

BUSY MONEY

Money that is employed to carry on every day transactions should have the same protection as those funds that are not in active use.

Busy money actually requires extra safeguards, for it meets with more varied risks. Busy money works well with the advantages of checking account service at the Bank of Colville.

This service provides safety for funds at all times. The money itself is safe in the bank, awaiting the needs of the depositor, and while being transferred in the form of personal checks, the amount is payable only to the one whose name is written on the check. Your busy money demands the practical, safe methods of a bank account.

State Senator W. Lon Johnson left Monday for his old home in Missouri to visit his parents for two weeks. He will be absent until Aug. 10.

A runaway team hitched to a wagon laden with household goods on South Main street Monday afternoon caused serious results when Alfred Howie and his wife and a 12-year-old son were thrown from the vehicle to the ground. Mr. Howie received a number of ugly cuts and bruises on the face, had his chest injured, and several ribs broken. Mrs. Howie, experiencing a narrow escape from being killed, was thrown against some object and sustained two broken ribs. The boy escaped with a few scratches and bruises. Mr. and Mrs. Howie were taken to the Mt. Carmel hospital by Dr. J. W. Henderson, and after treatment of their injuries went to their home in the South Basin. He is over 60 years of age, and his wife a few years younger. They had come to town for a load of furniture awaiting them at the depot, and were on their way home.

Atty. L. C. Jesseph, for 16 years a member of the Stevens county bar and who has been identified with most of the leading civil and criminal cases in the county during that time, and who is now associated with Judge W. W. Zent of Spokane in the law partnership of Zent & Jesseph, has purchased the Odson residence at 441 Shoshone Place, Spokane, and will be joined by his family as soon as the premises are vacated by the present occupants. The home is a modern one in the Cannon Hill district. The first floor has a large living room, den and kitchen. The second floor has three bedrooms and two sleeping porches. The bath is in white enamel. The basement is full cement, subdivided for hot water heating plant, laundry, fruit and storage rooms. The lot is well ornamented with flowers and trees, and there is a good garage and cement driveway. Mr. Jesseph for some years has made an especial study of mining law, and in his Spokane practice is directing much of his efforts toward that line.

Rev. G. R. Schlauch of Opportunity, who has supplied the Baptist pulpit in Colville for the last two years, and had accepted the position of superintendent of the Marcus schools, has received a call to the chair of professor at the college at McMinnville, Ore, and is arranging to go to his new field by Sep. 1. The position at Marcus, which is now open, draws a salary of $1500 for the school year. Rev. Schlauch will make the change of plans largely on account of the health of his daughter who has been advised to leave the eastern Washington climate.

At the Crescent store picnic in Spokane, a girls' swimming race was one of the events. Miss Gertrude Cattle, a Colville girl who is an employe this summer at the Crescent, won first place in this event.

W. A. Tipton, farm sales manager of the Hege-Watkins Co. real estate firm, Spokane, was here this week looking over the Stevens county farm country. He is working in conjunction with the Colville Land Co. and made an extensive trip with O. N. Bell through the country tributary to Colville. Both gentlemen have had wide experience in handling real estate in Washington and Oregon, and their judgment of the situation in Stevens county is expressed in their statement that proportionate to the productive capacity of the lands here, the Colville valley yields larger returns on the going land values than any part of the west.

Miss Dolly Martin of Spokane is visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. C. Keller and will remain for several weeks. She was formerly a student in the Colville high school before moving with her parents to Spokane about five years ago.

J. F. Mears, farmer and mining man of Rock Cut, was in Colville on business Tuesday.

Ice has ceased to be a commodity in Colville. Where it is to be found it is a luxury, sure and certain. Local dispensers of ice who have been vending it at one cent a pound—the kind harvested from the local fields last winter—declared on Monday that the local supply had been exhausted and that any that would hereafter be sold here would come from Curlew lake in Ferry county at two cents a pound laid down in cold storage in the city. Last winter was not favorable to the storage of ice in the Colville valley because of the thaws which immediately followed freezing of thin ice on lakes. Three attempts to store ice by as many firms here proved short of the requirements. At Curlew lake, where the altitude is 1000 feet greater than in Colville, there was a plentiful supply, but those engaged in the business did not anticipate the shortage in all surrounding places and therefore have but a limited supply. The creamery and ice cream factories in Colville barely filled their storage when the bottom went out of the ice supply, and they will get through with scarcely any margin.

Mrs. O. F. Vinson and Mrs. G. G. Graham were hostesses at a card party Tuesday afternoon, the honor guest being Miss Zella Melcher, sister of Mrs. Vinson, who recently graduated from the music department of the State College at Pullman. Cards were played at eight tables at the Graham home, and the guests were then escorted to the Bert Nicol home where refreshments were served at two long tables. The decorations were sweet peas and roses. Miss Melcher sang several selections, with Miss Violet Hallowell at the piano. Prizes at cards were awarded to Mrs. W. H. Jackson and Mrs. S. E. Barnes.

Mrs. R. A. Thayer, who has been with relatives in Chewelah, was in Colville the first of the week on business.

Cheney, Washington.

Dear Carol: The conductor yelled "Cheney" and I almost jumped out of my seat, for that was my stop. When I stepped out on the platform a Y. W. C. A. girl came up and introduced herself. She asked me if I had a room and boarding place. I answered "Monroe Hall." So she escorted me and my suitcase up Normal avenue, with its shade trees and wonderful view of the Normal, to my new home, where she introduced me to the dearest little house mother in all Washington. It's "lights out" now. Next week I'll tell my story of our tramp around school.
