NEWS IN COLVILLE

Fred Thomas is home this week from his work in the Weyerhaeuser lumber camps in Montana, having been called here by the invasion of his home by influenza.

On March 1, several magazines will increase their price from 25% to 50%. Among these are American Magazine, Cosmopolitan, Everybody's, Good Housekeeping, Harper's, Popular Science, Hearst's, Pictorial Review.

While the Colville country has been anxiously desirous of snow, some of the cultured eastern sections of the country have had their usual plenty, as was noted in a copy of the Portland (Maine) Express brought in by Nels LeMay.

Henry Euing of the Colville Meat market, while splitting wood to build a fire in the smokehouse of the market Monday, completely severed the thumb of his left hand about half way between the second and third joints.

Mrs. Nancy Ellen McDonell, wife of Chris McDonell residing north of the city, died Feb. 4 from valvular lesion of the heart following an attack of influenza which immediately turned to pneumonia.

The board of county commissioners, sitting in special session, heard the petition for the formation of an irrigation district comprising a large area of the Columbia river valley immediately below Kettle Falls.

Agnes Jean Hughson, aged 2 years and seven months, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hughson, died of pneumonia at their home two miles south of Colville on Wednesday.

Eda Eliza Spratt, wife of James R. Spratt, died of pneumonia at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Burris in Colville on Wednesday.

Cecil Ray Harnett, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Harnett, who live in the Little Pend Oreille valley 12 miles southeast of Colville, died here of pulmonary tuberculosis, Feb. 14.

The funeral of Hattie A. Bush, three years of age, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Bush, was held Thursday afternoon from the McCord undertaking parlors.

The unusual coincidence of burial in a single grave of parents, who died from natural causes, was an event at Highland cemetery on Wednesday when William James Watkins and Mabel Edith Watkins, husband and wife, were laid to rest in Highland.

Near East Situation Now "Most Desperate in World," Says Hoover.

Herbert Hoover, who has now become a member of the Executive Committee of Near East Relief, which is raising for nearly 2,000,000 Armenian refugees and who, as Hoover, speaks with authority when he tells of human suffering, says in a formal statement:

"In my opinion, the situation in the Near East is the most desperate in the world."

"I cannot too strongly urge upon the members of the committee and their supporters the critical necessity of concentrating every possible effort to support Colonel Haskell's administration in the amounts that he requires; otherwise we shall witness one of the greatest tragedies of the entire war."

DEATH RATE DROPS WHEN RELIEF ARRIVES

Lives of thousands of Armenian children already have been saved by the Near East Relief taking over the Armenian orphanages, according to detailed reports, which have just reached the headquarters of that organization.

When Armenian funds became inadequate the Near East Relief took charge of the orphanage. Since that time the death rate has been greatly reduced.
