

QUAKER OATS COMPANY

Will Establish a Million Dollar Plant in Inland Empire.

The Quaker Oats Co. is looking over the Pacific Northwest having in view the establishment of a million-dollar plant to manufacture their products here. This means a great deal for the community securing the plant; not only that, it means much for the state as a whole, as it is factories the Far West needs, less boom talk. A friendly rivalry has sprung up for the location of the plant, in which Whitman county towns have jumped into the ring and are offering inducements in the way of land, favorable locations, etc. Why not? Whitman county is the largest wheat-producing county in the state, also grows a great abundance of oats, and can easily take the lead in growing that cereal if inducement is offered to grow more of it. It would seem, therefore, that Whitman county is THE place for the location of the Quaker Oats plant, a fact undoubtedly well known to the Quaker Oats people. The Gazette is not whooping it up for any particular locality, any further than that it wants to see it come to Whitman county, the greatest cereal-producing county in the state.

Towns in Line for Plant.

Pullman is making a strong effort to secure the location of the factory in that burg. We are told that a committee of the chamber of commerce "is gathering data and statistics to be forwarded to the company," and that the chamber "has the promise of the company that the advantages offered by Pullman will be investigated." That sounds encouraging.

Elberton, Oakesdale, Rosalia and Waverly also want the plant. While Waverly is just outside the county limits of Whitman, still the relationship is so close and communication so easy that no tears would be shed if the erstwhile sugar beet factory town gets the prize. The sugar beet factory is closed and will probably remain closed indefinitely. The residents of Waverly point out that the building and 40-acre site of the sugar factory is adaptable.

Rosalia's claim for the factory is based upon the fact that it is in "the very heart of the oat country, with outlets over three railroads, besides other things of equal importance which should be considered."

Oakesdale is an active bidder for the plant. The commercial club is collecting data, which will be sent to the Quaker Oats company, including blue prints. It is pointed out that "Oakesdale is in the heart of the Palouse and the oat production here is enormous. Buyers from Spokane, Pullman and other towns in the Palouse come here to buy oats and pay a premium."

Mayor Berkstresser of Elberton has written to the Quaker Oats company offering them a site if it will locate the million dollar plant there. The site offered is the present picnic grounds owned by the town. The tract comprises some 15 or 20 acres and is located on the banks of the North Palouse river. It is regarded as an admirable location, and in case additional ground is needed it can easily be obtained. The water power advantages are especially good at this point, and with little expense can be developed to meet almost any needs for a factory of this kind. A mass meeting of citizens endorsed the action of Mayor Berkstresser in this matter.

In this connection the Palouse Republic rises to remark: "If the Northwest is to have such a factory there is no particular reason why the advantages of Palouse should not be brought to the attention of the company. The matter should be taken up by the Business Men's Association at the meeting next week."

Colfax Is Ideal Location.

This matter should receive the attention of the Colfax Commercial Club and that right away. Colfax is a commercial center, and can offer inducements for the plant second to no other town.

Let us jubilate with the victor, which ever one it may be.

GOES TO WEISER, IDAHO.

Colfax Boy Who Invests in Mercantile Establishment There.

Arthur Stapleton, a young man well and favorably known in Colfax, will leave about the 1st of next month for Weiser, Idaho, where he has bought an interest in a mercantile establishment handling feed and grain, wood and coal, farm implements, etc., and where he will make his future home. Arthur has been a resident of Colfax for over seven years and at one time was a student at the High school. For five years he has been in the office of Seymour Manning, the well known grain buyer for the Northwestern Warehouse Co., hence his business training has been in good hands and he has not been slow to profit by the opportunity placed at his disposal.

It speaks volumes for young Stapleton when we state that by industry, frugality and sobriety he is enabled to buy into an established business in a rich and growing community, the future looking bright.

Weiser is a city of 5000 people. It expects to grow. Arthur is receiving the congratulations of friends, who wish him pot luck and long life and happiness.

Young Wilcox Buried Here.

The body of Eddie Wilcox, the 18-year-old son of Mrs. A. B. Wilcox, who died in Sacred Heart hospital, Spokane, Wednesday of last week from injuries sustained in the gasoline explosion at La Crosse the day before, was brought to Colfax, the funeral taking place from the M. E. church Wednesday, Rev. N. M. Jones officiating. The gasoline engine at the pumping station of the O-W. R. & N. at La Crosse exploded, burning the body and face of the young man in a horrible manner. He was taken to Spokane for medical treatment, but died the next day. The family is well known. The town of Wilcox bears the family name. They have the sympathy of all.

Plans are already being laid for the forthcoming event in October, which, from appearances, will excel all others, if such a thing is possible.

ONE BIG FOOL.

But He Doesn't Live in Colfax Nor Read The Gazette.

A man in Connecticut gave a doctor, a specialist in catarrh, $50 to cure him of this common yet most obnoxious disease.

The specialist gave him a bottle of medicine and told him to use it. The fool took the medicine home, took out a dose, put it on a shelf and made no further effort to follow instructions.

Three months later with the medicine still on the shelf he told a friend that the specialist was a fake; that he had paid him $50 and still had catarrh. HYOMEI (pronounce it High-o-me) won't cure catarrh if you don't breathe it; it will if you breathe it regularly.

Furthermore, you don't need to give a catarrh specialist $50 to cure you of catarrh, for the specialist is yet to be born who can write a better prescription than HYOMEI.

V. T. McCroskey and druggists everywhere guarantee HYOMEI to cure catarrh or money back. A complete outfit, which consists of a bottle of HYOMEI, a hard rubber inhaler and simple instructions for use costs only $1.00. Separate bottles of HYOMEI if afterwards needed cost but 50 cents.

The Famous Rayo

Gives the Best Light at Any Price

When you pay more than the Rayo price for a lamp, you are paying for extra decorations that cannot add to the quality of the light. You can't pay for a better light, because there is none. An oil light has the least effect on the human eye, and the Rayo Lamp is the best oil lamp made, though low in price. You can pay $5, $10, or $20 for some other lamp, and although you get a more costly lamp, you can't get a better light than the white, mellow, diffused, unflattering light of the low-priced Rayo.

Has a strong, durable shade-holder. This season's burner adds to the strength and appearance. Made of solid brass, nickel-plated, and easily polished.

AUCTIONEER

My extreme diffidence and retiring disposition has heretofore prevented me from advertising my superior qualifications as an auctioneer, but as my competitors are blowing their horns off for business, it behooves me to blow too. I have followed auctioneering ever since my neck has been as long as a giraffe's, during which time I have sold horses and cows enough to stock Buffalo Bill's imaginary mind and other stuff that would fill all the warehouses in sight and never have heard a man say that I did not charge him enough. My nationality is German, my politics a Mis-ourian, my religion - free thinker, by nature a good bloower, in personal appearance a perfect beauty, and can sell stock higher than any seaplane that ever soared. Please try all other auctioneers first; if they let you down try me, I will hold you up. I want your business.
