

"IF I WERE TWENTY"

said a dairy farmer, "I would hire out as a farm hand. I would save money to go to the agricultural school in winter I would study feeds and feeding, marketing, gas engines, etc. I could get higher wages because I'd be worth more. Then I'd save money enough to stock a farm for myself. In twenty years I'd own the farm and have livestock and improvements worth as much as the land."

We now have on our floor for your inspection the late model Universal vacuum sweeper. We believe this machine to be the highest class sweeper at any price. It is beautifully finished, most durably constructed, and its efficiency we find after personal test is equal or better than any other machine we have seen.
IT PICKS UP THREADS and POSITIVELY SUCKS THE DIRT FROM THE RUG WITHOUT INJURY. It is light in weight. It is most simple in operation. It has the latest model HORIZONTAL MOTOR (a cardinal point.) The dust bag is of the double type. The handle is adjustable and the dust bag is simply removed for cleaning.
We regard this machine as fine a piece of work as is on the market. We guarantee it.
We will place this in your home for a trial with no obligation on your part to purchase.
In case you decide to buy we will sell this sweeper at $45 and allow you to pay $10 down and $5 per month until paid for. If you desire the machine on a cash basis we will discount 10 per cent.
THIS AD SHOULD PROVE A GOD SEND TO ANYONE WHO STILL USES A BROOM.

They left here last week Tuesday intending to return on Thursday, but they burned out three bearings in the car just beyond Chewelah, necessitating a three-day lay-over in Chewelah. On Tuesday Dr. W. F. Diefenbacher was called to his place at the Pend Oreille lakes on account of fire in the timber on his land. He had cleared a part of the 8 acres which he recently purchased on the point east of the Milliren camp, and had burned the slashings, but presumably some fire had remained in the trunks of some trees. When he arrived at the lakes he found that the fire had completed the clearing, and saved him many weeks of labor. A number of people camped at the lakes had assisted in checking the fire from reaching the more valuable trees, carrying water from the lake.
The boys from Colville who attended the citizens military training camp at Camp Lewis this summer returned Saturday night on the stage. The boys all look well and could not speak too highly in praise of the camp. They gained from five to ten pounds each during their stay in the camp. They say that their daily drill did not become tedious and that plenty of time was left for recreation. Paul Hofstetter became a corporal during his stay. He was the only one in the camp who was made an officer during the first year in camp. Several of the boys took advantage of the opportunity of taking an airplane ride while in camp; the rides lasting 15 minutes each. Most of the boys express a desire to attend the camp again next year. On their return it took 20 hours between Seattle and Spokane, due to the poor train service.

Last week Friday a Ford car was found near the Ham place south of the city, and considerable interest developed because the car bore no license plates or driver's license, and seemed to have been driven hard. Several theories were advanced, but all proved wrong when it was learned that the car belonged to some Montana people working across the valley, who had started to town with their Oakland, but ran out of gas. They went back and got their Ford to bring the gas, and then left the Ford by the roadside, intending to get it in the morning. When they came back for it, it was gone. The Ford was finally located through appeal to the sheriff's office.

War veterans of Colville took advantage of the recent visit of R. R. Reynolds, special contact representative of the United States Veterans' Bureau, who spent two days interviewing former service men of this vicinity relative to their disabilities and telling them offers of the government relative to compensation, vocational training, hospitalization and war risk insurance. Mr. Reynolds interviewed 12 former service people and of this number one filed a claim for federal compensation. Veterans who failed to meet the government representative and believe that they have just claims against the government should get in touch with the Spokane office of the veterans' bureau by letter. "Thomas I. Oakshot of the Colville post of the American Legion has devoted considerable time and effort assisting ex-service men in Colville and vicinity in the adjudication of their claims with the bureau," stated Mr. Reynolds, "and brought several cases to my attention."
