OLD PIONEER OF 1863 TELLS OF EARLY DAYS

Ben Bergunder of Colfax, pioneer in this region, was a visitor in Colville last Saturday. Mr. Bergunder came overland to this country with mule teams in 1863 from St. Joe, Missouri, but originally came from Cincinnati, Ohio. He states that they experienced no hardships on the trip as they had plenty of horses and plenty to eat and drink. He arrived at The Dalles 68 years ago on the 16th of September. In December he came to Colville, the old Colville of which nothing now remains. When in this vicinity he was connected for fifteen years with the Oppenheimer Co. and the D. H. Ferguson Co., and used to operate the old Pend Orielle mill. In those days Spokane was not in existence and Walla Walla was the distributing center for eastern Washington, northern Idaho and Montana. Mr. Bergunder blazed many a trail in this country and rode horseback from Colville to Walla Walla, making the round trip of 420 miles in seven days. Mrs. Jane Hoffstetter is now the only one in Colville who resided in this vicinity at the time Mr. Bergunder did. Mrs. Mary Tomlinson of Chewelah resided here at that time. Mr. Bergunder states that Colville then had the trade of the Okanogan country and the Kootenay country and shipped pork and bacon then. He also states that the Colville brewery did not ship beer to Walla Walla before Spokane was a city, as has been claimed by some. At one time Mr. Bergunder had a store at Marcus and states that what is now known as the old town of Marcus, and which was nearly destroyed by fire last week, is really not the old town of Marcus, as that has been gone a good many years and consisted of British barracks built of logs in 1859 by the British boundary survey. After leaving here Mr. Bergunder went to Walla Walla, where he remained until 1879. Walla Walla was then a town of about a thousand people and he states that what is now the main street of Walla Walla was then a mud puddle and a cayuse corral. Walla Walla was then headquarters for the Indians of this part of the northwest. "All the packer had to do in those days," stated Mr. Bergunder, "was to go to the store and ask for a cargo." It was packed for him and upon his return from a several weeks trip, he would pay for it. There was not so much profiteering then as all the packer wanted out of his cargo was enough to pay for freight, cost and cartage.

Mrs. Anna Cattle announces the marriage of her daughter Gertrude Louise Cattle to Harold Dewey Bacon on Saturday, Sep. 11, at Walla Walla. Mr. and Mrs. Bacon will make their home in Spokane and will live at 1314 W. 11th avenue, Spokane.

NEWS OF SCHOOLS

Some of the Current News at Colville's Accredited High School

Prepared by student committee of Colville high school, under direction of H. A. Scarborough of the department of public expression.

18 New Enrollments The enrollment of the high school is now 219, an increase over last week of 18. There is one post graduate. The senior class consists of 21 girls and 15 boys; the junior of 27 girls and 10 boys; the sophomore of 37 girls and 24 boys and the freshman class of 49 girls and 35 boys, making a total of 134 girls and 84 boys or 50 more girls than boys.

Supt. Putnam is confronted with a real problem in housing this number in the high school as only 134 can be seated in the general assembly room, 30 in the junior assembly and 38 in the senior assembly, making an overflow at present of 16. A room will be fitted up for these 16 this week-end and every student will have a permanent seat next Monday.

Student Association Meetings The first Student Association meeting was held on Monday afternoon for the purpose of discussing the advisability of purchasing a motion picture machine for educational purposes in the school. All the class officers were present except the vice-president. On Tuesday a second meeting was held for further consideration of the same subject. This meeting resulted in the purchase that evening of a picture machine from Graham & Co.

At this meeting the Skookum report for last year was read. The publication of the annual last year incurred debts in the amount of $509.30 and the report showed that enough money was in the treasury to pay all the accounts. Class officers were elected Thursday of last week as follows: Bertha Anderson, president of the senior class, following a term as president of the junior class last year; Margaret Taylor, president of the junior class this year; Emma Hoffstetter, president sophomore class; Gerald Exley, president of the freshman class.

Motion Pictures For High School A moving picture machine will be installed for the purpose of presenting educational subjects and will be used in lecture work. The student association will put on a regular program once each week and assembly period will be used for that purpose. The programs will be selected by a committee composed of one school board member, a citizen of Colville, a member of the faculty and two members of the high school student body. This committee will arrange for pictures and the time of giving the pictures. Arrangements have already been made to use several of the big factory pictures in the east and a Ford weekly will probably be put on. The Washington State College has agreed to furnish pictures, as has also the University of Washington and it is expected that similar arrangements will be made with the University of Oregon and the Oregon Agricultural College.

Football Schedule Started Football practice is progressing rapidly and several old men who were on the scrub squad last year reported this week. Correspondence has been started for the arrangement of a schedule of games. One game has been arranged with Deer Park and will be played in Colville October 2.

Wednesday evening Miss Weiler began the physical training classes for girls. Colville high school is not equipped to give a full course in physical education but new equipment will be added to meet the state requirements for physical training. The state law demands that every able bodied student take physical training all four years of high school.

Lyceum Course

The senior class will give a lyceum course for the season of 1920-21 which includes the following talent: On October 18, Mozarts; Nov. 1, Parlette; April 6, Rondoliers; April 11, Beilharz. Tickets are on sale at $1.75 and $2.25.

Agricultural Department

A preliminary contest will probably be held Saturday, Sep. 18, to determine which boys may enter the stock judging team to go to the state fair at Yakima. Prof. Durdle has been canvassing the business districts soliciting aid in sending this team to Yakima where four classes of live stock will be judged, viz, beef and dairy cattle, hogs and draft horses.

It saves hundreds of dollars in first cost—hundreds of dollars in maintenance cost and cuts the cost of hauling with teams in half. Farmers get three times as much grain, fruit, produce and live stock to market with Traffics than they can with teams, and in less time, with less labor—for less cost. The Traffic is the lowest priced 4,000-lb. capacity truck in the world and hauls a 4,000-lb. load 56 miles for $1.20 worth of gasoline. See it today. County Agent Plumb will probably assist in selecting the team. A number of field trips have been made this week. The class in dairying has been out practically every day. The class in farm crops has been out making a study of weed problems. One of the things they are working on this year is a collection of weeds which they expect to mount for exhibit purposes. The class in animal husbandry had their first work in judging horses on Thursday. The agricultural department of the high school is making an effort to have an exhibit at the county fair the last of the month and expect to work toward an exhibit at the Interstate fair next year. 17 are enrolled in the animal husbandry class, 8 in the class in soils and farm crops and 6 in the class in dairying and farm management. Gertrude Thompson, a graduate of the high school is the first student to enroll in post graduate work. She is specializing in stenography and typewriting. Luther Burden is preparing to compete for a place on the stock judging team and is being coached by E. C. Durdle, high school agriculturalist. The animal husbandry class reported an instructive and interesting time in Spokane at the fair where they went to study live stock.
