GREENWOOD

Many people are suffering from the grippe in this vicinity. Tom Scott expects to leave this week for Seattle to work in a logging camp there. Al Knutzen is suffering from the grippe this week. The cold snap froze potatoes and other vegetables right in the cellars. Roy and Erwin Brown returned to their home here Wednesday. The New Years Ball at Ten Mile Grange proved a great success. Reports from Birch Bay are the weather is colder there than here. Willis E. Johnson's 17 months' old baby nearly drowned in a tub of water Thursday. Being too cold to live in a tent, Mrs. Chet Scott and children are staying at Mrs. Scott's father's, Willis Johnson, till the cold snap is over. Mrs. Willis E. Johnson is on the sick list. The mail carrier was unable to come two days last week on account of snow drifts along the river.

Albert Berthuson of California is visiting at the home of his brother here. Club met at the H. Vander Yacht home last Saturday night. A number of people here are sick with the grippe. J. C. Haan of Iowa has rented the Axlund farm. Myron Baldwin has been hauling some logs to the Axlund mill on the snow. Albyn Christopherson was in Bellingham on business last week. Abon Johnson was a Deming visitor last week. Mrs. Leon Barton spent Saturday and Sunday at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. N. Jacobson in Lynden.

IT WAS A BIG ORDER.

But He Caught His Breath in Time to Save the Situation.

That familiar things have different names in different countries was discovered by an Englishman while he was visiting the United States. Thus he tells the story of the watermelons: I was eating dinner in an eastern city and saw on the menu, "Watermelon." We have watermelons in England, but they are what you in America call "muskmelons." Therefore I called the waiter and said, "Bring me two watermelons." The dusky waiter's eyes grew large, and he protested: "But, sah, you don't want two watermelons!" I am not accustomed to have waiters tell me what I want. I knew perfectly well what I wanted. I saw some people at the next table smile at each other, and I was vexed. Therefore I replied to the waiter with much dignity: "I want two watermelons."

"I GAVE MY ORDER."

The waiter seemed about to protest again, but I gave him a cold, steely look, and he thought better of it and went away. While he was gone I looked round and found every one within hearing distance smiling curiously. Looking further, I saw another waiter setting down before another man a plate containing an immense round of something green outside and bright red within. Then I spied my own waiter returning, bearing on each upturned palm an immense green oval. No wonder the people smiled! The smile was about to become a laugh. I thought I should die! Then an idea came to me! When the waiter reached my place I looked at his burden quite judicially, tapped each of those elephantine "watermelons," and then I gave my order in a calm, decided tone: "Bring me a slice from this one."—Youth's Companion.
