VAUDEVILLE AT THE SCENIC.

The combination of vaudeville and motion picture entertainment shown this week by Manager Miller, of the Scenic theater, is well worth witnessing if clean, laugh-producing comedy is sought by Everett amusement lovers. Under the new management the Scenic has experienced greater growth in patronage, for the show itself, combined with the theater's splendid central location, is a dual incentive for amusement seekers to drop in for an hour's entertainment during the afternoon and evening hours. The vaudeville acts are snappy and amusing, while the motion pictures cannot be seen to better advantage in any other theatre in the city. The Scenic is clean and comfortable and Manager Miller is planning certain improvements which will make this pioneer popular resort appeal even stronger to the public.

JUST SMILES.

"A little humor now and then is relished by the wisest men."

While an Irishman was gazing in the window of a book store the following sign caught his eye:
"Dickens works all this week for only four dollars."

"The devil he does!" exclaimed Pat in disgust; "the dirty scab!"—Ex.

City Visitor (to farmer's wife)—This honey is perfectly delightful.

Farmer's Wife—Yes, and it is from our own hive.

City Visitor—Then you keep a bee!

Casey was in church one Sunday. When the collection box was passed to him he shook his head and said, "I can't vote, I ain't naturalized yet."

"See here, waiter, there's a roach on this butter," said a guest at a restaurant.

"Just chuck him down a little further so he can't get away an' I'll tend to his case when I git froo wid dis gent."

Tommy had been asked to the minister's to dinner, and the reverend doctor noticed with pain that he showed no signs of waiting for grace to be said. "Tommy," he remarked, in a tone of reproach, "we say something before we eat in this house."

"Go ahead and say what you like," answered the imperturbable Tommy; "You can't turn my stummielk."—Railroad Telegrapher.

It was during the desert course. He had been sitting next to her for the last hour and a half and was deeply conscious of the beautiful contour of her arms and shoulders.

"Do you know," she said suddenly, "I've been in misery for a week. Sometimes I could almost scream with pain."

"Why, what's the matter?" he exclaimed sympathetically.

"I was vaccinated last week and it has taken dreadfully."

His eyes fell and his gaze was curious. But he saw no scar. "Why, where were you vaccinated?" he asked impetuously.

She raised her eyebrows and smiled sweetly. "In New York," she replied.—Ex.

WORST CRIME OF ALL.

"Call the jury for the next case," said the judge.

"May it please the court," said the prosecuting attorney, "the prisoner at bar is not entitled to a jury. He—"

"Why, even the orneriest chicken thief is entitled to a trial by jury," exclaimed the judge. "It is the inalienable right of every man charged with—"

"But this is a union man charged with having violated your order not to approach a strikebreaker with intent to influence him."

"What? Prisoner, stand up! You have committed a crime which is so much worse than murder, rape, incest, arson, infanticide, homicide, patriocide, matricide or fratricide that you have forfeited all right to a trial by jury. Solitary confinement for six months. Call the next case!"—Lincoln Wageworker.

A MUTE, BUT A GOOD UNIONIST.

A deaf and dumb boy came into the Journal office the other day looking for work. He wanted a job either in a laundry or a sash and door factory. We told him to go to look for employment, and he went out. He came back in a day or two. He had been unsuccessful in his attempt to find work and, through the medium of paper and pencil, we carried on the following conversation:

"Can I get job in laundry in Seattle?"

"We don't know the labor conditions there very well, but there are lots of laundries there, Big city."

"Big laundry union in Seattle? All work eight hours?"

"No, there is no laundrymen's union there and they all work ten hours."

"D—n long hours. I don't like to work in open shops as a scab."

"Do you belong to the union?"

"I want to join. I used to belong to pork butchers' union in Kansas City, but strike came and I lost my job."

"The laundries and sash and door factories were all full handed and the deaf mute, who seemed not to want to work at anything else, left town presumably for Seattle, but very much puzzled and disappointed that there should be no laundry workers' union in a great, big city like Seattle."

Now, Mr. non-union man, you who see no need of joining the organization of your craft, aren't you just a little bit ashamed of yourself? This deaf mute, fearfully handicapped in the battle for existence, is made of sterner stuff than you. The only job he ever had that was unionized he lost through a strike, and yet his faith in the protecting power of organization remains unshaken, and shorter hours and good pay appeals to him as the concrete result of a union. Oh, ye of little faith! All around you are the evidences of the efficacy of united effort in the eight-hour day, sanitary working conditions, good wages. You are sharing, too, in these benefits brought about through no effort on your part and without your help. This deaf mute with his union principles is a greater factor in the uplifting movement of humanity than you are. Able-bodied, with the possession of all your faculties, you might be a power in the labor movement if you would get into line. Why not join the union of your craft and lend a hand to your fellows? You owe something to your fellows who have created conditions which you to some measure enjoy, and it is your aid that is needed to make your working surroundings immeasurably better. Don't be a scamp follower, get into the procession.

Seven lions sat on their haunches on a dreary African plain, howling dismally. Facing them stood the mightiest nimrod of modern times, armed to his famous teeth. He had given the lions the option of being shot or of reading all the messages he sent to congress. Naturally, they chose death, but, nevertheless, they howled, for life is sweet, even to wild beasts and the sunset of their lives was fast approaching.—Ex.

She—She's the third housemaid that you have kissed.

He—That's a result of your constant changing the servants.
