Champ Mermaid Of England

MISS HILDA JAMES, pictured here, is the English mermaid who broke the 300-meter record by swimming the distance in 4 minutes 23.46 seconds at Brighton Beach. A graceful figure!

When she goes on vacation we learn what home is without mother.

Very few married men can drive an auto with one hand.

Beauty hint: Carry a handkerchief when you have hay fever.

If you want to make a girl believe you, tell her something nice.

Opportunity knocks but once. A man or an auto that keeps on knocking is not an opportunity.

A politician with strings tied to him has his drawbacks.

A bird in good is worth two in bad.

The needle is mightier than the pin.

The Lynden Gimlet

Well, did you see how Hanover's relative, who was supported by The Gimlet, ran away from the field?

A Gimlet subscriber has sent us in the following list of good books for winter reading—

"The Gilded Bird"—Fonda Gold. "In Search of a Good Man"—Wanda Farr.

"Hunger Appeased"—Annetta Fish. "The Red Flag"—Soren Blaises. "Life of Doug Fairbanks"—Vera Good.

"The Lucky Chance"—Edwina Ford. "Sweet Sixteen"—Lotta Fellows. "The Bachelor Girl"—Ben A. Stick.

"Flanders Mud"—Clara S. Day. "A Certain Rich Man"—Iona Chevrolet.

Henry Van Os got one vote for precinct committeeman. Henry voted for himself. He admits it.

When Judge Worthen handed him a precinct committeeman's ballot, Van Os thought he was asked to write his name. And he did so.

Ben Loring was nominated for Democratic precinct committeeman in Precinct One. The judges were not overworked counting up the returns in this case. Loring got one vote.

Others who had their friends out working for them all day were A. H. Frasier, who talked up 17 votes for committeeman, Frank Knapp, who got 8, Frank Le Cocq, who landed two votes for justice of the peace, and A. A. Bauman, who got one for constable.

One regrettable feature of the day was the splitting of the Lynden Department Store strength between Frick and Fountain for Republican committeeman. The boot expert managed to shoo 3 ballots his way, while the feed authority was only able to mash two voters. As a result, the election is tied between Frick and Ralph Le Cocq.

It may be necessary to hunt up a coin to flip up to decide the issue.

The last word in comfort and ease for fishermen has been invented by John B. Gale. For generations, fishermen have been using a forked stick on which to rest their rod while angling in the river.

Gale has devised a neat iron device, with a fork at the top protected by a rubber coat. This fork may be moved up and down on the plan of a music stand, so that the rod may be held at any height. This is certainly the maximum of convenience. For real comfort, however, one should take a boy along to do the heavy work of turning the little screw to adjust the fork.

Do I make myself clear?

ABOUT FREIGHT RATES

Years ago the average rate earned by the Milwaukee Railroad for hauling a ton of freight one mile was over four cents.

In 1871 it had been reduced to two and one-half cents; in 1881 to one and seven-tenths cents; in 1891 to one cent; in 1901 to eighty-six hundredths of a cent, and in 1916 (the year before this country entered the War) to seventy-four hundredths of a cent—the low mark!

While this railroad was voluntarily and steadily reducing rates it was extending its lines, developing the country, increasing its facilities to meet service demands and was able to pay dividends—because it had control of its expenses.

During the War and subsequently rates were advanced by the government to partially offset the tremendous increases in expenses over which the roads still have little control.

The above record proves that when railroads were permitted to control their business the public shared in their prosperity through voluntary rate reductions.
