COLFAX AND PULLMAN

many games. Last year we had a team of 11 players, with no particular stars, but playing together like machinery. Every man assisted every other and each gave the best he had to every play, looking not to his own glory but to the glory of his team. You know the record of that team."

A friendly rivalry, each community striving to outdo the other in accomplishing benefits for the entire county, and close co-operation in all big things, was proposed by Charles L. Chamberlain, vice president of the Colfax Commercial Club, as the proper order of things under the new era of friendship. The speaker invited the people of the county to join with Colfax in her Fourth of July celebration.

President E. O. Holland of the State College stated that long before he came to Pullman he had heard the State College rated among the best of its kind in the United States, and mentioned the high tribute paid the college, its work and its faculty by the experts who spent considerable time recently in investigating the institution to the fullest extent. He solicited the assistance of the entire county in getting only what is due the college at the hands of the next legislature and acknowledged the past assistance which has been given by the people of Colfax and other Whitman county towns.

William Lippitt, one of the pioneer merchants of Colfax, boosted the picnic plan of getting the people of the two towns together and suggested that they be held at frequent intervals.

Dr. E. A. Bryan stated that the State College should not be considered the property of Pullman alone, or of Whitman county alone, but of the citizens of the entire state, and that all should take an interest in its work and its development. "Some of the college's best regents, some of its best faculty members and some of its best students have come from Colfax," said Dr. Bryan.

Much credit was given to the county fraternal organizations for fostering a better spirit among the different communities by Dr. J. Floyd Tift of Colfax, who proposed get-together meetings embracing the entire county, instead of just Colfax and Pullman.

J. A. Perkins, the "father" of Colfax, disclaimed the existence of any ill-feeling on the part of Colfax as a whole toward Pullman at any time, blaming the conditions to the words and actions of a few "cranks," who should not have been taken seriously.

"You have your magnificent college, your flowing artesian wells and your Bryan, that ought to be enough," said U. L. Ettinger, of Colfax, a former regent of the college. "We have our court house, our Livingston and our flood, and are satisfied. Now is the time to work for the interests of all." Mr. Ettinger mentioned the flood of 1910 as one of the best things that ever happened to Colfax inasmuch as it caused them to clean up the town and was responsible for the agitation which resulted in paved streets and other improvements.

Senator R. C. McCroskey of Garfield urged the value of a county commercial club, as proposed by the Colfax Commercial Club, and pledged his support to the good cause.

The "attempts of a few people to open up hornets nests" were blamed by Senator Oliver Hall for the past differences between the two towns. The senator stated that he thought for a time during the last session of the legislature that a hornets nest had been opened up here for sure on the road question, but that he was cognizant of the fact that it was only a few and not the entire people who were making the fuss.

The visitors were taken on a sight-seeing tour over the college farm and campus, and many of them, especially the ladies, visited the home economics exhibit in VanDoren hall, as well as numerous of the buildings. Everything considered, the meeting was a big success, and the sentiments expressed and the spirit manifested augurs well for a bigger and a better Colfax, Pullman, State College and Whitman county.

TO RECORD CLASS

and the class yell were given for the last time.

The ivy exercises, the formal affair of the day, were given near Science hall, when the near graduates planted a sprig of ivy, typifying their love and respect for their college and its associations. The Senior-Junior hatchet was buried and Mark Brislawn, president of the graduating class, with Percy Goldsworthy, head of next year's Senior class, smoked the pipe of peace.

Senior Play

The Senior play, "At the Feet of Socrates," proved one of the best attractions of the week. The play was given in Bryan hall Tuesday evening before a large audience. While the inconsistencies and humorous aspects of everyday life on the college campus were satirized and exaggerated to a considerable extent, there was nothing to offend, and the good natured takeoffs on faculty members, students and customs were well received. While each member of the cast did his work in a very creditable manner, the impersonations by John H. Binns, Loren Dumas, Mark Brislawn and Miss Gladys Persels left no room for doubt as to the identity of the subject impersonated.

Alumni Day

One of the most successful annual gatherings of former graduates ever held was that of Wednesday, when close to 100 men and women who wrote history for the college in its early days, assembled to swap reminiscences and make plans for assisting in the growth and development of their alma mater.

One of the big events of the day was the Senior-Alumni baseball game, played in the morning. The former diamond stars were humbled by the near-graduates by a 4 to 2 score in a well played, hotly contested game. "Pink" Passmore and "Hack" Appiequist did the battery work for the winners, while "Billie" Smith and "Else" Thorpe performed for the alumni. Joe Winston, early day student and athlete, held the indicator. Joe, in his prime, was as class as a baseball and football man as ever cavorted on Rogers field and his presence in the center of the diamond recalled to the old students many happy incidents of the pioneer days of the college, in which he featured prominently.

Prof. M. K. Snyder was elected president of the alumni association for the coming year at the annual business meeting held in Ferry hall. The five vice presidents named were E. R. Jinnett, Daisy T. Busby, C. H. Schuele, Floyd Rader and Joseph Matsen. C. L. Hix was elected to the board of trustees for the four-year term, the hold-over members being F. F. Naider, J. L. Ashlock and F. O. Kreaeger. The new athletic council comprises W. C. Kruegel, as graduate manager, and C. F. Anderson and Eddie Kienholz, elected.

Work for Better Organization

Plans for the perfection of a better and more comprehensive organization of the 1200 graduates were promulgated, and a campaign of organization will be inaugurated. Among the old timers to give reminiscences of early day life at the college and experiences as members of the alumni association were W. D. Barkhuff of Seattle, Duncan Dunn of Wapato and H. J. Doolittle of Olympia. E. F. Gaines extended a welcome to the members of the graduating class as members of the association and a happy response was made by Mark Brislawn, president of the class. President E. O. Holland and members of the board of regents congratulated the association upon its excellent spirit and good work and extended felicitations.

M. K. Snyder sprung the big surprise of the day when he outlined the good work of Cupid among the former graduates, reading a list of 20 members of the association who have been married since the first of June or will be married before the close of the month. In the majority of cases, both the interested parties are members of the alumni association.

The musical recitals given during the week were all of an exceptionally high order, indicating the high efficiency of the music faculty.

The Fallacy of Paraffine Base: Eastern oil manufacturers have long extolled the superior virtues of paraffine-base motor oils. But Pacific Coast motorists have proved that Zerolene, made from selected California crude, asphalt-base, gave best results. Their experience is now supported by the testimony of international experts. Lieut. Bryan stated before the Am. Soc. of Naval Engineers: "Oils made from the asphalt-base crudes have shown themselves better adapted to motor cylinders, as far as their carbon-forming proclivities are concerned, than are paraffine-base Pennsylvania oils." Zerolene received highest competitive awards, San Francisco and San Diego Expositions. Dealers everywhere and at service stations and agencies of the Standard Oil Company.
