DASTARDLY CRIMES

Harry Orchard Was False to His Union, to Employers and Himself.

HIS BLACK RECORD IN COLORADO

Left Denver Ostensibly Bound for New York but Turns Up at Caldwell Following Death of Gov. Steunenberg.

CRIMES TO BE CLEARED UP.

- ◆ DENVER, Feb. 20.—Following is a list of the crimes which Detective McParland declares will be cleared up in the near future:
- ◆ April 29, 1899, blowing up the $250,000 mill of the Bunker Hill-Sullivan Mining Company at Wardner, Idaho.
- ◆ Dec. 27, 1901, murder of Martin Gleason, manager of the Wild Horse mine in Cripple Creek. Gleason was thrown down the mine shaft.
- ◆ June 23, 1901, murder of J. W. Barney, a non-union shift boss in the Smuggler-Union mine at Telluride. He was attacked in a livery stable, dragged out by his murderers, and never seen since.
- ◆ March 2, 1902, murder of Wesley J. Smith, a non-union shift boss of the Smuggler-Union mine at Telluride.
- ◆ Nov. 19, 1902, murder of Manager Arthur L. Collins, of Smuggler-Union mine at Telluride. Collins was fired upon through a window at his home.
- ◆ July 5, 1903, power house of the Colorado Springs Electric company blown up. The bungling work of the dynamiters was all that saved the lives of seventeen men.
- ◆ Sept. 1, 1903, aged non-union carpenter named Stewart, working at the Golden Cycle mine in Cripple Creek, beaten almost to death.
- ◆ Nov. 21, 1903, murder of Superintendent McCormick and Foreman Beck of the Victor mine at Victor. Here an infernal machine was placed in the mine shaft.
- ◆ June 6, 1904, railroad depot at Independence, in Cripple Creek district, blown up by dynamite. Fourteen non-union men were killed and many were crippled.
- ◆ Dec. 30, 1905, murder by dynamite of former Governor Steunenberg, Caldwell, Idaho.

DENVER, Feb. 20.—The Times today says: Harry Orchard was in the employ of Cripple Creek miners as a detective during the great strike at Cripple Creek. This most important fact will be used in defense of the labor leaders when they are brought to trial in the courts of Idaho. The following facts come to the Times from a most reliable source:

Orchard was a member of the Western Federation of Miners when the strike was ordered in November, 1903. At the beginning of the strike, on the day it was declared, he approached a conductor named Jones and introduced himself as a brother Mason. Orchard told Jones he heard members of the union plotting to wreck Jones' train, and that he did not believe in such methods, and consequently had told Jones of the plot. Jones immediately took Orchard to Scott and Sterling, detectives for the mine owners' association, and to them Orchard repeated his story. Scott and Sterling immediately employed him as a detective for the association. He was instructed to attend the meetings of the union, and to report daily. Orchard continued in the employ of the association until June of 1904. On June 6 the explosion occurred at the Independence depot, and Orchard disappeared. The mob took possession of Cripple Creek and Victor, and attempted to force a confession from many suspected parties. One young man was suspended by the thumbs until he agreed to tell the name of his friend, who had caused the explosion. When lowered he said, "Harry Orchard did it."

Orchard was pursued by bloodhounds. The pursuing mob did not know that Orchard was in the employ of the association of mine owners. They knew him only as a member of the miners' union. Orchard and a companion by the name of Neville traveled by wagon out of Cripple Creek, avoiding the important towns and finally reaching Greeley. There they took a train to Cheyenne, where Orchard received a sum of money from Colorado friends, and disappeared. He returned to Denver last April. It is said he feared arrest on account of his connection with the explosion, and therefore changed his name to Hogan. For a time he worked for insurance companies, and last August left Colorado, saying he was going to New York. He was next heard of when he was arrested for the Steunenberg murder.

Neville was arrested, but the charge of murder was never pressed against him. Sheriff Bell claims Neville confessed that Orchard dynamited the depot. It is said Neville is now dead. This latter statement the Times has been unable to verify.

Started an Investigation.

It is said Orchard's confession contained so many startling statements that it was decided by the authorities to investigate them before granting the extradition of Moyer, Heywood and Pettibone. It is claimed that General Wells found the bomb intended for Judge Goddard of the supreme court at the exact spot where Orchard had said it was.

Regarding the alleged confession of Orchard, Detective McParland said today: "Orchard may or may not have made a confession. I will not say whether he did or did not make the confession attributed to him. I was compelled in working up my case to use some of his statements, as well as the statements of others, but I did not call upon him for the confession implicating Moyer, Heywood and Pettibone. Numerous attempts were made to intimidate him into saying things about himself, but I refused to allow this."

GARFIELD'S SEVERAL DENIALS.

Says He Never Told Packers He Could Compel Information.

CHICAGO, Feb. 20.—Commissioner Garfield took the stand in the packers' cases today, and denied many statements made by witnesses for the packers.

Mr. Garfield denied that he told the packers he had the power to compel them to give information if they refused to give it willingly. He denied that he ever promised immunity to the packers, saying that the only protection promised them was the individual packers of their confidential figures. He also denied that he promised that all information would be treated as confidential.

Mr. Garfield was the first witness for the government, the packers having rested shortly before noon.

EXCEPTIONS ARE TAKEN.

Local High School Debating Team Denounce Article in Evening Paper.

The story recently published in an evening paper about the visit of the Ellensburg contingent to this city at the time of the Yakima-Ellensburg high school debate, in which it was stated that the conduct of the visitors was unbecoming, or words to that effect, seems to be absolutely unfounded. The local high school boys and girls have taken exceptions to the article, and denounce it in unqualified terms. They say it was inspired either by maliciousness or gross neglect on the part of the reporter to ascertain the facts.

The crowd that came to visit Yakima and cheer the visiting debating team was in every respect a well-behaved lot of boys and girls. Professor J. H. Moran of the Ellensburg Normal, assisted in chaperoning the young people, so any further explanation is unnecessary. It is hoped that Ellensburg will come again; Yakima people will make it a point to see that they are well entertained.

THE JUDGE GRANTED IT.

Sad Story Told the Court by Martha H. Riley, Applicant for Divorce.

Immediately following the retirement of the jury in the case of the Puritan Mfg. Co. vs. Keene on Monday Judge Gilliam listened to the sad story of Martha H. Riley, who was pleading for a divorce from her husband, William E. Riley, on the ground of drunkenness, cruelty and inhuman treatment. Mrs. Riley related in a low, sad voice the short story of the wrongs she had suffered. She was married to Riley, she said, a number of years ago in Kansas or Nebraska, and at one time resided in Puyallup, where she cooked for a gang of men in a lumber camp. She claimed that her husband was a heavy drinker, at times, and was not only abusive in his language, but had beaten her and made indecent proposals. Some of her evidence was substantiated by other witnesses. She removed to this city about three years ago. Since that time she has been a resident here. She said she had no idea of the present whereabouts of her husband. The divorce was granted.

The commissioners will not render their decision until after reviewing all the evidence of the twelve sittings.

TRIAL OF SCHMIDT AND 30 SAILORS

RUSSIANS BEFORE NAVAL COURT

Charge Participation in a Movement to Overthrow the Russian Government—Punishment is Death.

OTCHAKOFF, Feb. 20.—The trial of Lieutenant Schmidt and thirty sailors of the cruiser Otchakoff and two students of the University of Odessa was begun today before the naval court. The general charge against the accused is participation in a movement to overthrow the government, and active armed resistance, the punishment for which is death.

Schmidt is charged in addition with activity since his youth in revolutionary circles, taking command of mutinous ships, telegraphing insolently to the emperor and ordering the sailors to fire on forts and local ships. Schmidt's defense is insanity.

OREGON EXPRESS IN A LANDSLIDE

ENGINEER DUNSMUIR IS KILLED

Two Mail Cars Roll into the Ditch—Traffic was Delayed Nearly Twelve Hours.

SACRAMENTO, Calif., Feb. 20.—At 6 o'clock this evening the south-bound Oregon express, due here tomorrow morning, ran into a landslide half a mile above Delta. According to the meagre reports, two engines were reduced to scrap iron, and two mail cars rolled down an embankment into the ditch.

While the train crew was working among the wreckage a second slide occurred, burying a portion of the wreck. Engineer Preel of Dunsmuir was in the track slide, and was hurled into the midst of the wreckage. He was dead when taken out. Traffic was delayed about twelve hours.

VERDICT FOR DEFENDANT.

Puritan Manufacturing Company Loses Its Case Against Keene.

The jury in the case of the Puritan Manufacturing Company against D. N. Keene of this city, which retired to decide the case at the closing hour of court Monday with instructions to return a sealed verdict, found for the defendant. The suit was brought to recover $200 on some jewelry ordered by Mr. Keene, but which he refused to pay for because it was not as represented by the Puritan people.
