In the sack in this office there are just 54 of the tubers, and their combined weight is 108 pounds. THE FORTNIGHTLY CLUB.

The Ladies' Fortnightly club met with Mrs. Fulmer September 27th. Act II of the play "The Merchant of Venice" was read, and then followed the reading of a paper by Mrs. Bull on "Art and Science in the 16th Century." Mrs. Bull gave a lengthy and entertaining account of the period in which many points of interest were brought out. The paper showed that much thought and research had been given it. The next number on the program was a paper by Mrs. Bryan on Portia, the most remarkable of all Shakespeare's women characters.

OVERWORK

—INDUCED—

Nervous Prostration

Complete Recovery by the Use of

Ayer's Sarsaparilla

"Some years ago, as a result of too close attention to business, my health failed. I became weak, nervous, was unable to look after my interests, and manifested all the symptoms of a decline. I took three bottles of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, began to improve at once, and gradually increased my weight from one hundred and twenty-five to two hundred pounds. Since then, I and my family have used this medicine when needed, and we are all in the best of health, a fact which we attribute to Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I believe my children would have been fatherless to-day had it not been for Ayer's Sarsaparilla, of which preparation I cannot say too much."—H. O. HINSON, Postmaster and Planter, Kinnard's, S. C.

Ayer's ^{THE} ONLY Sarsaparilla

RECEIVING MEDAL AT WORLD'S FAIR.

AYER'S PILLS SAVE DOCTOR'S BILLS.

Portia is the third great character of the play and in importance stands quite on a par with Antonio and Shylock, perhaps, indeed second to Shylock. Her father is dead and has left a will which seems to bind her choice of a husband to a hopeless accident. In filial devotion Portia determined to keep and observe the will of her father and herein the full beauty of her character is brought out. An interesting feature of the paper was the description of the personal appearance of the heroine. A general discussion followed each paper. Mrs. Chas. White favored the club with a very appropriate and pleasing song entitled "A Venetian Boat Song."

Club adjourned to meet Friday, October 11th, at 3 p. m. with Miss Hungate. BESSIE WILLIAMS, Secretary.
