HOLLAND'S NEW LAND.

Little Holland is about to begin the great work of draining the Zuyder Zee. It is expected that 17 years will be required to make the entire area now covered by water fit for habitation and cultivation. About 24,700 acres of land are already being annually reclaimed, and the reclamation is likely to continue for about 10 years. The reclaimed lands of the Zuyder Zee will be sold by the state in small lots and gradually, so as not to depress existing prices. It is estimated that at least 40,000 persons will be required to cultivate this reclaimed sea land, which will be used for the growing of root crops, sugar beets, potatoes, peas and other vegetables. "It is estimated," says the Gazette de Holland, "that the value of these crops will be nearly $20,000,000. The present Zuyder Zee fisheries employ 3017 men and produce herrings, flounders, anchovies, smelts and shrimps to the value of $835,000 a year. The boats in use in the Zuyder Zee will be unsuitable for fishing in the North sea and new boats will be supplied by the state to enable the fishermen to work that sea."

Ways to keep him on the farm

Willie Elipse of Carthage, Mo., who may be a boy himself, or at least has been at some time or other, writes to the editor of the Baker Spring News, giving a few hints on what not to do in rearing and keeping boys on the farm. The communication is not written in rhyme, hence there is some truth in it. Here are a few of his "don'ts":

Don't give your boy a calf or colt and then sell them and put the money in your own pocket.

Don't expect your boy to love farm life when you make him saw wood with a dull bucksaw while you toast your shins by a warm stove.

Don't threaten to half kill your boy when he has made some small mistake, and don't tell him that he is a good-for-nothing, and tell him that he will die in a penitentiary. That will not make his life happy and bright.

Don't expect your boy to love farm work so well that he will not want to go to a circus, or picnic this summer, and don't send him to the circus with barely enough money to purchase the ticket.

QUICKER-CHEAPER.

Parcel post cheaper than shipping by railroad freight---what? Yes, sir, cheaper, quicker and more convenient in many instances. Certainly, you knew parcel post had the express rates beaten many ways, but you never realized the parcel post handled packages cheaper as well as more quickly than the slow-moving freight trains. Well, it just has become of that much service to the people. Hearken to the tale of a bolt of muslin and a comparison of parcel post, railway freight and express rates.

Oates & Thomas, a firm down in Garnett, Kas., read a classified advertisement, whereby a Kansas City firm offered to contractors and builders a quantity of heavy muslin, soiled, at a remarkably low price. The Garnett firm ordered twenty-one pounds of the muslin. The firm that received the order obtained the different rates on the twenty-one pounds. Here they are:

By Parcel Post, 25 cents.
By Express, 35 cents.
By Freight, 25 cents.

The muslin was shipped by parcel post one afternoon and reached the purchaser the next morning, being delivered to him. Had it gone by freight the purchaser would have had to go to the depot for it. Maybe it would have arrived in a day or two and maybe it wouldn't. The rate was the same, but the promptness and other conveniences made the parcel post cheaper than freight.
