J. W. Carman, our former section foreman at this place, in company with his family, left recently for Pullman to reside.

Mr. Carman has secured a position there with the Northern Pacific. A vacancy has been made by the removal of this family which is hard to fill.

They have been here several years and in that time gained many warm friends who wish them all kinds of luck in their new home.

Mrs. L. Plowman was among Pampa's visitors to this place last week.

J. H. Davis, after an absence of two and one-half years, during which time he served as deputy sheriff under Sheriff Mackay, has returned to Palouse and engaged in the real estate business, purchasing the interest of J. W. Breeding in the Interstate Land company, says the Palouse Republic.

W. R. Belvail retains his interest in the business. The institution will continue to be known as the Interstate Land company.

Mr. Davis has a host of friends in Palouse who will be glad to know of his decision to go into business here.

The company will deal in farm and timber lands and town property.

J. W. Breeding, who is retiring from the real estate business, has not yet decided on what his future work will be.

It is quite probable, however, that he will devote part of his time to some mining property in which he is interested in Oregon.

Married at Eugene.

A pretty wedding occurred at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Dillard, in Eugene, Oregon, Monday evening, June 22, 1903, when Miss Daisy Dell Dillard became the bride of John B. Patterson.

There were a number of the friends of the contracting parties present from abroad.

The young people have a large circle of acquaintances in Whitman county, where they formerly lived.

Their many friends here will join with those of Eugene in wishing for them many years of happiness and prosperity.

WITH THE DOCTORS

Any one who has had experience in the care of the sick knows that it is no easy task to gauge the doses of medicine prescribed by the physician, and perhaps those who perform the duties of the nurse can best appreciate the advantage of the dropping mouthpiece for bottles presented in the illustration.

A BOON FOR THE SICKROOM.

liquid flows out, which action, owing to the contracted opening, takes place only a drop at a time. After the required number of drops have been measured out the bottle is gradually returned to its vertical position, permitting all the liquid to return to its lowest level before the ball leaves its seat in the enlargement and seals the opening.

Should the liquid carry the ball beyond its seat in the outward rush the flow is not prevented owing to the peculiar shape of the tube at the place where the ball finds lodgment.

Diet in Rheumatism.

G. O. Jarvis, says the International Medical Magazine, thus sums up the result of his researches: Allow a liberal meat diet, cooked by being either broiled or roasted, and served rare. Eat carbohydrates in moderation, cooked so as to preserve the salts—that is to say, by frying in an excess of boiling oil—and fats in rather small amounts. Water should be drunk plentifully, and it should be especially directed that some water be taken between meals.

Alcoholic drinks, tea and coffee are to be used in great moderation. It is better not to take alcoholic drinks at all.

Typhoid Fever Serum.

A typhoid antitoxin serum invented by Dr. Allen Macfayden and indorsed by no less a person than Lord Lister is the latest medical discovery, says the Scientific American. Dr. Macfayden is the director of the Jenner Institute of Preventive Medicine. Briefly stated, Dr. Macfayden's discovery consists in this: He has found that by crushing the cells of the typhoid bacillus in liquid air the intercellular juices are not only obtained without living organisms, but are also rendered highly toxic. When injected into living animals, these juices produce a blood serum which acts as an antidote against the poison generated by the typhoid bacillus. The novel feature in this process is the use of liquid air, the function of which is not fully understood as yet.

ASTRONOMY

We have been taught to look upon our planet merely as one of the smaller satellites of a low class sun and upon ourselves, at least from an astronomical point of view, as something less than grasshoppers, says the Literary Digest. Now, however, Professor Alfred Russell Wallace, the veteran English biologist, regards it as proved that our solar system is practically in the center of the universe, which is certainly limited in extent, and that the earth is in the most favorable position in that system for the development of life; hence, in a biological sense, we are in the center of things after all. Professor Wallace believes that we are the only intelligent living beings in existence and that the creation of the universe has culminated in our appearance, which was its end and aim.

Puzzle for Astronomers.

The new star that flashed out in Perseus at the beginning of the twentieth century seems to be the herald of another revision of our astronomy. Professor Simon Newcomb shows reasons for assigning this star to the Milky Way and that a conservative estimate is that its light, traveling at 180,000 miles per second, must require 3,400 years to reach the earth. The nebula that has spread from this star four minutes of arc in a few months. Until now explosions of hydrogen have seemed to explain the blazing up of suns in two or three days to thousands of times their original brightness, but the incandescent gas from these explosions seems incapable of traveling more than a few hundred miles per second, and the Perseus nebula has extended with vastly greater velocity.

Guilty of Horse Stealing.

The trial of the two Boham boys of Pullman was held in the superior court Tuesday morning. They plead guilty to the charge of horse stealing and were sentenced by the court, John receiving a term in the reform school and Michael being sentenced to six months in the county jail. According to testimony introduced before the court prior to the passing of sentence, it appears that John Boham is under 16 years of age and that Michael is about 18 years old. The latter testified in court that he had spent 60 days in the Whitman county jail, but the records do not show it.

A French Soldier's Invention.

A device for suppressing sound and smoke has been provided for the ordinary rifle by a French soldier. It consists essentially of a steel tube about thirty inches long, with several partitions having orifices slightly larger than the bore of the gun, and this tube is attached in front of the muzzle by a bayonet clamp whenever its use is desired. On firing the gun the gases are retarded by each partition in turn, finally escaping without sound or smoke. With a knife at the end the auxiliary tube can be made to serve as a bayonet.

For the Removal of Tattooing.

Those who have been tattooed and who regret it may, says a writer in Cosmos, succeed in ridding themselves of these marks by the following process: Pour on the tattooed portion a concentrated solution of tannin, then by means of a needle analogous to that of the tattooer prick the surface and then rub hard with a nitrate of silver pencil. There is formed a slough which falls at the end of fourteen or eighteen days, and the operation leaves only a slight scar, which at the end of two months is invisible.

English Manners.

An English innkeeper was found in bed one morning with his throat badly cut. "Why did you do it?" they asked. He replied: "For amusement. I had nothing else to do."

This chimes in curiously with an old French epigram on English manners and customs:

Here lies Sir John Plomponding of the Grange, Who hung himself one morning for a change.

A Mystery.

A very small boy was watching his mother sew whaleskins in her dress. "What are they, ma?" he asked. "Bones," she replied. "Whose?" continued the little fellow. "Mine," she answered. He regarded her a minute in amazement and then asked solemnly, "How did you get 'em out?"
