Masque and Dagger Club Will Present Popular Play

The Masque and Dagger Club of W. S. C. will present "The Man From Home" in the college auditorium January 9. The play was originally scheduled for December 13, but it was deemed advisable to advance the date and by so doing assure a greater success for the production.

"The Man From Home" was first played at the Studebaker Theater in Chicago with William Hodge as Daniel Voorhees Pike, the man from home. The play scored such a great success in Chicago that it is ran there for an entire year. This was in 1907. In 1908 William Hodge, with the same cast, opened at the Astor Theater in New York City. The drama met with wonderful success in New York and was so well received that it ran for a year at the Astor. During the past season "The Man From Home" was played in Washington, D. C., where it met with its usual success.

The play was written by Harry Leon Wilson and Booth Tarkington. It tells the story of an American girl of wealth who has aspirations to become a noblewoman, but through the wise manipulations of Pike, a shrewd typical American lawyer, she is brought to see that her popularity among the English nobility hinges only on her wealth. The theme is a timely one with which all Americans should be familiar, since it shows us how vast sums of our national wealth are being transferred to Europe through international titled marriages. The scene of the drama is laid in Sorrento, a city in Southern Italy.

Everett R. Jinnett is to play the lead as Daniel Voorhees Pike, the man from Kokomo, Indiana. Mr. Jinnett is well known in college dramatic and debating circles. Students of last year will recall Mr. Jinnett's splendid interpretation of Bob Acres in "The Rivals." Grover McDougall, who has participated in several college productions in the past, is to play the part of Earl of Hawcastle. Goldene Allen, Lee Lewis, and Jot Wetzel are other members of the cast who are well known to all. The leading woman, Miss Nellie Northrup, although appearing here for the first time, comes to us with a very commendable high school dramatic reputation. Miss Augusta Roziskey, who is coaching the production, is very optimistic concerning the success of the play and believes she has a well chosen cast. The cast is as follows: Daniel Voorhees Pike... E. R. Jinnett
Ethel Granger-Simpson...
...Nellie Northrup
Earl of Hawcastle... Grover McDougall
Almerie St. Aubyn... Jot Wetzel
Ivanoff... Lee Lewis
Horace Granger-Simpson...
...Arnold Gleason
Ribiery... Russell Turner
Mariano... Dell McCormick
Grand Duke Vasili... C. W. Morse
Lady Creech... Goldene Allen

TREES MUST BEAR TRUE

Olympia, Dec. 19.—When fruit trees are sold with a warranty that they are of a certain variety, the three years statute of limitations does not commence to run until the trees have time to come in bearing, the supreme court ruled yesterday, in its decision in the Yakima county case of W. D. Ingalls versus H. E. Angell and wife.

This decision establishes a doctrine of great importance to orchardists and nurserymen. Ingalls, a nurseryman, purchased 500-odd peach trees from the Angells on the representation, he says, that they were of the Carman variety, and sold them to Burt Fletcher, an orchardist. Fletcher found the trees were not Carmans, sued Ingalls and got judgment.

Ingalls' expenses in paying the judgment, attorneys' fees and costs totaled $2306.45, and he brought suit against the Angells for this amount. The Yakima county superior court threw the case out on a demurrer because it had not been brought within three years from the time the sale was made.

HOW TO MAKE STARCH FROM POTATO CULLS

The Potato clubs which the department of agriculture has been organizing to teach the young people of America to grow potatoes were primarily intended for boys. Certain girls, however, became interested, enrolled, and have done particularly well, not only in management of crop but in manufacturing home-made potato starch out of the unmarketable culls of the vegetable.

Each girl when she enrolls in this club work, which now is being taken up by 18,000 young people, is given a recipe for making home-made potato starch. The office of farm management's specialist who is in charge of the potato club work supplies each new girl member with a printed copy, which reads as follows:

Equipment needed—Two clean galvanized tubs, large dish pan, one cylindrical grater, and plenty of water and wiping cloths.

Take five bushels of potato culls. Wash them thoroughly by the use of plenty of water and a small scrubbing brush.

Use one tub for cleaning potatoes and the other for the gratings. Seat yourself in a convenient place between the two tubs, with dish pan and grater in your lap.

Without removing the skin, grate your clean potatoes from right-hand tub into the dish pan, empty pan of gratings when necessary into the well-cleaned tub to your left; continue this operation until your left-hand tub is a trifle over half full. Four clean water into tub upon the potato gratings until nearly full, stir well so as to saturate every particle of water.

Remove all peelings and float material from top of water; allow tub to stand overnight, so that starch will settle to bottom and all pulp and potato skin will rise to the top of the water. Remove all water carefully from tub in the morning, as well as the dark formation and sediment on top of the layer of starch.

Pour a fresh supply of water over starch again; stir again so as to rinse all particles of starch well; allow to stand for about eight hours.

Remove water from the top, the layer of pulp, etc. In doing so be careful not to waste the starch.

Continue this process with new applications and careful stirring, letting it stand each time—as many times as it is necessary to effect a complete separation of starch from the pulp, peeling, and sediment of the potatoes. It will usually take four or five washings.

Potato starch is a healthful food and can be used in at least a dozen different ways for food purposes in making puddings, salads, milk dishes, etc. It is both an easy and economical method of providing a valuable food product for the average home.

The potato water and wastes incident to the process can be easily utilized on the farm for hogs, poultry and stock.

Children take BALLARD'S HORE-HOUND SYRUP willingly because it tastes nice. There isn't a better remedy anywhere for children's coughs, hoarseness and bronchitis. It's a good medicine and easy to take. Price 25c, 50c and $1.00 per bottle. Sold by Watt's Pharmacy. dec

OLD PLANTS ADVERTISED UNDER NEW NAME

Washington, D. C., Dec. 1.—There has recently been a considerable amount of advertising, by the press and otherwise, of two beans for which highly extravagant claims are made, and for the seed of which exorbitant prices are being asked. One of these is being advertised under the name of the Shanon pea, with the absurd claim that on three and one-half acres this plant produced 70 tons of hay and 350 bushels of seed.

The Shanon pea is nothing more nor less than the plant properly known as the Asparagus bean, or Yard-long bean. It is a close relative of the cowpea—in fact, by most botanists considered a mere variety. In experimental tests with upwards of 20 varieties of Asparagus beans, this department reached the conclusion that none of them could possibly compete with the better varieties of cowpeas as a forage crop. The stems, as a rule, are much more slender and vining, and the long pods, which lie on the ground, can not be harvested by machinery. None of these 20 varieties is as productive, either in herbage or in pods, as the better varieties of cowpeas.

The Asparagus bean derives its name from the fact that the young green pods, when used as a vegetable—have somewhat the flavor of asparagus. As a vegetable, the Asparagus bean may come into something more general use than it has in the past, but as a forage crop it has but little merit. Seed of the Shanon pea, which apparently is the commonest variety of Asparagus bean—namely, that having pinkish-buff seeds—is offered by the advertisers at $5.00 per pound. The same variety is offered by seedsmen in France, where the bean is more or less commonly grown, for 25 cents a pound.

Another plant which has been thoroughly tested, both by the department and the experiment stations—namely, the Jack bean—is also being extravagantly advertised under the name of the Giant Stock Pod bean, or the Wataka bean, the seed being quoted at $15 per bushel. This bean has been fully treated of in Bureau of Plant Industry Circular No. 110, which can be obtained from the department free, upon request. While the Jack bean produces an enormous amount of beans per acre, they are not relished by stock, and no satisfactory means of utilizing them has yet been discovered.
