This year's salmon pack will be worth $20,000,000.

The Gazette prints today the auditor's report in full, covering three pages. At mention is called to it.

Governor Hay has designated Tuesday, November 2, as the day for holding a special election in the second congressional district for a successor of the late Congressman Cushman.

The New West Coast Trade says "good roads is a subject which should be dear to the heart of the country merchant. Good roads will make his town better, his customers more prosperous and prove an economy to him. He should be among those who are working for better highways."

The registering for land drawings on the three Indian reservations has called attention to the fact that many incompetent men hold commissions as notaries public. A notary public is an important public official, and some regard for competency and fitness should be observed in making the appointment. Governor Hay should revoke the commissions of several in this state.

Burbank, plant wizard, is denounced as a fakir. This comes from a no less respectable authority than the Pasadena Gardeners' Association, in a resolution unanimously adopted by 300 delegates at a meeting recently held. It comes as a double surprise and knocks over an idol at whose shrine we have been worshipping for many years. However, it will take more than a resolution to convince the American people. Like all Missouri they will have to be shown.

The report of C. S. Reed, warden of the state penitentiary, for the month of July, shows that the total cost of maintaining the Walla Walla institution for salaries, food and expenses of all kinds, averaged 24 cents a day for every inmate. The state now has 155 prisoners out on parole and 80 at work on the various state roads. Out of this total of 235 men only one escaped during July. He broke away from the camp near Lake Ketchikan and has not been recaptured.

Work on the Lake Washington canal at Seattle will soon begin. It has been an issue since long before statehood, it being a pet scheme of the early pioneers of that place, few of whom, however, are alive to see the fulfillment of their fondest desires. It was an issue in the campaign when McGraw was elected governor, and McGraw will dig the first shovelful of dirt when work begins Eastern Washington will rejoice with the west side in the completion of this great undertaking. We are in favor of canals, whether they be irrigation canals or waterways canals.

The notorious Dr. J. Eugene Jordan of Seattle, and one Peter F. Morrow, not quite so notorious but hungry for notoriety and shekels, have bobbed up in the limelight against the so-called attempt to "fix" the judges of the supreme court. No one who knows either Jordan or Morrow will believe anything they may say, or could doubt any villany either would stoop to engage in. The judges of the supreme court need not worry if no better material than Jordan and Morrow can be found to testify against them. Jordan has been engaged in so many undertakings of a doubtful nature that almost anything rascally can be expected from him.

Editor Goodwin of Goodwin's Weekly scholarly and usually correct, in speaking of the "stately band of men in civil life who studded the nation when it was almost in extremes," speaking of the civil war, mentions "Watson, who at the time was editor of the Sacramento (Cal.) Union," as one of this noble band. The Sacramento Union was a power in its day, and its editor deserves a place in the Hall of Fame, but Watson was never editor of the Union. He was, however, editor of the Sacramento Record when it was established by the Central Pacific Railroad Co. to kill the Union, which it did, the two papers finally merging and being known to this day as the Record-Union. Watson was an Englishman, and later died at Victoria, B. C. The editor of the Sacramento Union of war time, who did as much as any one man on the Pacific coast for the Union cause, was L. Upson. Watson was in the employ of a railway giant for pay. Upson, while not brilliant, was solid, steadfast, patriotic. Editor Goodwin, upon investigation, will find this statement to be true.

The Payne Tariff Bill.
 The Gazette this week devotes an entire page in publishing a synopsis of the new tariff bill. It contains a history of the measure, as well as of the first tariff bill by the first congress, and all subsequent tariff bills to the present. Revision of the tariff has been downward, perhaps not to the extent desired by many, but still lessening the burdens on the necessities of life in most particulars. Many articles are on the free list that were not in the Dingley bill. These are noted in the printed page. To draft a tariff bill that would please everybody is a moral impossibility. Republicans and democrats alike are divided in opinion. It is owing a great deal where you live, what you produce or what you manufacture. Then we have the high protectionist and the free trader, that cannot mix any more than oil and water can mix. Of the new tariff bill President Taft says that "this is not a perfect tariff bill, but a fulfillment free from criticism in respect to a subject matter involving many schedules and thousands of articles could not be expected." The attention of the reader is called to this page, which cannot fail to be of interest.

The Tacoma News thus philosophizes on the late Coeur d'Alene land drawings: "This is the day. Nearly 300,000 Americans of high and low degree are enjoying that mixture of high expectations and fearsome anxiety involved at all times when the jack-pot is large. In the doleful dumps this minute and in ecstasy the next; building beautiful air castles now, and then resolving to forget it all in the hum-drum of hard work. Win or lose, those who 'sit in' may be sure that the deal is square, with no cards under the table nor mystic signs nor marked paste-board. The losers will know more of geography and the laws of chance, the railroads will be large sums in pocket and the notaries likewise, and Uncle Sam will be rid of a lot of lands that will soon blossom as the rose, offering homes for thousands of lusty Americans. It may be a subject for contemplation that the noble red man whose tepees make way for the farm house was absent when the stones were cast."

As showing the eccentricities of the marriage laws of the different states two couples came to Colfax last week from Moscow, Idaho, to take out marriage licenses, not being able to do so under the laws of Idaho. Both parties were under age, and notwithstanding they had parents' consent they had to come here to secure a license and get married. Our laws permit marriage of minors with parents' consent. The tide has been the other way of late, most couples going to Idaho and other outside points to avoid the medical examination required under the laws of the state of Washington. Without uniform state laws on the subject or national regulation of marriage and divorce we shall never know exactly "where we are at."

First Half of the Fair.
 Promoters of the exposition and citizens of Seattle have just cause for gratification over the success of the enterprise during the first half of its life. In the early stages of the fair it was believed that the attendance would not exceed 3,000,000; it now begins to look like this estimate will be much below the final count, for attendance during the first half of the exposition is little under 3,000,000, and it is generally believed that during the remainder of the fair's life travel into this section and attendance at the fair will greatly increase. Reports from every part of the country indicate that travel henceforth into the Pacific Northwest will be extremely heavy. The transcontinental railroads, largely because of the intelligent and energetic manner in which they have advertised the fair and the Pacific Northwest, are handling immense throngs, and there is every reason to believe an increase in passenger travel to be inevitable. In view of these facts, and in view of the heavy attendance at the fair during the first half of its life, the earlier estimates of the total attendance seem to be rather too small. Moreover, it must not be forgotten that there are some big days, such as Seattle day, and the day on which President Taft and other dignitaries will be here, still on the programme. When the exposition's total attendance is finally summed up, even the optimists will probably be surprised.—Seattle Post Intelligencer.

Deafness Cannot be Cured by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by Catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circular free.

Intense Colicky Pains Relieved.
 "For some years I suffered from intense colicky pains which would come on at times and from which I could find no relief," says I. S. Mason, of Beaver Dam, Ky. "Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy was recommended to me by a friend. After taking a few doses of the remedy I was entirely relieved. That was four years ago and there has been no return of the symptoms since that time." This remedy is for sale by Hamilton Drug Co.

IF IT'S GOOD ENOUGH FOR HARRIMAN IT'S GOOD ENOUGH FOR ME
 Will be the opinion of many a man and woman after reading this item, copied from the Syracuse Herald of June 29th, last:
HARRIMAN MUST GET FAT.
 Professor Struempell Declares the Financier Is Under Nourished.
 New York, June 29.—"Three cheers for bread and beer," exclaimed E. H. Harriman laughingly, when he had been examined by Professor Struempell at Semmering, Austria, yesterday, says a dispatch to the American. Mr. Harriman was told that he must get fat, for Professor Struempell made a thorough examination of the financier and came to the conclusion that he is under nourished.
 Mr. Harriman tipped the scales at 144 pounds, and the professor, after fingering the Harriman ribs, announced that his patient must take the fattening cure.
 "Plenty of cereals, large quantities of milk, much meat and above all unlimited malt beer," was the Struempell prescription.
 Mr. Harriman, on receiving this advice made the merry observation above given.
