Double Wedding.

A double wedding of interest to many people occurred at high noon last Thursday, May 7, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Angus Young, when Miss Bertha Knittle became the bride of Charles M. Gehrman, and Miss Agnes Knittle was wedded to Albert Grenier.

The house was beautifully decorated with lilies, narcissi and greenery, and formed a pretty setting for the impressive wedding ceremony which was performed by the Rev. Otto Williams, of Bellingham. Both brides wore handsome gowns of white embroidered crepe.

Following the congratulations and good wishes which were showered upon the two young couples, a delicious wedding breakfast was served to the thirty relatives and invited friends present. The two brides were the recipients of many handsome and useful presents.

Mr. and Mrs. Grenier left Thursday evening for Geneva where they will reside, while Mr. and Mrs. Gehrman are at home to their friends in the house on Grover street in Lynden, recently purchased by Mr. Gehrman.

WASHINGTON BRIEFLETS

Eastern Washington expects to have a large apple crop this year. Heavy yields are reported from many sections. Damage from frosts is said to be light.

Autophones may be installed by the Pacific Telephone & Telegraph company at Spokane, Wash. The new system would reduce the number of girl operators 80 per cent.

A justice of the peace who commits a prisoner to the stockade under the "lazy husband act" has no power to commute his sentence later, the supreme court has decided.

The memory of Ezra Meeker was honored by the Seattle Historical society in exercises held at the university of Washington. A portrait of Meeker was unveiled.

Because his parole had been violated, the plea of James A. Marcell, former Spokane banker, for release on habeas corpus was denied. He is at McNeil's island.

Highway Commissioner Roy has ready for distribution before May 22, Good Roads day, 200 copies of pamphlets containing rules for the construction and use of split log drags.

Governor Lister is planning to spend his vacation this summer in an automobile tour through northeastern Washington, having abandoned his plans for the trip to Alaska and the east.

Owing to the failure of the county commissioners to levy the usual tax for its maintenance, the Clarkston library will be closed until the matter is adjusted. The library board took this step to avoid further indebtedness.

The Washington State Democratic league elected Samuel Archer, of Seattle, president in place of Joseph A. Sloan, who resigned with a view to becoming a candidate for congress. The league bylaws prevent its officers from running for public office.

Cities of the third class in the state of Washington are finding themselves in an embarrassing position because of a recent decision of the supreme court. It was held that cities of the third class cannot levy more than a 10-mill tax for all city purposes.

The largest drilled well in the state is being bored for the Wenatchee Apple Land company of Spokane. The well is 18 inches in diameter. Special tools had to be made in California for the well-drilling outfit to do this job. The hole will be sunk 300 feet and will furnish 1000 gallons per minute.

Seattle Scandinavians are rejoicing over personal thanks from King Haakon of Norway, sent in a cablegram expressing his thanks for the message of good will which 3000 of his former subjects, residing in Seattle, sent him last Friday on the occasion of the annual May festival of Scandinavians.

Attacked and spurred by a big rooster, a Hoquiam lineman for the Pacific Telephone & Telegraph company is seeking compensation from the industrial insurance commission. In its report the telephone company says the lineman, named Hackett, was poisoned by the rooster's attack and consequently is unable to work.

To devise a plan for bringing to the Yakima valley the outside labor which will be needed next fall to harvest the hops and the apples, a committee, including representatives of the hop-raisers, fruitraisers and the labor unions, was named at a meeting held in the rooms of the North Yakima commercial club.

Articles of incorporation have been filed at Vancouver by the Klickitat Northern Railroad company, with a capital stock of $100,000, divided into shares of $100 each. The company proposes to build a railroad to tap the heavy timber belt between Lyle and Goldendale, the line running in a northerly direction from Wright's station on the North Bank road towards Camas Prairie.

The right of the state horticultural department to condemn potatoes shipped in from outside the state when they are afflicted in the slightest degree with tuber moth was upheld by Superior Judge Kenneth Mackintosh at Seattle, who dismissed a suit for $1600 damages brought by the Los Angeles Berrygrowers' association against F. A. Huntley, former state horticultural inspector, because he condemned two carloads of infected California potatoes last fall.

In a decision just rendered the supreme court upholds the constitutionality of the state commission merchant law, which has been a dead letter for several years. Shortly after the law was passed the King county superior court declared it invalid, and though an appeal was never taken the state authorities made no attempt to enforce it. Recently the state department of agriculture served notice on commission men that they must comply with the law or face prosecution, but with one exception they refused compliance. State licenses and filling of surety bonds to protect producers is required.
