Charles H. Moore of Northport is the manufacturer of a rheumatism remedy, the formula of which he discovered. He has U. S. patent serial No. 154,925. The remedy is called Moore's Mammoth Rheumatic Remedy, and is for external application. It is for rheumatism, sciatica, lumbago and pleurisy. Mr. Moore states that 50 people in Northport have been cured without a failure by this remedy, and a number of prominent Northport people are given as references. Mr. Moore has sent a bottle of this remedy to the Examiner office, with instruction to give it to some poor sufferer in Colville, so the first one who appears will get the bottle, which ordinarily costs $2.

"Town business has increased in the last year," stated H. R. Williams of the Stevens County Power and Light company, "while the gross business has decreased. Mills, logging camps and other plants usually consume a total of 17,000 horsepower. When they resume we can expect our yearly average not to show up badly notwithstanding the general financial condition. With our well equipped plant at Meyers falls and the connection we have with the Washington Water Power at Chewelah, we can connect by continuous copper wire as far as Seattle should the occasion require. There is no condition of phenomenal prosperity that we are not able to cope with should the appraisal of resources by visiting mining men, lumbermen and stockmen be realized."

The management and employees of the Leader department store held another of their get-together pitch-in chicken suppers Wednesday night in the balcony of the store building. Combining business with a social evening among the employees, J. D. Casey arranges for these suppers quarterly, or more often, to get freer expressions of his employees toward more efficient and helpful cooperation and service as well as to keep the standard of the Leader store parallel with larger mercantile establishments. "This is the most successful meeting we have had," stated J. C. Clark. "Every employee made an enthusiastic speech, and gave expression to more interest." These suppers are almost pretentious banquets; the system is so complete that at the closing of the doors to the public at night Charles Peters, of the grocery department, who has distinguished himself as a chef, in white coat and apron, pages the management's guests to a sumptuous feast of chicken, usually prepared by or under the direction of Mrs. J. D. Casey, with all the extras that are obtainable. C. C. Casey of Chewelah drove over to be present at the supper.

The regular meeting of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society of the Methodist Episcopal church was held Tuesday afternoon in the church annex with twenty-one members and one visitor present. The usual program was carried out. One new member was added to the roll. It was decided to hold the meetings after this in the annex as the church is more centrally located.

A unique plan was adopted for conducting the "mystery box." The members of the society were divided into two sections by their captains Miss Allen and Miss Lauderdale. Points are given each side for new members, securing subscriptions to "The Friend," attendance at the meetings, and each mystery box question answered. At the end of the year the side having the fewest points must banquet the winning side. It is hoped to double the membership by this plan.

SIGNS OF ACTIVITY IN THE LUMBER MILLS
"The local lumber mills next week will begin on what is anticipated by national lumbermen to be a general awakening of the lumber industry," stated J. C. Bode, manager of the Colville Valley Lumber company. "A great deal of lumber has been and is being shipped out now, but it is all on old contracts. We are getting many inquiries from all over which indicate that we will have good markets. We are prosperous here when lumber business is good, as it means money in circulation. Prices have kept good on high lumber, but now we can expect the general raise on all lumber."

The Colville Valley Lumber company, with headquarters in Spokane, is reorganizing and Manager J. C. Bode expects to receive instructions to resume operation at any time.

Conner's mill has been getting in supplies of logs since closing for the holidays, and will begin operation next week.

The White Pine Sash company near Kettle Falls was scheduled to begin operation Jan. 1. With a crew of 35 men logging since early fall it will add approximately that many more when it begins to saw.

The H. C. Barnes company, whose mills are on Spruce lake, southeast of Colville, began the first of the year getting out the last 100,000 feet of lumber remaining on a two million-foot contract with the Union Match company of Spokane.

"Business on hand does not warrant continuous operation," stated Mr. Barnes. "But I can reasonably expect to continue operating when this contract is finished."

Since last month the McNering mills near Douglas falls have been in operation. The Diehl mill began last week and is running full capacity. The LaSota mills at Deep creek began last week with a large crew. Fred Draper at Aladdin is also running. H. L. Black has been running all summer. J. H. Loucks resumed early last fall. Hills & Mohr, Robert Singleton, G. T. Summerlot, Abe Onstine, Staynes & Summerlot all expect to start up their mills within the next week or so.
