A VISIT TO PARIS.

Americans Who Go to the Exposition Will Need Much Cash.

Hotel Rates Raised and Everything Will Have a Fancy Price Tacked On to Fleece Visitors.

Ben C. Truman, well known as a newspaper writer in Chicago, is now in Paris and in a recent letter offers, through the Chicago Chronicle, some suggestions to those contemplating a visit to that city during the exposition. He says:

"The hotels have all raised their rates from 40 to 80 per cent. The Grand hotel is the leading robber of the gang. Twenty years ago a good room could be secured there for six francs per day, candles and attendance included; coffee for two francs, dejeuner a la fourchette, four francs, and dinner for six, including wine. Ten years ago, during the exposition of 1889, the same room was seven francs, coffee three francs, dejeuner five francs and dinner seven, including wine. Now, however, the same room (incandescent light) is 15 francs, coffee four francs, dejeuner five francs and dinner seven, or about $6 per day, and all the meals skimpy—same thing every day; same old poulette and chicken salad twice a day. Can you imagine so prodigious a steal as 80 cents for a cup of abominable coffee and a few counted rolls? The Continental and L'Athance charge about the same. All the other hotels of account charge about from 18 to 28 francs per day for full board per month or per day—everything is so much per day, even if it is by the month or year.

"And then you are compelled to fee from six to ten people almost continually. Elegant pensions, engineered by widows of 'distinguished and talented army and navy officers,' are higher priced than the high-rate hotels, while life at a regular pension means taking chances of being starved or frozen to death. Next to the hotels and pensions as freebooters come the stores, that have put up their prices quite 40 per cent.

"Hats and shoes are 50 per cent. dearer than in 1889; neckties that range from 25 cents to 50 cents in New York, San Francisco and Los Angeles, range from three francs (60 cents) to seven francs ($1.40) here—and this is the country of silk manufactures! Cotton, linen and woolen goods have nearly all advanced from 20 to 60 per cent. over what they were in 1889. Canes and umbrellas and such from 20 to 40 per cent. Shirts, handkerchiefs and gloves seem not to have advanced so much.

"Druggists' goods have gone diabolically out of all sight of all grades of polite robbery. A prescription that would cost 25 cents in San Francisco is $1 here. An ounce of castor oil is 60 cents, a pint of witch hazel is 90 cents and an ounce of borax 40 cents. Candies, fruit, clarets, tobacco, cigars and cigarettes are the only things that have not been atrociously advanced. Soap, lead pencils, pen, ink and paper have advanced 100 per cent. Omnibus rates are six cents as against four cents some years ago. The only thing cheap in Paris to-day is the cab, which is still only 30 cents from any one point to another within the city, for from one to three persons, or 40 cents per hour for same. I have met a score or more of Americans who had come here to stay for several months, but who are going back on the North German Lloyd steamer of the 18th. All of these go home without making purchases, and none of them will return by the French line. Really, the foreign feeling against the hotels and stores here is intense, and the American and English papers of Paris publish complaints of some kind daily." Truman is an old traveler and knows what he is talking about. It would seem as if the exposition were a good place to stay away from.

Discharging a Duty.

Many simple people who obtain marriage licenses of city clerks, imagine that the clerk in some way becomes responsible for their marriage and that they are in duty bound to report to him afterward and let him keep track of their affairs.

A Salt Lake City paper reports that a tall, gaunt woman with ginger hair and a somewhat fierce expression of countenance lately came to the county clerk of Moxelder county, in that state.

"You're the man that keeps the marriage books, ain't you?" she asked.

"Yes, ma'am," he replied. "What book do you wish to see?"

"Kin you find out if Jack Peters was married?"

Search developed the name of John Peters for whose marriage a license had been issued two years before.

"I thought so," said the woman. "Married 'Lize Waters, didn't he?"

"The license is issued for a marriage with Miss Eliza Waters."

"Yep. Well, I'm 'Lize. I thought I'd ought to come in and tell you that Jack Peters has escaped!"

Trials of a Playwright.

Theatrical Manager—Your comedy is very good, very good, indeed! But you ought to cut out one act of it.

Playwright—Cut out one act? Why, it's only a one-act piece.
