County Assessor Chester R. Wiley has returned from Olympia where he appeared before the state board of equalization on behalf of Stevens county. No decisions have been given out by the board. Mr. Wiley states that hearings were given each county in the state that felt that they had a grievance, and most counties sent a representative to plead for them before the board. Public service corporations also have the right to appear and did so. It is impossible for Mr. Wiley to state at this time what, if anything, will be granted Stevens county. All the others are asking the same favors as Stevens county and the board has a big problem before it. Mr. Wiley feels, however, that Stevens county has presented a clear case, and that it has merit and will receive careful consideration. The state board of equalization is composed of the governor, state treasurer and state auditor. The state supervisor of taxation is the secretary of the board.

The Public Utilities Commission will hold a meeting in Spokane October 19 at 9:30 for the Interstate Commerce Commission concerning the Great Northern Railway's attempt to abandon that part of the Close to 140 pupils now attend school at Northport. Fifty of this number are attending high school.

Porter Brothers, well known Spokane orchardists, have begun the construction of a large warehouse at Springdale through which 75 car loads of apples are expected to pass this fall. The apples will be from Porter Brothers' 240-acre orchard. The recent improvement of the Hunters-Springdale highway and the resurfacing of a 12-mile section over the summit of Huckleberry range which makes the distance from Hunters to Springdale 26 miles is the reason for the change.

One hundred and sixteen pupils enrolled at the Jenkins high school in Chewelah on the opening day which is within three of the highest enrollment of last year. The enrollment in the grade school was higher than at any time last year, 343 students being registered.

The funeral of John V. Folsom, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Folsom of Chewelah, who was killed during the Argonne drive overseas, was held last week in Chewelah. The pallbearers were members of the John V. Folsom post of the American Legion while members of the firing squad were from Fort Wright.

William Lumberg, son of Dell Lumberg, a farmer residing a mile west of Springdale, was found dead in the timber near his home last Saturday by a neighbor. A gunshot wound was found under the left arm, which had evidently caused instant death. A 12-gauge fowling piece which Lumberg had taken shooting with him was found hanging in the lower limbs of a nearby tree. Lumberg had lived around Springdale for the past ten years and had just recently returned from the harvest fields in the Palouse district. He is survived by his parents, two brothers and a smaller sister.

Approximately 2700 students are expected to enroll in the various courses at the state college at Pullman when the fall quarter starts the latter part of this month. More than the usual number of Stevens county students have signified their intention of going to Pullman to college.

Professor Michael Shapovalov, government specialist in potato disease, is touring the state with George L. Zundel, extension plant pathologist of the state college, to consult with potato growers as to their difficulties. A special election will be held in Ferry county October 4, submitting to voters a plan of bonding the county for a sum sufficient to pay nonmandatory warrants, all other indebtedness, and put the county on a cash basis. It is estimated that at least $175,000 will be needed. Several bonding houses have already asked for a chance to bid on the bonds, if the proposition is ratified.

Spokane county is to have its own fish hatchery and game farm. The county game and fish commission has completed a deal for the purchase of 48 acres of ground northwest of Spokane on which a hatchery and game farm will be placed. The property is one and one-half miles west of Mead, and one-half mile west of the Deadman creek trestle on the Pend Oreille highway. Three springs flow on the property giving 500 to 700 gallons of water per minute. A supply of 300 gallons per minute is ample for hatchery purposes. In the past it has been necessary for the Spokane county game and fish commission to depend on the state hatcheries for fish fry to be planted in the waters of the county and for game birds and eggs, except in some instances when fry and young birds were purchased from distant points.

County Superintendent W. O. Cummings returned yesterday from a week spent visiting schools in Springdale and vicinity.

LOSS OF WEIGHT ONE

SIGN OF TUBERCULOSIS (By Stevens County Nurse)

A few things worth knowing about it.

This disease, known also as phthisis, is caused by a living plant or germ, called the "bacillus tuberculosis," which multiplies with great rapidity in the living tissues of animals.

Outside of the human body, the germ may live in warm, moist, dark places for a long time. By direct sunlight the germ is killed in a few hours, in a few days in ordinary day light, and immediately by boiling water. If the germ finds its way into the lungs, it becomes attached and rapidly increases in number. A strong, healthy person will resist the germs, but an individual who is weak will not ordinarily repel them; the germs will rapidly multiply until the lungs are consumed and the person dies. The germ generally obtains entrance to the body through the mouth and nose and most frequently lodges in the air passages of the lungs. It may, however, get into the glands of the neck, attack the throat, the bowels, the kidneys, the brain, or any other organ of the body, as well as the bones or the joints. Nearly everybody at some period of his life breathes in the living germs of the disease, but owing to the power of resistance of a healthy body, the germs are not able to multiply.

In the early stages of the disease the germ is found in small numbers in the sputum, in larger numbers as the disease progresses and in countless millions in the later stages. Unless the sputum is destroyed by burning or by disinfectants, it may become the most common method of carrying tuberculosis to other individuals.

It is possible to have the disease for some time and not know it, or suspect it. An examination of the patient's chest by a good doctor and a microscopical examination of the sputum may discover it, but if both these tests fail it does not definitely mean that tuberculosis is not present. Repeated examinations should be made from time to time if the earlier signs of tuberculosis are present. Among those are the following: Slight cough, lasting a month or longer, loss of weight, slight fever each afternoon, bleeding from the lungs, tired feeling. If these symptoms are present do not delay, consult a physician at once and find out why you have them.

From what has been said above, it will be seen that as consumption is a germ disease, it is a communicable disease, and as such a preventable disease. If consumption is treated properly in its early stages, it is a curable disease.
