FOOTBALL MEN WILL CAMP THIS SUMMER

Many Old Men Back and Prospects Good for Winning Team

Football training camp will again be established as it was last year, and details are being arranged by Coach Bohler, director of athletics. The place has not been decided upon, but several places are under advisement. Twin Lakes, where the camp was held last year, has no place fit to practice on although in every other respect it was ideal. The boating and swimming together with camp life and the daily practice made the two weeks highly enjoyable as well as profitable from an athletic standpoint.

The squad of 22 men returned to Pullman at the beginning of school hard as nails and ready for scrimmage the first night out on Rogers Field. By this means the men were given the jump on their rivals who did not hold training camps, and the result showed in the work of the men.

Probably fewer men will be taken on the trip this year as the number of old men is large. Almost an entire team is expected back to school, but there are new men coming in who will undoubtedly edge in and give the letter men a run for their laurels.

Captain Clark, all-Northwest center last year, will be on the job early. He is a Palouse rancher and during the summer takes on brawn enough to enable him to handle with ease any rival he finds on the circuit.

Other linemen who are expected back are Langdon, Stites, Finney and Applequist. Applequist received a broken ankle this spring which has kept him on crutches a very long time, but if he is able to play he will be a tower of defense, as he always has been. Stites and Finney were first year men last year and gained experience enough to make them 100 per cent more valuable the coming season. Langdon is a tough, raw-boned youngster whose first instinct is football.

Tommy Tyrer, premier end, will be back, but not as a player. Tommy is the headiest end the Northwest has ever produced and his counsel will be very welcome in the State College quarters. His place may be taken by Loomis, second stringer last year, Zimmerman, who played guard but whose natural position is at end or backfield, or Dietz, who played end for two years and shifted to full back last year. Heg, the other wing man, will be back and there is little chance of anyone taking his job.

The backfield will be the hardest hit by absences. Durham, the drop-kicker who won the Idaho game with his accurate booting at a critical moment, will be a candidate for quarter. Bangs, regular at halfback last year, will be out again and Dietz is eligible for fullback again. Either Zimmerman or Loomis might make good back field men also.

Coach Dietz will arrive about September 1 and will begin shaping the destiny of the 1915 State College football machine. His arrival is looked forward to with a great deal of expectation for he comes directly from the gridiron battlefields of the East. Himself a great player, he has for three years been first assistant to Coach Warner of Carlisle and intimately associated with the game and its greatest players. He is a disciplinarian of the very strictest sort and he is expected to establish methods which will be an innovation in the Northwest.

He will be assisted by Tommy Tyrer and Eddie Kienholz, two of the greatest athletes the College has turned out in the past few years, both four-year men in football and Kienholz a winner of letters in four sports in one year.

Kienholz coached a successful team at North Yakima two years ago and last year awoke the Preps here from a several years' lethargy and put creditable athletic teams into the field.

Washington State should have a great year in athletics with men like Dietz and "Doc" Bohler at the head of affairs.

DR. A. E. EVANS TO ATTEND HARVARD

Dr. A. E. Evans, at present principal of the Summer School session and head of the Latin Department during regular session, will be absent on leave during the next school year to take a year of post graduate at Harvard, after which he will return to his position here. At Harvard he will take work under Dr. Roscoe Pound, who was formerly an instructor of Dr. Evans in the law school of the University of Nebraska. Dr. and Mrs. Evans will leave Pullman about September 1.

HISLOP GOES EAST

Two new additions to the division of animal industry were this week made in the selection of C. F. Howell of the University of Missouri and E. B. Kranz of Iowa State College, as members of the faculty of that division. Mr. Howell is a man of wide experience, and is an expert in horses. Mr. Kranz has had western experience, having spent two years in Oregon. The additions to the staff are made necessary because of the growing popularity of animal husbandry among the students.

Prof. William Hislop, head of the division, will go to Iowa and Ohio to purchase blooded live stock for the College and several western breeders. He has just completed a trip to British Columbia in quest of pure bred Clydesdale horses.

TWO NEW BUILDINGS TO BE OCCUPIED THIS FALL

About two acres of floor space will be added to the equipment of the State College this fall when the Engineering and Agricultural Departments move into their respective buildings. The main floors of each of the two buildings will be ready for occupancy when school opens and the remainder of the floors will be rushed to completion as soon as possible. The mechanical, electrical, physics and civil engineering courses will all be given in the new structure and the horticulture, agronomy, animal husbandry and dairying courses will be moved to new quarters. These two buildings are among the largest educational edifices in the state and are modern in every respect. They have been under process of construction for two years and will probably not be entirely completed for another. They will afford adequate room for all the labs, class rooms, etc., which have hitherto been cramped and uncomfortable. The Agricultural Building is nearly as large as that of O. A. C. and there their Ag. Building is almost half their college equipment.

BIG HOLIDAY FOR PULLMAN

The advance billing brigade of the Parks & Banks Railroad Shows stopped off at Pullman long enough to blazon the barns and fences here and the surrounding country notifying the populace of the coming of that great amusement enterprise which is eagerly looked forward to by all communities, as these vast tented cities give the whole family pure, unalloyed and wholesome pleasure, and give the little ones a chance to renew their acquaintance with all the things that seem so mysterious to them.

The Parks & Banks shows, which have created a sensation on two continents, is being brought to your very doors, and is offering the public the cream of the European talent combined with the most daring stars and performers of America in conjunction with the most dazzling and sensational wild animal acts ever presented or conceived heretofore, and with a small army of funny clowns and lots of music, will naturally cause you to lay aside your work one day and enjoy yourself to the utmost.

This will truly be a holiday for all. Come early and bring all the children and see it all. Grand free exhibition daily at the show grounds. Don't forget the date, Friday, July 30, at Pullman.—Adv.

STATE COLLEGE CATALOGUES

The 1915 catalogues of the State College are out and ready for distribution. Write to the Registrar, State College, Pullman.

A reciprocal agreement has been reached between the state department of agriculture and the California horticultural authorities, by which all California potato shipments destined for this state will be inspected in the south, to guard against tuber moth infection. In return the Washington authorities will inspect seed potatoes shipped from this state to California, to guard against fusarium wilt.

On the ground that lams and oysters are domestic animals, rather than wild animals, Attorney General W. V. Tanner has ruled that the prohibition in the new fish code against aliens taking these shellfish for commercial purposes, does not apply when the bivalves are taken from lands owned by these aliens.

J. H. Martin, a veterinary of the state department of agriculture, has been detailed to investigate a cattle disease, as yet unidentified, which has attacked western Washington herds in many localities, and which was at first diagnosed as hemorrhagic septicemia. Dr. H. T. Graves, commissioner of agriculture, believes the first diagnosis incorrect, holding to the theory that standing water in marsh pastures probably is responsible for the trouble.

New gradings for grain and hay will be adopted by the public service commission, the result of a formal hearing held for farmers in Spokane last week. Warehouse men and grain dealers will be allowed a hearing at Seattle before the new rules are put into effect.

Prosecution has been instituted at Spokane by Labor Commissioner E. W. Olson against a labor agent who sold rings, worth a few cents, to workmen for $1 each, giving jobs to workmen holding rings. The agent is charged with violation of the employment agent law adopted by initiative, which prohibits charging a workman for securing employment.

An exhibit of the work being carried on at the state's 12 institutions, where 6000 inmates now are being given care, will be made by the board of control at the state fair at North Yakima, the Spokane Interstate fair and possibly at the Puyallup fair. The exhibit this year will be more extensive than last year's display, which won warm praise.
