuck. Engaging in the freightage business drew him to Fort Colville, and, youth as he was, he found and seized upon the opportunities as they presented themselves in various lines. He freighted over the long distance between Walla Walla and Colville and found profit in it. He noticed that the mail here was carried over the long distance between the two military posts. He secured the mail contract over the route and put on a stage for the carrying of passengers and in doing so pioneered the stage coach north of the Snake river. He saw that the uncertainty of fording streams could be averted by building and operating a ferry, and he established such a convenience on the Spokane river about 20 miles down stream and eventually supplanted it with a bridge, afterwards known as LaPray's bridge. He engaged in the mercantile business at Colville. He purchased land and established the town of Chewelah and engaged in various lines of business there for a number of years. When Fort Colville was abandoned, he took the contract to remove all supplies and equipment to the new site at Foster creek, and when the government decided to abandon the project of building a fort there, he continued the transportation of supplies to Fort Spokane, near the mouth of the Spokane river, and there built and operated what is known, in military parlance, as the "sutlers store." In this new enterprise he engaged a partner, C. B. King, and the two established a similar business at Fort Sherman (now Coeur d'Alene city, Idaho, and continued until these military posts were abandoned. The panic of 1893 rendered great hardship upon him, for he was now advancing in years. He had large real estate holdings in Spokane and in other parts of the state, and

James Monaghan was born in Bel-

Belmont, Ireland, September 22, 1839, his parents being John and Mary (O'Riley) Monaghan, who died in the early '40s, leaving three children of whom James was the younger. He was married at Walla Walla to Miss Margaret McCool, daughter of Robert and Margaret McCool, native of the county of Donegal, Ireland. Mrs. Monaghan was born August 12, 1852, and died at Spokane, April 22, 1895. Mr. and Mrs. Monaghan were the parents of six children: John Robert, born at Chewelah March 26, 1873; Margaret Mary, born at Colville, January 31, 1876; Ellen Rosanna at Fort Spokane, November 12, 1885; James Hugh, in Spokane, November 10, 1888; Agnes Isabel, Spokane, November 9, 1891; and Charles Francis, August 12, 1894, all of whom are living except John Robert Monaghan, who, while an ensign in the United States navy, was killed while in the line of duty at Apia, Samoa, April 1, 1899.

The untimely death of his son, Ensign Monaghan, who was a graduate of the U. S. naval academy at Annapolis, in the class of 1895, was a severe blow to the father, who never recovered from the shock.

In later years Mr. Monaghan yearned for his old time friends and for the surroundings of his young manhood in the northwest. Accordingly he purchased a large tract of land near Addy and built up one of the most handsome country estates in all the country where he has made his home during the farming season, so that he was substantially a citizen of Stevens county, and a pioneer of the old school. With his demise few are left to tell the story of the days when such men were commissioned under the Higher law to carry the gospel of civilization into the uttermost parts of the earth. He was a religious man and was generous in his support of Christianity. A Catholic in faith and practice he believed in a system of charity and benevolence and was a large and liberal contributor to colleges, schools, churches and hospitals. It is said of him, that through all manner of conditions and habit of association no one has ever heard him utter a word disparaging his fellow man, nor a blasphemous word. He was a most remarkable man and these characteristics doubtless account for a career of successes seldom known in any country.

WHITE LAKE.

We all rejoice over the probable change in the weather. For once we are glad to see clouds.

D. S. Diehl came down from Old Dominion on Monday, returning Wednesday.

Mrs. Chester, Sr., is slowly improving. The other members of her family are well or able to be up.

George Shull got one foot hurt by a log rolling on it one day last week. He is able to be around now.

Rev. Patterson preached at the grange hall Sunday night. Sorry he can't be with us any more, but he will be unable to preach here again, before spring at least.

Mrs. Lagers returned from a visit to her daughter's home in Idaho, the last of last week.

The band dance was a success and the concert was very select. More would have heard it had it been less cold.

SIX-YEAR-OLD HAD CROUP.

"I have a little girl six years old who has a good deal of trouble with croup," writes W. E. Curry, Evansville, Ind. "I have used Foley's Honey and Tar, obtaining relief for her. My wife and I also used it and will say it is the best cure for a bad cold, cough, throat trouble and croup that I ever saw." Carroll's Pharmacy.—Adv.

was being hard pressed for funds; but his optimism was unflinching. He saw opportunities in mining, and at the risk of all he had in the world, secured an interest in the Caribou mine at Camp McKinney, B. C. bought machinery and driving his own teams freighted into that remote country, built a stamp mill and ground out the gold to recoup his fortune. The messenger who attempted to bring out the first gold bricks from Camp McKinney was robbed of his treasure. Monaghan conceived the plan of concealing the gold bars under the wrappings of rope around his wagon tongue and the ruse of a broken tongue to his luckless afflicter future highwaymen. When good times returned and in good financial shape to meet the incoming tide of prosperity. He engaged in banking, built substantial business blocks, notable among which is the Granite block, of Spokane. When the Spokane Review was struggling for an existence as a city daily at the risk of almost certain failure, Monaghan organized a syndicate of Spokane business men, got under it and saved the day.

In 1888 the question of building a railway through the Colville valley had been under discussion for some time. Mr. Monaghan declared it feasible and to show his faith in the possibility of the venture spent $10,000 in making a survey and establishing the right of way over the public lands between Spokane and Marcus, D. C. Corbin purchased this property and associated Mr. Monaghan with him in the Spokane Falls & Northern railway during the constructive period.

Through all the vicissitudes of frontier life in the far western country Mr. Monaghan never lost faith in the future. His thoughts of home in his native land and always dwell in his inner heart. He wanted some of the family folks near him and induced his sister and her husband, the late Thomas and Rosanna Graham, to come to America in 1878 and establish themselves near Colville. Their surviving children, Thomas Graham of Arden, P. H. Graham, county commissioner, and Miss Maggie Graham and Mrs. M. C. Kelly of Colville, still adorn the good country of their respective communities.

ECHO NEWS.

The sixth meeting of the Echo 500 Club was marked with unusual gaiety and good time. Any one passing by Mr. Manners' house would have known that society was sure to be out that evening. Indeed, the club is so popular that almost every Echo family has bought a new lamp, the best to be had. Even the horses know when to expect "unusual" things, for the club has come to stay and disturbs every Wednesday with its gaiety. The score cards suffer terribly. Some of them look like veterans of many wars: the "most veteranist one" receiving a prize. Miss Edith Roesch and Ray Laird carried away the honors and Mrs. Shepard consoled herself with a box of candy; while our town mayor Mr. Shaver suddenly felt the need of tobacco when he was handed a pipe. He was very much pleased with the vest pocket edition. After the games an excellent luncheon was served, composed of oyster soup, crackers, pickles, coffee and cake. The hostesses were Miss Gazelle Walston, Dan Zuck and Glen Vaughn (?). Mr. and Mrs. Manners have proved themselves fine entertainers, the meeting having been held twice at this beautiful home. The evening broke up with many exchanges of greetings and the doorman could tell by the multifarious expressions on the departing faces, which had played well and which had blundered. Each resolved to profit by his mistakes and the evening proved a "good" one for all as a happy affair. The next meeting is to be held at Mr. Shaver's, our town mayor's, and he says he will not smoke out any strangers, but keep his little pipe upon the shelf.

W. I. Russell is very ill this week.

The "hot noon lunch" at the public school is very popular, and visitors sometimes step in. They are always welcome and are served "hot lunch" too. The children will not go back to the old frozen lunch if they can prevent it. The girls like to work for Miss Walston, for they say she is a fine cook. The patrons are interested and send many good things to the school for the children.

Church services are held at the schoolhouse every other Sunday at 2 p. m. Rev. Patterson officiates. The next meeting is next Sunday, Jan. 23. Last Sunday was the last of the night-ly revival meetings. Rev. Cloyd of Spokane was the evangelist.

In reading, a boy was asked to explain "Indian summer." He replied: "Indian summer is summer on the reservation."

Mr. Manners got up in his sleep last Sunday morning to build the fire, and in some "manner" dropped a stick of wood on his toe. He instantly awoke incidentally awakening the whole house. Mrs. Manners thought a burglar was in the house. We did not laugh at him, for we never forget our manners. Echo is very much wrought up over the affair.

ONE SPOONFUL GIVES ASTONISHING RESULTS

Colville residents are astonished at the QUICK results from the simple mixture of buckthorn bark, glycerine, etc., known as Adler-I-ka. This remedy acts on BOTH upper and lower bowel and is so THOROUGH a bowel cleanser that it is used successfully in appendicitis. ONE SPOONFUL of Adler-I-ka relieves almost ANY CASE of constipation, sour or gassy stomach. ONE MINUTE after you take it, the gas, rumble and pass out. C. H. Carroll, druggist.—Adv.
