DISABLED VETERANS MUST SEEK COMPENSATION NOW

With only a few days left for disabled World War veterans of this district to secure certificates of injury, L. C. Joseph, northwest district manager of the United States Veterans' Bureau urges those who may seek government compensation at a later date to make application for these certificates before August 9, expiration date of their issuance.

"The law governing activities of the Veterans' Bureau states that claims cannot be filed by disabled veterans after five years from service discharge unless the claimant has a certificate of injury and these certificates will not be issued after August 9," said Mr. Joseph. "This simply means that a veteran discharged from service for instance on September 1, 1917 could not file a claim for government compensation September 15 of this year unless he had the necessary certificate. We are anxious that every veteran in Washington, Oregon and Idaho know of this important ruling."

Mr. Joseph stated that the quickest way of securing this certificate is to make application for it by letter to U. S. Veterans' Bureau, Washington, D. C.

BASEBALL CONTEST DRAWS ALL EYES

Everybody Tries To Guess What's Wrong With Tribune's Cartoon of Diamond

Lewis White and Delmar Vander Griend tied for first place in The Tribune's baseball knowledge contest, which closed Tuesday evening. Both boys scored 91 1-3 points in the contest.

The two will be required to draw straws for the first prize.

Babe Ruth model of the famous Louisville Slugger bat.

Thomas Vander Mey will receive third prize, with a score of 83 points. Fourth prize went to Arthur N. Cloud of Everson, editor of the Everson Valley Home, and a noted baseball fan. Cloud made 78 1/2 points.

Jess Wynn and Elmer White tied for fifth place. Stanley Bartlett was next. Glen Axling and George Engdahl were well up in the list.

T. R. Burns, Will Baldwin and Ernest Dean acted as judges of the contest, and had a hard time to pick the winners.

The contest attracted widespread comment and attention, and all the baseball fans in the district endeavored to find just what was wrong with the cartoons, whether they sent in answers or not. The Tribune has a contest equally as exciting planned for next month. Watch for it.

The following were the correct answers:

1. Shortstops do not wear shin guards.

2. A pitcher never wears a chest protector.

3. No base runner ever catches a ball.

4. Alexander is not a left-handed pitcher.

5. Masks are not proper on batsmen.

6. The umpire is giving the wrong signal. He is shouting "strike" yet giving the "ball" signal with his left arm.

7. A second baseman should not go so far out of his position as to take a fly ball that is bound for the hands of a right fielder.

8. Right fielders always wear finger mitts instead of the first baseman's mitt pictured in this cartoon.

9. A batter who has hit safely does not carry his bat around the bases with him.

10. Batters never stand on top of the home plate when at bat.

11. A base runner should not attempt to run another base runner off the bag with a fly ball in the air for it paves the way to a double play.

12. The runner in this cartoon is going in the wrong direction.

13. The umpire is giving the right decision in calling the runner out, but wrong signal. The position of the umpire's hands represent the "safe" signal.

THE FIGHT IS NOT YET OVER

People who believe in prohibition should not delude themselves into the idea that the fight is over. A vigorous campaign is now under way to permit the sale of wine and beer. In many sections, the Volstead law has not been enforced at all; in others, "boot-legging" and "booze-running" is too common.

Prohibition forces in every county of Washington should stir themselves this week to make sure that a dependable "dry" man of the highest type has filed for the office of sheriff. The time is short; delay will be fatal.

Western Washington is notoriously "wet." King, Thurston, Snohomish, Pierce and Whatcom Counties are but little advanced from the days of the "open saloon." Conventions, such as the recent Eagle's gathering in Bellingham, mean an old-time drunken orgy.

And moonshine, such as Don Stevenson was able to buy openly at Bellingham and Stanwood, before he brained Almour, is causing murder, automobile accidents, and similar unfortunate things resulting from crazed minds.

Now is the time to act, W. C. T. U. and Prohibition Workers!

LYNDEN LOSES IN FERNDALE GAME

Drops Contest and Slips a Notch in Exciting Pennant Race of Nooksack Valley League

Lynden lost their golden opportunity to clinch the Nooksack Valley League pennant, when they lost to Ferndale last Sunday, 8 to 4. Lynden made the poorest showing they have made this year, although the condition of the Ferndale diamond had a great deal to do with the many errors.

The loss of this game enabled Marietta to tie Lynden for first place. Marietta and Lynden have two more games to play and Ferndale has three. Providing each of these teams win all of their remaining games there will be three teams tied for first place.

The teams now stand as follows:

	W	L	Pct.
Lynden	9	3	.750
Marietta	9	3	.750
Ferndale	8	3	.727
Acme	8	4	.667
Custer	7	4	.636
Kulshan	3	9	.250
Everson	2	10	.168
Sumas	2	11	.084

In the game at Ferndale, Lynden started off with two scores in the first inning, but Ferndale came back strong and also scored two runs. In the third inning Lynden made one more but were held scoreless from then on until the seventh, when Axling again scored.

Ferndale made two scores in the third, two in the fifth and two in the seventh.

Hagen who started to pitch for Lynden retired in favor of Max Fullner at the beginning of the sixth inning.

The box score follows:

WET AND DRY FIGHT LIKELY AT PRIMARY

Campaign Will Center Around Office of Sheriff; Prohibition Forces Aroused

Whatcom County will witness an old-fashioned wet and dry fight, centering around the office of sheriff, at the September primaries.

Dissatisfaction with the condition of the county during the past month, as far as the handling of the liquor question is concerned, has aroused the "dry" forces in all sections of the county, and efforts are now being made to center on a prohibition candidate at the Republican primaries.

Incidentally Republican leaders are beginning to worry just a trifle at the turn of events, as in the event that the "dry" element loses at the primary, there will be a swing to the Democratic ticket at the general election, carrying with it hundreds of votes to other candidates besides those for the office of sheriff.

But a week remains in which candidates can file, so that the next few days will witness activity on the part of the dries, followed by a vigorous campaign up to the primaries of September 12.

LYNDEN INTERESTED IN DEFEAT OF 'HEBE'

Wisconsin Supreme Court Knocks Out Sale of Skim Milk and Vegetable Oils

Dairy forces in Lynden are jubilant over the victory against filled milk just won in Wisconsin. The Supreme Court of that state on July 20th handed down a decision which upheld the constitutionality of the law passed by the state legislature of 1921. This law prohibited the manufacture and sale of compounds of skim milk and vegetable oils.

"We are confident that the Wisconsin decision means a great step toward a complete victory in the passing of a federal act to debar these oil-filled milks from interstate and foreign commerce," said Charles W. Holman, executive secretary of the National Milk Producers' Federation.

Nearly 6000 influential national, state and local organizations representing nearly all phases of the community life, have all joined in asking the congress to pass the Voigt bill. That bill prohibits the movement of such compounds in interstate and foreign commerce. It has passed the house by a vote of 250 to 40 and is now in the hands of a subcommittee of the Senate committee on agriculture. Final hearings will be resumed August 1.

The Wisconsin decision also has an important bearing on the acts passed this year by the states of New Jersey and New York; the laws prohibit the manufacture and sale of filled milk.
