

BOY SCOUTS

(Conducted by National Council of the Boy Scouts of America.)

A MODEL RURAL TROOP

The following letter from H. H. Kurtz, scoutmaster of Locustdale, Troop No. 1, Honeybrook, Pennsylvania, shows that the scout program is equal to any situation in the hands of a devoted scoutmaster:

"This is strictly a rural troop. The borough of Honeybrook, of less than 700 inhabitants gives us only 10 scouts. The remaining 28 come from little hamlets or distant farms; 18 are farm boys—boys who live, perform work on farms. Nearly all are, in a greater or less degree, active tillers of the soil.

"The country is admirably adapted to scouting with wide and fertile valleys, long ranges of wooded hills, clear streams. We claim as our territory a section of about 200 square miles. Boys live from five to ten miles from scout headquarters. This fact makes certain arrangements necessary which will be explained.

"We set up a high ideal. We determined however we might fail in other things, to place the chief emphasis on the oath and law. Scoutcraft was distinctly secondary. After four years we still keep the ideal in view. No boy may enter the troop unless we are satisfactorily assured that he will do his best to do his duty to God, his country, and obey the scout law.

"Every boy is in a patrol and knows his number. Each patrol is properly officered, the officers being chosen on the ground of worth and merit. There are no elections. The two senior patrol leaders, the six patrol leaders and their six assistants form an 'officers' council,' which administers discipline, outlines the policy of the troop and advises with the scoutmaster. Nothing of importance is decided (except in emergency) without the council.

"Every scout is uniformed, and every scout procures his own uniform. A poor boy will receive aid from the troop treasury, which he may make good as he is able. Insignia is provided by the troop. Each scout is given his proper badges, shoulder knots, service stripes, etc., and it is required that these matters be in place, and that they be correct. The troop is governed by a point system. This is rigidly adhered to, and each boy reports his 'points' on honor, at the business meeting. The system governs the 'good turn' and all the matters of the oath and law, and attendance and inspection. In uniform, or out, and at any time and place the scout salutes his superiors, once in the day. Strict and unquestioning obedience is required as well as regular attendance at all of the business meetings.

"The scattered condition of the troop forbids a weekly meeting; so the business meeting, held once a month, is to be attended. No boy may go elsewhere on that evening.

"In addition to this business meeting, each patrol holds a monthly meeting. Here the indoor scoutcraft work is done, and boys are examined as to tests, or prepared for the court of honor.

"Several features peculiar to this troop, have proved valuable. Each boy, entering the troop, undergoes a partial physical examination. His record is kept, and he is examined periodically, and his development noted. The records show a splendid physical standard in the troop.

"Every boy who reports, on honor, a perfect score of points for three consecutive months receives the '100 per cent duty shield. Four such periods entitle him to the Maltese Cross award. We have a boy, of unimpeachable rectitude, who has won the award for perfect score for two unbroken years.

"The patrol that gains the greatest number of points in a month is entitled to the custody of the flags—the Troop Flag and the National Ensign. The patrol whose efficiency is adjudged the highest for the year, receives a medal.

"Official hikes are conducted at frequent intervals. No winter hikes are held. The country boy has his fill of winter experiences in his long journeys to and from school. But when spring comes we hike. The patrol most fully represented in the year's hikes receives a medal. So also does the individual scout who is present at the greatest number of hikes. Each hike is conducted by a leader, usually a troop officer, who is responsible for the welfare and behavior of all scouts who are present. No Sunday hikes, no tests passed on that day, and attendance at Divine service required of all."

SCOUT SAVES KIDDIES

Two small children were playing in Manhattan street when a delivery wagon horse suddenly frightened starting down the street at a gallop—all the ingredients of a possible tragedy! But a scout was at hand, Emil Kozelcsek, by name. Instantly taking in the whole situation, mentally awake, the scouts are trained to be, Emil sprang into the street, snatched the children to safety from almost under the feet of the runaway. ENDORSED AT HOME

Such Proof as This Should Convince Any Pullman Citizen

The public endorsement of a local citizen is the best proof that can be produced. None better, none stronger can be had. When a man comes forward and testifies to his fellow-citizens, addresses his friends and neighbors, you may be sure he is thoroughly convinced or he would not do so. Telling one's experience when it is for the public good is an act of kindness that should be appreciated. The following statement given by a resident of Pullman adds one more to the many cases of Home Endorsement which are being published about Doan's Kidney Pills. Read it.

C. E. Bailey, carpenter, 1203 State St., Pullman, says: "I suffered from lame back. When I tried to lift anything, my back seemed to give way on me and a sharp pain struck me in the small of it, nearly taking my breath away. I had to pass the kidney secretions too often and they were scanty and burning in passage. I heard about Doan's Kidney Pills and one box cured me of the backache and put my kidneys to acting all right. I always recommend Doan's Kidney Pills."

Price 60c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Bailey had. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfrs., Buffalo, N. Y.
