OUR BUSINESS IS HERE FOR YOUR BENEFIT

When we first established our aim was to establish a business that would be of real benefit to the community. TODAY OUR AIM IS THE SAME.

Some may make the charge that our store is still of little significance; that we are not accomplishing much of what we had started out to do. Such charges are a part of the history of every co-operative effort. But that is no reflection on our business. The same history shows that it is infinitely more difficult to interest capital in a co-operative than in a private business. And IT TAKES CAPITAL TO DO BUSINESS. It cannot be done entirely on "hot air."

In line with our aim to be of some real help we began on a cash basis Oct. 1st., believing that a cash system is a genuine benefit to the customers and a help to the store. What at first impressed some customers as a handicap imposed upon them, is now proving a BLESSING IN DISGUISE.

Come in—let us explain to you our coupon money-saving system and how your trade here will pay you a high rate of interest.

Like a Lake of Flame.

One of the most remarkable of the hot springs in the Yellowstone National park is Firehole lake, in which flames seem to appear in the water. These flames are seen from only two points, and should the wind be causing a disturbance of the water the tourist may not see them at all. At the eastern end of this small lake is a circular opening of a deep seated spring not unlike other vents of thermal waters. Through this vent, which usually stands full of clear, transparent water, numerous bubbles of mingled air and superheated steam rise gradually. Before reaching the surface they unite to form one large mass that in its upward passage strikingly resembles a flame of fire. This continues until the bubble bursts, only to be followed by a repetition of the phenomenon. The explanation is that the slightly agitated water is reflected in the thin film of the ascending volume of gas. The phenomena are far better seen at Firehole lake than elsewhere, but under favorable conditions they may be seen at other localities, but in a far less striking manner.

Sacred Bangles.

One of the oldest and most curious of existing industries is the making of narrow rings or bracelets, called bangles, from the chank, or sacred shell of the Hindus. This conch-Turkinnella pyrum, Linn.—is found chiefly at a depth of about two fathoms in the Gulf of Manaar, and about 2,000,000 of the shells are exported annually to Calcutta. So important is the bangle of the Hindu women that J. Hornell, representing the Madras government, has specially investigated the industry. Tracing the early history of chank ornaments, Mr. Hornell is unable to assign prehistoric specimens in the Madras museum to the later stone age, as had been previously done, but believes marks on some of them were made by metal implements. He has found, however, remains of ancient bangle factories scattered over the greater part of India. Bangle cutting is now confined almost entirely to Bengal, and it proves to be in flourishing condition in spite of the growing taste for gold ornaments.

Her Assistant.

The authoress of whom Filegendo Blatter tells had said that she was very happy in her married life. "I find my husband such a help!" she added fervently. "Indeed!" said her friend. "Does he cook or write?"

Doesn't Like Water.

Mrs. Grogan (chatting with neighbor)—I had this waist dry cleaned last week and now it's as good as new. Little Johnny Grogan—Maw, kin they clean faces that way?—Puck.
