The Lynden Gimlet

The only casualty at the Fair this year occurred when Zerolene Burns forgot to watch his eye, and it got in front of a baseball bat. The result, as pictured above, proved one of the main attractions of the show.

||-ooo-
This being Fire Prevention Week, The Gimlet suggests that you cut out the above photo and hang it in your front window. It will scare any shy little blaze.

||-ooo-
Fire Chief Baldwin says that if you go out and forget to turn off the electric iron, forget to shut off the water in the bathtub, and you will be perfectly safe.

||-ooo-
One noted Lynden scientist left for a little trip a few days ago, and he is going to be shocked when he gets a $147 water bill on his return. He shut off the water in his house before leaving, carefully draining each tap to prevent freezing and leaving the faucets open. He neglected to take the handle off of his water cut-off in his front yard, and some intelligent boy turned it on.

||-ooo-
Three or four days later, the neighbors noticed water squirting out of a second story window. On investigation, they found the house full of fluid.

||-ooo-
Water Superintendent Harold Knapp took soundings and will present Dock Mulder with the big bill on his return from Los Angeles. Damage to the house and its interior was insignificant.

||-ooo-
The Gimlet has wired Henry Ford this week asking for accident benefits for Mrs. Herbert Davis and James McLeod. They tried to crank a couple of his cars this week.

||-ooo-
John De Beeld certainly has plenty of sand.

||-ooo-
He bought Arthur Meenk's bar this week. Not one of the old-fashioned kind with a brass rail in front of it, and an oil painting of nimps over it—just a plain Nooksack River sand and gravel promontory.

||-ooo-
Tom Ramsey, who was hit on the nose with a hay-hook, is carrying the beak in a sling, but was not hurt much. "I smell as good as ever," he says.

MISS ESTHER NELSON ILL. IN DISTANT BURMA HOSPITAL

Miss Esther Nelson, Lynden missionary, is seriously ill at a hospital at Burma, India, according to word just received here.

A shower of articles for her and the use of her pupils will be held Friday evening, Oct. 13, at the Baptist Church. The W. W. G. will give a concert, and Mrs. Weeks, who will leave for Burma on Oct. 19, will give a farewell address.

The public is cordially invited. A collection will be taken.

TRIBUNE PUZZLE CONTEST BRINGS MANY ANSWERS

The Tribune state puzzle contest published last week brought out many answers. Everybody tried to guess the correct names of the states pictured.

The following were the right answers: New Jersey, Indiana, Maryland, Washington, Minnesota, Arkansas, Pennsylvania and Illinois.

Prizes were awarded to the following for turning in the best answers:

Ruth Anderson, Emma Van Os, Mrs. B. Axlund, Rose Jones, Mary K. Burk, Ward Vander Griend, Jesse Wynn, Johnny Cook, Leo Jensen, Reka Brink, Augusta De Vries.

The prize pencils will be mailed to the winners this week.

NEWS OF WHATCOM COUNTY

The International Canning Co., at Blaine, finished its season's pack of fruit and vegetables last week. A total of about 4,000 cases were put up consisting of berries, fruit and vegetables.

The Minister of Public Works of British Columbia has announced that his government will pave the Pacific Highway from Cloverdale to Blaine next year. This will make an all-paved road to Vancouver.

A car was seized by the Blaine customs last week, and upon search it was found that 154 quarts of whiskey were concealed in the car. The whiskey was neatly packed in a false back to each of the seats.

Mr. Joe Kerr of Burquitlam, B. C., was in charge of a fine exhibit made up by several poultrymen from New Westminster, and Vancouver, including J. H. Grant's birds mentioned above. The exhibit of Lord Dewar's White Wyandottes from London, England, won their share of admiration and ribbons. These birds had made many of the large Canadian fairs.

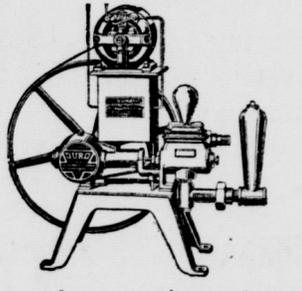

J. E. Thurston's string of Dark Cornish Games from Central Park, B. C., swept the deck clean in their class and were fit to go anywhere. Cowherd Duckery of Ferndale and Shamrock Farms of Sapperton, B. C., were on hand with large strings of fine water fowl and split for premiums in their class. Shamrock Farms also made a fine showing of Turkeys and Barred Rocks.

There was a large class of Bantams, about 150 in number, shown chiefly by A. M. Starr and J. H. Warrington.

Many plans are being laid for next year's show. A large exhibit is anticipated from B. C. and pressure is being used to get Joe Kerr of Burquitlam to act as superintendent. Mr. Kerr is recognized as one of the liveliest wires in the poultry game in the northwest.

Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Breed moved to Seattle this week.
