DR. GOLDER AUTHOR OF BOOK

Dr. Golder has finished a new book which has just been received by the history department from the Carnegie Institute of Washington. The title is "A Guide for American History in the Russian Archives." It is a book designed primarily for scholars and consists chiefly of reference material.

SODA LYE NO REMEDY FOR HOG WORMS

Washington, D. C.—Soda lye has no value as a remedy for or preventive against worms infesting hogs, nor is it likely to be of value against similar intestinal parasites in other animals, according to the United States Department of Agriculture.

Hogs were fed daily with the soda lye mixed in their food in accordance with the directions printed on the label of the sample tested. As a result it was found that the hogs remained infested throughout the period of treatment—2½ months—and that the extent of infestation was increased rather than decreased.

While the efficiency of soda lye against worms parasitic in other animals was not tested, it is probable, says the department, that it has no value. The digestive tract of sheep is much more complex than that of hogs, and it is probable that a drug having no apparent effect on worms in the comparatively simple digestive tract of hogs would be equally unsatisfactory in the case of sheep and other ruminants.

Manufacturers of soda lye are warned to remove labels on which are printed unwarranted claims that the product has remedial or preventive powers against worms, or render themselves liable under the provisions of the Insecticide Act of 1910.

FARMER'S ACCOUNT BOOK FILLS LONG FELT WANT

R. N. Miller, farm management demonstrator, is at present in Montezano to talk to farmers of that locality on the relative merits and the use of the farm account book issued by the extension service department. Mr. Miller will personally assist each farmer in taking an inventory of his stock for the purpose of securing a basis of capital. The use of this account book not only makes it possible for a farmer to determine his expenditure and income, but furthermore gives him an opportunity to sum up a material valuation of his labor. It is estimated that only 10 hours a year will be required to keep this particular farm account book.

While on her trip Mrs. Jones assisted in the appointment of county club leaders for Snohomish, King, Chelan, Thurston, and Douglas counties.

to accept conscription as the best means of raising our army. The great accomplishments of the last six months in the matter of raising an army of true patriots has convinced us that the conscription plan is the proper method of raising an army to fight our great battles."

"Under the voluntary enlistment plan many communities where the true spirit of patriotism had not been aroused would not have responded to the country's call. Many do not yet fully realize the need of this call. In the ranks of the national army today we find all classes. The son of the man who digs in the ditch, who works in the factory or the workshop, is found shoulder to shoulder with the son of the millionaire, and all are imbued with the same spirit, the American spirit of democracy and equality to all. They will fight a wonderful battle."

"There must never be a day when these men want for munitions, equipment, or comfort at the front through our inattention. We must stand back of this army; we must constitute a vast and enthusiastic working force at home."

"The most regrettable thing imaginable would be the receipt of word from across the ocean after a big battle that our boys were insufficiently supplied with munitions or equipment."

"The thing we can do most here to help our country and support our boys would be to bring about a greater production of ships. We must do it. Spring must find more normal labor conditions. Strikes in shipyards must be eliminated."

"Labor commands from $4 to $7 per day in the state of Washington. French soldiers have been fighting in the trenches for five cents a day for three years."

"Every day of the war means an expenditure of 15,000 men and $15,000,000 in money. It must not be said that had we at home done our full part we could have saved the lives of some of these men."

"We owe to our soldiers to do the thing that will help them to maintain their manhood. The Y. M. C. A. war movement should be assisted and boosted by every true American."

"One of the weaknesses of our country today is the lack of severity in dealing with disloyalty and agitation. The man who is not good enough to support our country is not good enough to live under the flag that floats over this country."

"The people of the United States today must be divided into two classes, loyal and disloyal. There is another class, including those who are willing to talk patriotism on the street corners but not willing to make one single sacrifice in the cause of the government. Before long this class will be placed so close to the disloyal class that you can not tell the difference."

"One of the greatest needs today is to bring a realization of the great war home to every one of us."

"The Russian and Italian situations have, I feel, extended the war many, many months."

"There can be no question as to the right of this country being in the war today. We ought to thank God that we have an opportunity to be in the great conflict across the water."

"Let history record at the close of the war that the great Northwest did its duty at all times."

"Accompanied by my family and a nine-year-old girl, I was going through the cantonment at American Lake the other day. The little girl, as we passed the soldiers, spoke to my daughter, saying: 'I think the soldiers are beautiful—just like the flag.' No higher tribute was ever paid to our soldiers. They ARE the flag today, and we at home must realize our duty toward them."
