He became unmanageable and it was deemed expedient to remove him to the Steilacoom asylum, where, with proper medical treatment he will soon return to us again sound in mind and body. Meantime the community extends its sympathy to his relatives in this trying hour. Mr. M. is one of our worthiest citizens.

—It may be of interest to our readers to know that the original rooster, the one that came to this country in the May Flower, is now alive and in Pullman. That this is a fact, is proven by his habit of crowing at 11 o'clock every night, having been unable to keep track of the difference in time between his native and adopted country while crossing the ocean, consequently, now crows at the time to which he was accustomed in his youth. We hope that he will soon grace the table of one of our delinquent subscribers, (if we ever have one) that we may sleep in peace.

Satinet coats $3.00 each, at D. & M.'s.

—Oh, but its gorgeous, this mail service of ours nowadays. Here is another specimen, from the Lewiston Teller: "We have not received a mail from Colfax for several days, nor do we get mail from Spokane Falls. We are told that the mail has been discontinued between Colfax and Lewiston; also, that all mail matter reaching Genesee by rail there stops, and that no mail matter is now carried between Moscow and Lewiston. The Colfax, Moscow and Genesee papers do not reach us. This is a great deprivation to many. We hope this defect in mail service will soon be remedied.

THE ECLIPSE.—On Tuesday afternoon, Jan. 1, the people of the northwestern part of the United States had an excellent opportunity to view an almost total eclipse of the sun. The eclipse began at 1h. 4min. p. m., at a point in the Pacific ocean about 3,500 miles west of San Diego, Cal., and about 2,500 miles west of Vancouver's Island it began to be total. The path of the total eclipse was about sixty miles wide, and met the western coast of the United States a few miles north from San Francisco, at about 2h. 20min. p. m. From this point its path ran through the country in a nearly northeasterly direction, and terminated in Canada near the eastern border of Lake Winnipeg, at 4h. 10min. p. m. The day was a clear one and our citizens, armed with pieces of smoked glass, gazed heavenward, at intervals, until it disappeared.

AT THE BALL MASQUE.—Were you there? No? Then you missed the event of the season. Reaney's hall was crowded, even to the gallery. The merry maskers had the floor to themselves except the rear portion of the hall, which was reserved for spectators. Many were the surmises as to who was who, and many declared they recognized friends only to find they were "away off" when the time for unmasking arrived. It was almost impossible for the HERALD representative to secure a complete list of all the characters and the names of those representing them, but prominent among them was Mrs. Buchanan, whose dress was made of HERALDS, the paper she characterized and which deserves special mention, as it was not only becoming, but unique in design. J. C. Fullerton disguised as a dude coon; Thos. Allphin was resplendent and attractive as Robin Hood; night with her sable robes and twinkling stars was well portrayed by Mrs. Zender. Uncle Sam (Henry Trobe), carried himself with dignity, while Hill Norton, the highlander, sighed in vain for the lass of his country and the bagpipe that every Scotchman loves. Fireman E. Hall was on deck and Policeman Kirkwood manfully did his duty and caused much merriment, by running the clowns and small boys into the cooler. It was impossible to recognize jolly Mark True in the garb of a priest, and Mrs. Orville Stewart, as a gushing school-girl was equally deceptive. Mrs. Newton was charming as an Indian princess, and Miss Crockett as Folly, made merry music with the numerous little bells that adorned her costume; Miss Lewis as Topsy, danced with Clem Lloyd as Uncle Tom; Mother Goose and Eclipse (Rose Tewalt, of Colton), were both novel in design; George Bremer sustained well his character of Cowboy; H. Anderson as a humble peasant kept company with a Turk; the twin sisters were Ruth Averill and Mrs. Leslie. Stewart and Newton made good jockeys, and Wm. Chambers was in full dress; Miss Duncan quipped it as "Belle of the Ball." Ed Butcher, and E. M. Leslie, portrayed the Siamese twins. Chas. Olds, Dave Clark, Justin Baird, Henry Grostein, Frank James, R. J. Skaife and Joe Ruggles all represented clowns. There were several whose names we were unable to get. Dancing was indulged in till four o'clock a. m.

—Harry Reese spent the holiday, with his family, in Portland.

—Some of our go-to-bed-early citizens were aroused from their midnight dreams on Monday last, by a loud something, a report that sounded like an explosion. This terrific noise, combined with a shake of equal magnitude, caused Capt. Phillips to ejaculate, "wha—what in thunder is that." Another "boom" and we all knew that the old year had expired; been laid away on memory's shelf; and a new year, in infant purity and bright with promise, unto us was born. The anvil was kept in active use for some time, and at daybreak the small boy with fire-crackers was on deck. Calls were the order of the day and the HERALD received its quota.

MISSOURI LODGE.—This is the name Dr. Webb has given his new residence. It is situated on the heights west of town and has, probably, the most desirable location to be found in Pullman. It faces the east and looking down Main-st a broad view of the business portion of town is obtained. The design is plain but roomy, with two bay-windows and two verandas to give a neat finish to the front. On the first floor are double parlors, a sitting-room, kitchen etc., with dining-room in the center, all finished in Oregon cedar, grained, and the walls plastered and papered. The second story is composed of sleeping apartments, closets, and a fine library and billiard-hall, the latter directly over the dining-room. These rooms are finished similar to the ones below. Rich walled furniture and soft brussels carpet, adorn the doctor's home. The foundation of the house is of granite and the cellar made of brick. When the doctor gets those moon-flowers to growing, and the grounds laid off in terraces, the place will be "a thing of beauty and a joy forever."

HE MEANT WELL.—Andrew Clyde, of Palouse City, and Miss Annie Davitt of the same place, met, per preconcerted agreement, at Colfax, whither they had gone separately to allay all suspicion on the part of their friends, and on the first day of the new year declared their willingness to trot together in matrimonial harness, come weal or woe. They then took the first train for Pullman and were quartered at the Palace Hotel. Meanwhile, Dr. McGee, also of Palouse City, who was here on professional business, called at the same hotel to secure accommodations for the night. Looking over the register he discovered the name of Mr. Clyde and his joy at finding an old friend was so great that he at once proposed to keep him company. Upon being informed that he already had a roommate, he insisted that it made no difference as he was an intimate friend. His informant suggested that possibly his wife might object. "His wife!" exclaimed the M. D. as he grew cold all over. And then he "caught on" and concluded he wouldn't disturb Mr. Clyde, who, doubtless, was already sleeping the sleep of the—married. The HERALD extends its congratulations and well wishes.

—Postmaster Downen has added a pair of new scales to his office.

—The New Year's edition of the Tacoma Ledger, comes to our table "chuck full" of facts and statistics, concerning Washington Territory.

—On New Year's day, while the eclipse was on, our citizens were treated to an afternoon serenade by the Pullman Cornet Band. This organization has been practicing only a month, under the leadership of Prof. Harris. It is composed of thirteen pieces and they are well handled by the boys. The selections were all good and well rendered and Pullman may congratulate itself on having such an organization within its borders.

Ewartsville.

Regular Correspondence.

Rev. T. W. Walters preached to the people of Ewartsville Sunday, Dec. 30th.

Getting cold out here. Three degrees below zero at Ewartsville P. O. Wednesday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Kirkpatrick entertained their friends new years day. Rev. Jas. Davies, of Pullman, was among the guests.

Mr. Hiram Reese who has been in this vicinity for more than a year, started Tuesday, for his old home in Michigan. We understand he goes to care for his aged parents, and not because he is in any way dissatisfied with this country. U Know.

Staley Gossip.

Regular Correspondence.

Mr. Byers, of Staley, has left for Iowa, with his family.

The small lake near the depot affords beautiful skating, this kind of weather.

Why don't the lot owners here build a sidewalk from Staley Bros.' store to the new hotel?

Mr. Brown, Mr. Drinkwater and Mr. Harding are all at work on Mrs. Bendower's building.

Bros. Renfro, Stephenson and Lyn Staley visited Pullman last Saturday. Lodge night, you know.

Mr. John Staley will soon leave for the East. Maybe, when he returns he will bring another Staley with him.

Mr. Fletcher Staley, who has been attending school at Colfax, and Miss Maggie Staley who has been studying music in Spokane Falls, have both been spending Christmas with their relatives.

Joseph Allphin left for Pullman Xmas eve to spend the following day with his brother and Mr. Fullerton, but was hastily recalled to this place by a telegram urging him to return immediately to fulfill some duty connected with the warehouse. On his way out he found the ties so slippery that he could hardly walk straight. On his return he found a car-load of cats awaiting him.

SUBSCRIBER.

Colfax.

From Gazette, 28th ult.

W. L. Taylor, of Pullman, was in the city Sunday.

G. W. Hunt has finished the 40-mile grade of the C. & W. railway from Cheney to Davenport.

A. A. Wilson is acting deputy clerk of the district court during the absence of Arthur Marion in Walls Falls.

Rumor hath it that John Muir and Miss Minnie Holt, both well known in this city, were married in San Francisco last week.

Star service has been established on the mail route from Lone Pine to Tekoa, and back, three times a week, from January 1.

Married, at the Baldwin house, Colfax, December 25, 1888, by Rev. J. T. Whaley, Wm. W. Withron and Miss Ella Morrison, both of Whitman county.

The hardware firm of Howe & Fehler dissolved partnership this week, Owen Fehler retiring therefrom. Arthur Howe will continue the business at the old stand.

The young men of the city have "chipped in" and raised a fund with which to pay for the 100-candle power electric light which hangs over the lake to light the frisky skater on his way.

The O. R. & N. Co. appears to be having a run of bad luck lately in the way of accidents. The smash up at Colfax, in which one man received fatal injuries, occurred about six weeks ago, and on Sunday last a heavy freight train became unmanageable on the Alto Hill, south of the river, resulting in the wrecking of ten loaded cars and the killing of a brakeman named Logan. Another brakeman had a leg broken. It is reported that Logan was thrown against the telegraph wire with such force that he was cut nearly in two, after which a car rolled over him, horribly mutilating his body. The train is said to have been in the hands of an entirely new crew, who were not familiar with the heavy grade on the hill, hence they lost control of it.
