

THREATS OF MR. SPONER

WISCONSIN SENATOR IN A HUFF OVER RECOGNITION OF LA FOLLETTE COMMITTEE.

He Gives Out an Interesting Interview After Stormy Session With Cortelyou.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—Senator Spooner's interview in New York, carried by the Associated Press, in which he said that the republican electoral ticket in Wisconsin is in danger, has stirred up a good deal of a sensation in Washington among the president's friends.

Senator Spooner went to New York late last week, and it is reported here that he had a stormy interview with Chairman Cortelyou of the republican national committee, which ended in his walking out of Cortelyou's office in high dudgeon.

Settle Tangle From East.

But later he concluded to try to settle the Wisconsin tangle from New York. To this end he is to have conferences there with several leading republicans of the state, and the management of the western headquarters at Chicago are to co-operate with him with a view of disposing of the case.

Tawney's notice to the La Follette people yesterday that he wants them to take full charge of the campaign in Wisconsin is Cortelyou's open rejoinder to Spooner. It shows the national committee has cut loose from the stalwarts.

Mr. Cortelyou may visit Chicago shortly if the Wisconsin case becomes more acute, but he prefers not to make the trip on account of the heavy pressure of the campaign at this time in New York state.

Spooner is said to be incensed because of the intention of the national committee to acknowledge the regularity of the La Follette organization. This intention was foreshadowed a day or two after the supreme court decision when Representative Tawney wired the La Follette leaders with a view to having them take charge of the Fairbanks itinerary in Wisconsin. Later it was whispered that, owing to the decision of the supreme court, it was the purpose of the national committee to defer to the La Follette committee in every thing, practically placing the stigma of irregularity on the stalwarts. This is what brought Senator Spooner to New York. His interview with Chairman Cortelyou didn't help matters, and so Spooner sounded his note of warning.

Spooner Talks of Ingratitude.

Spooner is understood to accuse the administration of ingratitude. He has been for a long time its avowed champion on the floor of the senate, and his eloquence and ability have been of the highest value on more than one occasion. When other republican senators were lukewarm or almost in open revolt against the president, Senator Spooner stood his ground, and in the end averted what might easily have developed into serious trouble. He appreciates this aid at its full value, and professes to feel that the president has too quickly forgotten it.

By way of rejoinder, some of the president's friends have said that Mr. Cortelyou, in ordering that the La Follette faction be recognized as the regular republican organization in Wisconsin, has done the only thing that as a fair man, he could do. In the light of the supreme court decision. Had the court decided in favor of the stalwarts, it is added, that faction would have been recognized. The chairman of the national committee is compelled to deal in each state with the regular organization, no matter what his personal preferences, and he has done this in Wisconsin, well knowing that in undertaking to handle in any manner a situation of such delicacy he was likely to be misunderstood and to make enemies.

The Spooner Argument.

In reply to this defense some of the Spooner people here say that Cortelyou before making up his mind to recognize the La Follette faction, should have taken notice of the personnel of the supreme court. Two democrats with the aid of one republican wrote the majority opinion which recognized the half-breed faction. The court is composed of five members. The two who did not sign the majority opinion were republicans, one of whom refused to vote because of his personal relations to La Follette, while the other one wrote a dissenting opinion. These facts, it is claimed by the stalwarts, should have been carefully weighed by Chairman Cortelyou. This is the point which Senator Spooner is understood to have made to Cortelyou in New York in his stormy interview with that gentleman, and Cortelyou's refusal to consider it as sufficient reason for turning down the half-breeds is said to have precipitated the Spooner interview.

He Is Now a Strictly Sober Man.

Portland, Ore., April 26, 1904. Our druggist here asked me to write you about "TRIB." My son took "TRIB" about 18 months ago and has been a sober and industrious man since. He has taken the cure, but commenced drinking again soon after. It cost him $160 to take the cure and $12.50 to take "TRIB." He says "TRIB" is by far the best cure of the two. He has sold many treatments for the druggists since he took "TRIB."

Dissenting Opinion in the Wisconsin Case Filed by Chief Justice.

MADISON, Wis., Oct. 24.—The long-delayed majority opinion of the supreme court in the case of the republican contest has been filed by Judge Marshall. It makes sixty type-written pages, quoting authorities voluminously.

The principal centers in the dissenting opinion by Chief Justice Cassoday, which is in substance that the stalwarts were right and the half-breeds wrong.

He holds that the case comes within the first clause of section 35, revised statutes, and that the duties of the secretary of state are ministerial and hence subject to the control of the court.

He further holds that the second clause is merely intended to cover the cases not mentioned in the first, and that where there is a division in a party it should be covered by the first clause. Where there are two statutes, the earlier special and the latter general, the first should govern. In other words the official ballots should be prepared by the secretary of state under the first clause of the section, subject to the control of the court, Justice Cassoday says:

"I am also constrained to dissent from the opinion that the state central committee had exclusive jurisdiction to determine the controversy. Without going into the question of the committee being biased, giving it exclusive jurisdiction would deprive voters of the right of being represented in the state convention of the party to which they belong by delegates of their own choice."

The opinion reviews the action of the committee acting as a committee on credentials and deciding in advance just what delegates should be allowed to enter the hall of the convention and participate in the organization. This feature of the convention is commented on in scathing terms, and the judge says the committee assumed more power than the convention itself possessed.

"To bar from the convention lawfully elected representatives of voters is, in my opinion, to bar out the voters who sent them," says the justice. "The right to select candidates for office is as sacred as the right to elect candidates so selected. The right to choose delegates includes the right to have properly certified delegates admitted to the convention."

DEATH FOR THE INSANE

ILLINOIS PHYSICIAN URGES THAT ALL INCURABLES BE PUT TO DEATH.

He Also Favors Sterilizing to Prevent the Increase of Criminal Classes.

QUINCY, Oct. 24.—Death for the insane and incurable was advocated at today's session of the national prison congress by Dr. Henry G. Hatch of Quincy. The doctor advocated homicide or the right to let a person take his own life when he is found to be incurable; and also would have the state dispose of the permanently insane and incurable by putting such persons to an easy death. He is also in favor of sterilizing to prevent the increase of criminal class. He would have the state prevent the marriage of undersirable persons and would forbid the saloonkeeper selling liquor to the habitual drunkard.

Dr. J. B. Random of New York declared reforms were started to save human life, not to destroy it. If the system advocated by Dr. Hatch was carried out, the question would be to decide who would be the first victim.

"I do not believe," he said, "we had better take into our hands the functions of the Almighty."

POLICE AT BIER BAR WOMEN

Friend of "Divinely Chosen" Baer's Edict Against Other Sex. N

MORRISTOWN, Pa., Oct. 24.—Two policemen stationed at the door with explicit instructions not to permit any women or girls to pass in constituted a strong feature to the funeral of Colonel James Boyd, which was held yesterday afternoon in his home. Since his wife died in 1876, Colonel Boyd has avoided womankind. He had requested that no women should be admitted to his funeral and personal invitations were sent by the funeral committee to about one hundred men whom the colonel included among his friends. Nearly all attended the services. Among the honorary pallbearers were George F. Baer, president of the Reading railroad, and Wayne MacVeagh. All were either railroad officers or members of the Montgomery County Bar association, of which Colonel Boyd was the Nestor, having practiced law sixty-two years.

Lease Holds In Spite of Bedbugs.

CHICAGO, Ill., Oct. 24.—"Bedbugs shall receive no consideration in this court. And so far as I can ascertain, no Illinois judge has ever decided that the presence of bedbugs shall interfere with a written agreement. Therefore you will have to pay the $23." Miss Emma Stetler's hopes were dashed as she heard the foregoing verdict of Justice Grant. She had been sued for her room rent. Her defense was that it was impossible for her to reside where there were so many bedbugs. When the bedbug defense was cast aside all was lost. And Miss Stetler paid.

HANDS BURNED OFF BY X-RAY

Dr. Weigel Obligated to Submit to Amputation for Cancer.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Oct. 24.—Dr. Louis A. Weigel underwent an operation at the city hospital last week for the removal of his right hand and the greater part of his left hand. When the x-rays were discovered he took up their study with enthusiasm, and had achieved wonderful success in the use of them in his practice. Physicians who are familiar with what Dr. Weigel has accomplished in the use of the x-rays say that he was without doubt the ablest physician and surgeon in the use of the x-rays in the world.

He was wonderfully successful in taking photographs by the use of the rays. His fame in this work has gone all over the world in medical circles. Recognition of his skill and success was just beginning to come to him when the trouble developed with his hands.

The disease developed in Dr. Weigel's hands, both hands being affected about a year ago. Three months ago the little finger of the right hand was taken off and sent to Professor Welch, of John Hopkin's university for examination and a report as to the nature of the disease. In due time Professor Welch reported that the disease was cancer. When this report was received it was evident to the medical friends of Dr. Weigel that amputation would be necessary to save Dr. Weigel's life.

THIEF USES CHLOROFORM

Boat Captain Robbed of $150 at Duluth in a Sensational Manner.

DULUTH, Minn., Oct. 24.—Captain Pederson of the schooner Commodore was robbed in a sensational and daring manner at an early hour this morning, while the boat lay at the dock here. He was in his bunk in his room asleep when a thief crept in, chloroformed him, and abstracted $150 from a pocket in his clothes.

He pinned together the curtains surrounding the captain's bunk in such a manner that when the latter awoke he would have to tear them down to get out. While doing this he was discovered by the stewardess who screamed lustily and frightened him away.

The captain awoke in something of a stupor, but realized what had happened. Grabbing a revolver he rushed on deck just as the thief got over the side. He fired three shots at the fellow, but none took effect and the man escaped uptown.

In a drawer in the room where the captain was lying was $600 which the thief might have taken also, had he been aware of its presence. No clue to the robber has been found as yet.

TURN JEWS FROM NEW WORLD

Israel Zangwill Says Colonization of His Race Is Now Needed.

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—Israel Zangwill, with his bride, who was Miss Airton, daughter of Professor Airton of London, has arrived in New York from Liverpool, to interest representative Jewry of America in the possibility of establishing a Jewish colony in British East Africa on a tract of land 400 miles square, at present the lair of wild animals only.

"I am not here," Mr. Zangwill said, "to advocate the establishment of the colony, but only to stir up interest in the project. Some colonization scheme is necessary for the welfare of the Jews. England has got all the Jews she wants, and America is apparently approaching the same way of thinking. Representative American Jews have said: 'Don't send any more Jews to America. It is true the Jews have done well here but America has reached the point of saturation.'"

"What are we going to do with the thousands who insist upon coming? The Jews have lost the art of self-government. They have been 1900 years without a government and they have to begin all over again. They belong no longer to any country. Palestine is closed to them. Colonization, therefore, may be necessary. The scheme does not concern the Jews of the United States, but 6,000,000 Jews in Russia.

"When the Jews increased beyond a certain point in any country there always developed anti-Semitic feeling."

Last of His Race, Enriches Friends.

PITTSFIELD, Mass., Oct. 24.—By will of the late Henry Taft, president of the Third National bank of this city, $61,400 have been distributed among fifty friends and distant relatives. The bulk of the estate, after the bequests have been paid, will fall to Mrs. Frances I. Nichol, wife of Albert M. Nichol of Granville, Ohio, of whom up to a year ago, Mr. Taft had no acquaintance or knowledge. The banker had no children, and when his wife died about a year ago, he believed that he was the last of his race.

Mrs. Nichol established herself as a second cousin. Mrs. Nichol will receive $75,000, beside a gift of $3000 to her son, Alfred M. Nichol of St. Louis.

$1000 Poodle Lost On Street by Maid.

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—August Belmont has reported to the police the mysterious disappearance of Mignon, the celebrated French poodle, for which Mrs. Belmont paid $1000 in Paris eight years ago.

One of the Belmont maids, whose especial duty it is to take care of Mignon, was walking near the big brownstone Belmont mansion, looking at the procession of automobiles, when Mignon vanished.

Mignon has been a pet of the 400 for years. It has a bed of its own and drinks, it is said, nothing but cream bottled for it on Mr. Belmont's farm near Hempstead village.

The Effective Remedy

WASHINGTON, Iowa, April 1, 1903. I was troubled for over a year with so scanty a flow that it was virtually suppression. A heavy cold superinduced this condition and nothing I could do seemed to help me. The only effective remedy I ever found was Wine of Cardui.
