Modern Witchcraft.

Says a correspondent of the London Chronicle: "This writer knows of a west country English farmer, a hard headed business man, who uses the latest machinery on his farm, yet holds the belief in pixies as firmly as any article of his religious creed. Having been visited by a series of minor misfortunes, he confided to the writer in the utmost seriousness his fear that he had offended a pixy by inadvertently stepping into a fairy ring and stated that he intended going on the morrow to the white witch at Exeter to get further misfortune averted. And this level headed business man took a day from his farm in the busiest time of the year and journeyed to Exeter and back—a matter of some sixty miles—for this purpose. On his return he was as one who had cast off a heavy burden. But the white witch's mysteries no persuasion could induce him to reveal."

A Violin For a Vane.

One of the most curious vanes to be seen on any church in Great Britain is that at Great Gonerby, a parish adjoining Grantham, in Lincolnshire. It is in the form of a fiddle and a bow and is unusually large. Its history is a curious one. Many years ago a peasant resided in Great Gonerby who eked out a modest livelihood by performing on an old violin, which was almost a part of his life. At last he decided to emigrate and out in the far west prospered and became a rich man. One day he sent to the clergyman at Great Gonerby a sum sufficient to build a church and attached to the gift the curious condition that a metal replica of his old fiddle and bow should be on the summit of the edifice. The gift was accepted, and the vane may still be seen on the church.

Club Stories.

Two stories are told of the time when the Athenaeum club, while its clubhouse was undergoing renovation, was hospitably taken in by the United Service club.

One was of a distinguished officer who, after a vain hunt for his umbrella, was heard to mutter, "That comes of letting those — bishops into the club!"

The counterblast is to the effect that when an Athenaeum man, while his club was still the guest of the other, asked for the librarian, the answer was, "Please, sir, he is in the dining room carving the roast beef!"

Took Him at His Word.

Gradgrind (to his employees)—No body but me is to touch that clock. Nobody is to begin or leave off work except as it indicates the time. Foreman—Yes, sir. Gradgrind (the next day)—Why, the day is one-fourth gone and nobody's at work! What does this mean? Foreman (meekly)—You forgot to wind the clock, sir.—London Fun.

Cause of His Hilarity.

Green—Td like that fellow Brown better if he didn't always laugh at his own jokes. White—Brown doesn't laugh at his own jokes. He laughs at you fellows who are silly enough to listen to them.—Illustrated Bits.

Foretelling the Future.

Mrs. de Style—So your baby girl is three weeks old. My, how time flies! Mrs. Gumbusta—Yes. Just think in thirty years from now she will be twenty-one years old.—Sphinx.

SIMPLE HOME RECIPE

Prepare This Simple Recipe at Home and Try It.

Druggists Here in Town Say They Can Supply the Ingredients or Make Up the Mixture.

Get from any prescription pharmacist the following:

Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half oz.; Compound Kargon, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces.

Shake well in a bottle and take a teaspoonful dose after each meal and at bedtime.

The above is considered as the most certain prescription ever written to relieve backache, kidney trouble, weak bladder and all forms of urinary difficulties. This mixture acts promptly on the eliminative tissues of the kidneys, enabling them to filter and strain the uric acid and other waste matter from the blood which causes rheumatism.

Some persons who suffer with the affections may not feel inclined to place much confidence in this simple mixture, yet those who have tried it say the results are simply surprising, the relief being effected without the slightest injury to the stomach or other organs.

Mix some and give it a trial. It certainly comes highly recommended. It is the prescription of an eminent authority, whose entire reputation, it is said, was established by it.

A druggist here at home, when asked, stated that he could either supply the ingredients or mix the prescription for our readers, also recommends it as harmless.

Highly Practical.

"Your business college for young ladies seems to be all right."

"It is all right."

"Do you give the girls a good practical business training?"

"In reply to that question I can only say that 99 per cent of our graduates marry their employers the first year."

—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Absent Treatment.

"What is the matter with Mrs. Spicy? I saw her sitting on her porch as I came by gritting her teeth and looking daggers into vacancy."

"Her husband is a half hour late, and she is giving him absent treatment."—Chicago Journal.

Excelsior.

Uncle—And what will you do when you are a man, Tommy? Tommy—I am going to grow a beard. Uncle—Why? Tommy—Because then I won't have nearly so much face to wash.—Harper's Weekly.

Getting Personal.

"How does a man get a 'game leg' pa?"

"Well, you see—"

"Is it by getting into a game and having it pulled?"—New York Press.

An ugly criticism makes more noise than a good book.—Talleyrand.
