What Will You Do About It?

Is the anti court-house agitation mere talk, or are the tax-payers really in earnest? Do you want to be illegally taxed—do you wish to have your rights put under foot? Do you want to be plunged in debt by your agents without your consent? Farmers, are you in favor of being bulldozed by the Commissioners into building a court-house? If you are, then keep silent, take no action, and it will be accomplished.

If, however, you are opposed to this, then put that opposition into form. Organize your district, hold meetings, raise funds, and all unite in stopping the outrage. The law is on your side, but you must ask for its protection. This will cost money, but how much? Not more than a hundredth part of what the cost will be to you if you allow the scheme to proceed. For every dollar you will have to pay if the court-house is built one cent now will be sufficient for the expense of asserting your rights.

The claim has been made that but a few towns are opposed to the building of the court-house. Refute this falsehood in terms that cannot be misunderstood. Now is the time to act. Call meetings in every precinct and join in one grand effort to drive these speculators and oath-violators into oblivion and to secure for yourselves some decent regard for your rights.

The HERALD believes the action of the Commissioners and their abettors in this court-house matter to be the most outrageous usurpation of popular rights that was ever perpetrated. But, unless the people—those who must pay for the music—will assert themselves, it is useless to say more. Talk is cheap, and so long as the opposition is confined simply to jawbone the building will progress. United action only can stop it. It lies entirely with you, tax-payers.

Our Neighbors at Staley.

A HERALD representative had a most enjoyable visit at this thriving little town, the other day. Lying in a handsome valley between green and cultivated hills, Staley presents, in its smooth and level site, one of the best of localities for a growing village. In this, but its community is a community of brains and enterprise, and as a consequence the place is growing finely. The town-site proprietors are Daniel L. Staley and his sons, John, Len. C., and Fletcher. The family came originally from Randolph county, North Carolina, where they were well and prominently known, and settled upon their present location about the year 1869. From a comparatively small beginning, the first homestead has now increased to a magnificent domain of over 3,000 acres, one-quarter of which is under high cultivation, the balance being devoted to the town-site, to orchards, to stock ranges, etc. The Spokane & Palouse branch of the N. P. R. R. passes through the property, along the edge of the valley, and has built a fine depot and a large grain elevator at a convenient point. Another warehouse, 200 feet in length, is now being erected by the Staley brothers, near the depot. G. W. Ford is putting up a substantial building designed for a farm machinery warehouse and real estate office. J. P. Mulrony, a recent arrival, is erecting a residence and a blacksmith shop, and Len. Staley is about finishing a neat $800 home for himself. The Pioneer Hotel, recently completed, is another prominent feature in the town's growth, and is ably conducted by Mrs. E. Bendura, a landlady of experience. It may be well to state here that the town-site owners offer a town lot free to any one who will build a house upon it, a lot free for any business purpose, or as many lots free as any one may wish to build on. These and other liberal inducements have already brought capital seeking investment to Staley, the latest instance being a proposition to erect a flouring mill there this season.

Staley can also boast of possessing one of the largest and best kept general merchandise stores in the Palouse country. It is owned by the Staley Bros., and conducted by Mr. Wm. Renfro, a gentleman widely known and highly esteemed for his fine business qualities, strict integrity and genial disposition. Few people can boast of as many warm personal and business friends as "Billy." This store and its $15,000 stock is a perfect model of neatness and of taste in selection and arrangement. About every human want, we were going to say, can be supplied over its counters. A splendid fire and burglar-proof safe weighing 3000 lbs. and costing $500 adorns the counting-room, and is of the latest and most approved pattern. The postoffice is also located here, and will soon be supplied with a set of new boxes and other necessary paraphernalia. Mesdames Staley and Oswalt have a choice selection of millinery goods and trimmings in connection with the store, and are evidently adepts at the business. Altogether, our neighboring village bears every evidence of enterprise and of a prosperous future. Mr. Staley and his go-ahead sons deserve their prosperity. The HERALD acknowledges courtesies extended by Mr. and Mrs. Renfro, and by John and Len. Staley—not forgetting, also, jolly "Jerry" Cronan, foreman of the best kept section of the S. & P. division.

How It Works in Iowa.

A dispatch from Dubuque, Iowa, to the Portland Oregonian says: Referring to his recent controversy with Benj. F. Wright, of Charles City (Ia.), father of the prohibitory law, U. S. Revenue Collector Webster said to-day:

"Had I desired I could have given Mr. Wright many more unpalatable facts concerning the operation of the prohibitory liquor law in Iowa. I might have stated that I issued 232 more liquor dealers' licenses this year than last, and that the prohibitory law has increased the sale of spirits in Iowa. This is shown by the reports of sales made to my office by the wholesale dealers in my district. The number of wholesalers is slightly smaller than before the law went into effect, but the actual sales are larger and the quality of the liquor sold is poorer. Not only have the sales of our dealers increased, but since the decision of the U. S. supreme court in the case of Bowman Bros. (known as the 'original package' decision) the importations of liquor by express in original packages have been enormous. We stopped this for a time by arresting the wholesalers' license, as they had no authority to do business at the point of delivery, which, the packages being sent C. O. D., was considered the point of sale; but now customers send the money with their orders and thus evade the law. One cause of the increase is that where saloons are closed the drinkers form clubs and drink more than they otherwise would, while those who order the stuff for their own consumption only are tempted to drink by having the liquor constantly beside them. This state of affairs applies equally as well to minors as to grown people."

A Sensible View of the Matter.

[Peoria Call.]
Nine-tenths of the unhappy marriages are the result of green human calves being allowed to run at large in society pastures without any yoke on them. They marry and have children before they do mustaches; they are fathers of twins before they have two pairs of pants, and the little girls they wed are old women before they are 20 years old. Occasionally one of these gossling marriages turns out all right, but it is a case of luck. If there was a law against young galsot sparkling and marrying before they have cut all their teeth we suppose the little cusses would evade it in some way; but there ought to be a sentiment against it. It is bad enough for these bantams to think of finding a pullet when they have raised money enough to buy a bundle of lath to build a hen-house. But they see a girl who looks cunning, and they are afraid there are not going to be enough to go round, and then they spark real spry, and before they have learned the sanctity of the marriage relation they are "hitbed for life," and before they own a cook stove or a bedstead they have got to get up in the night and hunt a doctor, so frightened that they run themselves out of breath and abuse the doctor because he does not run, too. And when the doctor gets there, there is not linen enough in the house to properly wrap up the baby.

The May report of the investigations of the Department of Agriculture relative to the possibility of increasing our markets for agricultural products shows that our markets are limited, and that an increase in the surplus of wheat, oats, butter and cheese will reduce the price of those articles both here and abroad. Barley, flax, hemp and fruit are largely imported; it is therefore necessary that the farmers of the Northwest should turn their attention to raising the crops for which they have a market at home. Washington will produce flax equal in quantity and quality to any in the world, and the manufacture of this staple is made possible in every town by a machine recently introduced which removes the fibre from the stock without wetting. The assistant secretary of agriculture thinks that this country is on the verge of a great revolution in the production and manufacture of flax.

Our democratic friends feel somewhat elated over the small republican majority in the constitutional convention, and cherish great expectations for the coming election this fall. As an index of the comparative strength of political parties the recent vote furnishes a very imperfect idea, as the vote throughout was very light and politics was a secondary consideration with a large per cent. of the people.

The two Dakotas will have a majority of republicans in their constitutional conventions, while Montana will send a democratic delegation to frame her constitution. Washington is republican, and will likely remain so for some years to come.

The Town of Pullman.

Pullman, 85 miles south of Spokane Falls, is the second town in importance in Whitman county; it is situated at the junction of the Spokane & Palouse branch of the N. P. and the O. R. & N. railroads, and is situated in the center of the "garden spot" of the famous Palouse county, which has no equal in the world as an agricultural district. The peculiar location of Pullman requires all railroads that wish to tap this region to pass through it, which in time will make it a railroad center. The town has grown in the past two years from a hamlet to a town of 700 population, and now has a prosperous and substantial growth. Over half a million of dollars was paid last fall at Pullman, to farmers of the neighborhood for their products, which is as much as is paid in most towns of 2000 people. As a business point Pullman has no equal, and an invitation is extended to everyone seeking a new location to come and investigate our resources and our future. The average yield of wheat in this vicinity is 40 bushels per acre; of oats, from 70 to 80; of flax, 20; barley, 65, and hay 3½ tons. The climate is all that could be desired.

The GLOBE is The Chief Paper of the Northwest, and is Recognized Throughout the Country as the One Exponent of that Great Wonderful Future lying between the Mississippi River and the Rocky Mountains, of which Minnesota and the Dakotas are the center. Its complete success and phenomenal growth during the past four years have attracted the attention of the reading world, and all is comprehended when it is said the GLOBE for 1889 will be better and greater than ever. During this non-partisan period the GLOBE will address itself to the interests of the wide section it represents, without regard to party or faction, clique or clan. With improved and unrivalled mechanical and news facilities, it will present in compact and readable form, the doings of the world with such accuracy as to fit it for a text book in the schools of the commonwealth. The scenes and incidents of the administration of Gen. Harrison will be brightly and graphically described, and his policy fairly and freely detailed.
