Announcement

We have had the word "MAPLEROSE" reserved exclusively for our use as a prefix name for our herd of Holsteins. This means that no other Holstein breeder of the U. S. will be allowed to use that word in naming and registering his cattle.

We were unable to have Maple Lane reserved as a herd prefix name. Consequently our Holsteins will be known in the future as the Maplerose herd.

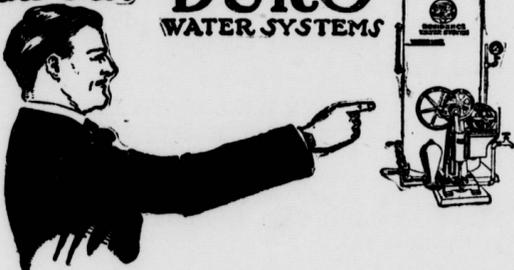

The name of the Farm has been changed accordingly. From now on it will be called

Truth, but Almost Unbelievable.
An old sailor now settled in Alberta, Canada, sends in the following yarn which he vouches for as true: He left Newport, U. S., for Cardiff, but the vessel sprang a leak, and all hands worked at the pumps. The water got among the coal, and as a result much of the oil and scum was pumped out and lay about the vessel, blackening the water all around. Picked up by a passing vessel, they were taken to Bremerhaven and placed in an immigration house largely made of glass. While they were away a seaman's wife consulted a crystal gazer in Glasgow as to the safety of her husband, and was incredulous when told he was in a boat surrounded by black water, and later that the man was in a glass house.—Montreal Herald.

Queer Legal Tangle.
A peculiar case was that of a Mahoney, who was hanged for murder in Ohio. The physician pronounced the man dead and the body was handed over to relatives. But the doctor had made an error and the man was revived and lived for several years none the worse for his experience. He was shot and killed by a robber but the authorities refused to bring the assassin to justice because Mahoney was legally dead and therefore could not be killed subsequently by anybody.

Eels Shut Off Water Supply.
The ferry steamer, Alice Howard, between Kittery, Maine, and Portsmouth, N. H., stopped dead at the close of 1920. Examination disclosed the fact that one large eel and several smaller ones had taken lodgings in the feed tank of the boilers and shut off the water supply.

She p Carried Vegetation.
Green sheep were seen walking about in Coonable, New South Wales. What had happened was that 12½ inches of rain had fallen in five days and the trefroll seed in the sheep's wool had sprouted, causing the remarkable sight.

Proved Kipling Wrong.
Kipling wrote that East and West never would meet, but a bride and bridegroom bearing those names were married in South London, recently, and went to live in North street, Chapham.

Snails Purify Water.
To purify water the Chinese put a number of fresh-water snails into a pail of water. These devour the organic matter the water contains and therefore act as filters.

Latest Parisian Foci Fad.
Cigarettes of a tint harmonizing with her gown is the latest vogue for "fashionable" women in Paris. Cigarettes are rolled in paper dyed a delicate tint of rose, blue, green or orange.

Concerning Human Hair.
The hairs of the head have been estimated to number 89,280. If a lady's hair is half a yard in length she will have about 133,920 feet of hair.
