The Katzenjammer Picnic Will Be Given Next Tuesday Evening

With her usual enterprise, Miss Thompson has painted large posters advertising the Katzenjammer Picnic, which will be given next Tuesday evening at the Ridgeway theater. With a patience and never flagging energy that is wonderful, the training of the young folks goes on, under the able direction of Miss Thompson. She has drilled participants in seventeen different specialties, which will be introduced, among which is the Quaker specialty by the little people of Emma's China Twins. Frocks and frills, given by eight of the prettiest young ladies in the town, is a song and fancy drill that will be very pleasing. The Katzenjammers will also give us a song. The Indian specialty will be very characteristic, as well as Karama, the Chinese specialty. The umbrella dance will be one of the novelties of the evening. "Loretas" by Mr. Schmidt will be one of the attractive songs, and the wooden shoe dance will take one back to Germany. One of the most pleasing features will be the Egyptian ballet dance. These young and beautiful maidens are represented by twelve of our most graceful young men who will give a ballet that would be a credit to an opera company. Their work will be a surprise to their friends, who will be delighted by their charming appearance. The costumes have been ordered from Portland and are very beautiful; together with colored lights, the effect will be very pleasing. A picnic is always a signal for a good time, but when Katz and his troupe "makes fooliness" for the crowd then there's something doing. Reginald Jones and Virgil McCroskey are a team for fun making, while the kids, Bertold Kuhn and Sidney Pritchett are the real article so far as mischief is concerned. Sis Hopkins will not be far behind and Happy Hooigan will play Buttnsky to perfection. As the production contains so many and so varied an assortment of specialties it is certain the interest of the audience will never flag from the rise to the fall of the curtain. There will, undoubtedly, be a large attendance, if only to help the ladies in their laudable project.

THE SOCIAL SIDE.

Pleasant Children's Party

A very pleasant birthday party was given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Von Soehnen on Monday afternoon in honor of the fourth birthday of their little grandson, Robert Von Soehnen Gallagher. About 15 children of little Delbert's age were present. Ice cream and cake was served to the little ones, and a general good time was had.

An Easter Entertainment

The fifth of the series of meetings of the ladies of the M. E. church, was held Thursday afternoon, at the home of Mrs. J. J. Miller, on Mill street. The ladies of the church have been divided into clubs of ten each, one club entertaining one week, another the next, and so on. The club this week gave an Easter entertainment, all decorations carrying out the idea. In one room a bird guessing contest was arranged. 52 ribbons of various colors were strung from a chandelier to a beautifully decorated table. On one end was the regulation Easter egg and on the other a card bearing 25 numbers, and a tiny pencil. On large sheets of paper, posted about the room were printed 25 rhymes, each one suggestive of a different bird, and numbered from 1 to 25, each lady being required to mark the name of the bird suggested by the rhyme, opposite the corresponding number on her card. The lady getting the most correct answers was awarded a prize. In the serving of refreshments the same Easter idea was carried out very successfully.

Pleasant Birthday Dinner

On Sunday last about 30 Colfaxites drove out to the hospitable home of Mr. and Mrs. John Beck, about three miles northeast of this city, the occasion being a birthday dinner given in honor of Mrs. Beck. Covers were laid for 35, and all present report a very pleasant time and join in wishing the hostess many happy returns of the day. The Beck farm is one of the best kept in the county, with handsome residence and substantial outbuildings, Mr. and Mrs. Beck not believing in their city neighbors having all the luxuries and comforts of this world. Mrs. Beck was the recipient of many useful and beautiful presents.

Scarlet Fever Caused Death

Oakesdale Tidings: After an illness of only a few days with scarlet fever, the little 13 months old son of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Akin, who lives on the W. R. Morrison farm, breathed his last on Tuesday, and on Wednesday was buried in the Oakesdale cemetery. Two other children and the mother are reported as being dangerously ill with the dread disease. Strange to say up to Tuesday evening the family had not been quarantined, even though the county health officer had been notified.

Since putting the above in type the little five year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Akin passed away and was buried with his little brother.

COUNTY CULLINGS.

The contract has been let and work commenced on a new $20,000 hotel at Garfield.

The Farmington News of last week published a column article on an attempt to poison one W. R. Brown, living near that city, by placing poison in an open jar of fruit which was left on the dining table during his absence from home. The whole thing sounds a little fishy, but may be all right.

The new steam launch which will ply upon the waters of Rock lake was successfully launched last week and workmen are now installing the engine and machinery. The launch will carry about 40 people.

A commercial club was organized at Garfield last week with a membership of 82.

The city council of Pullman, at its last regular session, elected A. B. Baker as a member of that body to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of W. D. Outman. Mr. Baker received the unanimous vote of the five members present.

It was a three-year-old grade Hereford steer, weighing 1905 pounds and at the price paid, 4 1/2 cents per pound, netted Mr. Drain $80.96. This goes to prove that it pays to raise good stock.

"Sciatica Is He—"

The following characteristic letter from former State Representative G. W. Barkhoff, was published in the last issue of the Colton News-Letter:

Green River Hot Springs, Wash., March 27, 1905.—Mr. Editor:—You can see by the heading of this letter that I have moved from my former place of living. I would have written sooner but did not know whether a letter would find you. I arrived here the 17th of Ireland at the eleventh hour. The band was playing the "Shamrock;" lunch at high 12; at 2 p. m. to the hot room, 150 F; then to steam chest, still hotter; then to bath tub, 95, for 15 minutes; then to bed 20 minutes; then a cold shower. Did I sweat? You bet! Well I felt better for two days, then reaction for some time, but I am feeling better than I have for some time. The doctor describes sciatica as General Sherman did war, "It's hell." Some days there are 100 guests coming and going. Have met a good many that I know. W. D. Burkhoff passed through here a few days ago for Palouse City to survey the railroad from Farmington to Leland, via Princeton, Ida. I don't know when I will be home. Ask Barney Gardwin for further information about this place.

FRIENDSHIPS.

Differences Between Those of Men and Those of Women.

One difference between men and women in their relation to friendship is that a man's friends like him in spite of himself; a woman's friends or acquaintances care for her because of herself, because of her powers of agreeability, her tact or her charm.

A man may be as grouchy as he likes on occasion. He may swear at his best friend and treat him as cavalierly as he pleases, yet that friend will wait in patience for "the old man to come round," knowing well that beneath the surface are a kindly heart and a willingness to share a last crust with him.

With her friends a woman may take no such liberty. The kind heart and the good intentions count for nothing beside a woman's bad manners and lack of taste in the treatment of her nearest and dearest, and condemnation is swift and sure. Nothing excuses her, and she is rarely forgiven. Nor would she expect to be forgiven. Not possessing that large patience undeniably necessary to friendship or the power of forgiving and waiting for the "grouch" to blow over, she does not look for forgiveness when she has sinned against these laws of a woman's making.

Rather she gives up her friend and contents herself quite placidly with another. But then, as we said before, a woman has no genius for friendship.

Lugubrious Hedda!

It seems, by the way, almost forgotten that it was with a burlesque of Ibsen that Mr. Barrie made his first bow as a dramatist. His travesty of "Hedda Gabler" was one of the most delicious pieces of fooling ever seen at Toole's theater, and in it Mr. Toole (as Ibsen himself, George Shelton as Tesman and Miss Irene Vanbrugh as a blend of Thea and Hedda) were delightful. In one scene Tesman was busy writing a review when Hedda entered, and the following dialogue took place:

Tesman (looking up)—Thea— Hedda (danguldy)—I am not Thea. I am Hedda.

Tesman—Then, Hedda, is there a k in "Christianity?" Hedda (very slowly and intensely)—There is—nothing—in—Christianity.

Tesman—Fancy that!—London Pall Mall Gazette.

Fame a Wild Beast.

"Literary fame," said a well known author whose name a few years ago was in everybody's mouth, "is more easily caught than kept. He who has a reputation to maintain has a wild beast in his house which he must constantly feed or it will feed on him. He who writes in a modern language is but the suicide of his own fame, scribbling with sand what the next wave of time will obliterate. He gets a short respite, not a pardon, from oblivion."

Sign of an Egotist.

Toward the latter days of George D. Prentice as the editor of the old Louisville Journal a thief got into the editorial room one night and stole the big dictionary. As soon as the loss was discovered Prentice said to his amanuensis: "Go out and purchase another copy of the dictionary. A man who will attempt to edit a newspaper without an unabridged dictionary is an egotist, and I do not belong in that category."
