ATTRactions FOR THE WEEK.

SCENE FROM "THE TAMING OF THE SHREW."

Spokane — Monday, Gordon-Shay Grand Opera company in "Il Trovatore"; Tuesday, "Carmen"; Wednesday, Charles B. Hanford in "The Old Guard" and "The Taming of the Shrew"; Thursday, "Much Ado About Nothing"; Friday, Saturday matinee and night, Murray and Mack in "A Night on Broadway."

Auditorium—Monday and Tuesday, "Weary Willie Walker"; Thursday, Friday and Saturday matinee and night, Rice's comedians in "My Friend From India" and "Whose Baby Are You?"

J. Saunders Gordon has arranged for two appearances at the Spokane theater of the Gordon-Shay Grand Opera company. If the indications are not over sanguine, this will be a musical event.

The prima donna, Rose Cecilia Shay, is young and handsome and has a voice of rare beauty and pronounced dramatic power.

Beginning her musical studies in her home city, Cincinnati, she finished at the Milan conservatory, and made her professional debut at La Scala, the most famous opera house of Italy. The associate artists selected by Mr. Gordon are well known.

Among them are Helene Noidt, soprano for years with the Schenck Grand Opera company and the Metropolitan Grand Opera company; Achille Alberti, once leading baritone of the famous Mapleson Wheatley Grand Opera company; Walter Wheatley, a tenor well and favorably known through his association with the Boston Ideal Opera company; Pauline Johnson, soprano; Eloise Bishop, contralto; and James Stevens, once with the La Scala Grand Opera company and conductor of Krull's theater, Berlin, and Van Lear's theater, Amsterdam. The repertoire will be as follows:

Monday night, "Il Trovatore"; Tuesday night, "Carmen."

Charles B. Hanford will be seen at the Spokane theater Wednesday and Thursday evenings in two Shakespearian comedies, "The Taming of the Shrew" and "Much Ado About Nothing."

Mr. Hanford is best remembered in tragedy, although during the past few seasons he has used modern plays. It has been said that tragedians always entertain a lurking ambition to be funny, and Mr. Hanford this season is realizing that ambition.

The company supporting the star is said to be capable and is headed by Miss Marie Drofnah.

H. A. DuSouchet's play with Myron B. Rice's production of "My Friend From India," will be seen at the Auditorium for three nights and a matinee opening Thursday evening.

This is a comedy of excellence, including a laugh for every minute the curtain is up. The cast is said to be one of the largest and best ever seen under Mr. Rice's management. The play is bright, clean and very funny.

"Weary Willie Walker," a laughable farce comedy, comes to the Auditorium Monday night.

Murray and Mack come to the Spokane theater in their new comedy, "A Night on Broadway," on Friday and Saturday evenings, with a matinee Saturday afternoon.

There isn't any of the loud "boisterous hurrah" about Murray and Mack's work. It is the dry way they say things and in their quaintness of interpretation which is so funny. Their points are made without any apparent effort. Frank Morton, the dramatic critic of the Philadelphia Item, said recently that "Murray and Mack should be thanked for having proven to theatergoers that there is fun outside of the Palais Royal farces with which the stage has been deceived."

Some of the best judges say that it is one of the best comedies which has come from an American playwright. A cast said to number 50 people are in support of these stars and special scenery is carried.

David Belasco's war drama, "The Heart of Maryland," opened an engagement at the Spokane theater last night. The play itself is as entertaining as ever, but the players are with one or two exceptions hardly up to the usual standard of Mr. Belasco's road companies.

Miss Alma Kruger still plays Maryland Calvert and gives a finished performance. H. Bostwick is very good as Colonel Thorpe.

The play was seen at a matinee this afternoon and will be repeated tonight.

"Corianton" was repeated at the Auditorium last night. A matinee was given today and the engagement closes with a performance tonight.

WEDDING CULMINATES A PRETTY ROMANCE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14.—A long list of notable persons, headed by the president and Mrs. Roosevelt and including senators, representatives, judges of the United States supreme court, heads of departments, prominent officers of the army and navy and members of the foreign diplomatic corps, filled the fashionable Church of the Covenant at noon today when Miss Marion Cockrell, daughter of United States Senator Cockrell of Missouri, became the bride of Edson S. Gallaudet, son of Dr. Edward M. Gallaudet, president of Gallaudet college. The wedding was one of the most brilliant of the season in the national capital.

The wedding of Miss Cockrell and Mr. Gallaudet culminates a pretty little romance. The romance dates from the christening of the battleship Missouri at Newport News, in December, 1901. Miss Cockrell was the sponsor for the warship, and Mr. Gallaudet attended the launch as the representative of his employers, the Cramp Shipbuilding company, and also as Miss Cockrell's guest.

The bride has enjoyed the reputation of being one of the greatest belles of the national capital. She is a tall and handsome blonde and has been at the head of her father's home for the past eight years.

ing village of Dummellian will also be remembered.

Across the street from the Thornton grocery shop is the old Nelson house, the tavern kept for many years by Mrs. Hanna Nelson, mother of "Bill" Smith and Mrs. Fair. Smith has taken steps to buy this place, where he and his sister spent most of their youth, and says he will have it always kept in the family.

Smith has not yet left the village, though he intends to take his family to California and Europe in time. He says there is nothing too good for him now, and for his friends, Charles Thornton, late street car conductor in this city. The four churches of New Market are to receive benefactions, Catholic, Methodist, Seventh Day Baptist and Presbyterian faring alike. The churches of the neighborhood.

He has bought a grocery store and presented it, land, building, stock and delivery wagon, to his friend, Charles Thornton, late street car conductor in this city. The four churches of New Market are to receive benefactions, Catholic, Methodist, Seventh Day Baptist and Presbyterian faring alike. The churches of the neighborhood.

On his appearance in the hotel office the clerk was all smiles. His beaming countenance only tended the more to worry and "rub it in" on the wayward gold hunter. After joshing him the clerk reached into the safe and threw him a fat envelope, which contained his watch, diamond stud and a big roll of bills.

ELECTRICITY CURES CONSUMPTION.

A noted California physician and scientist has announced it as a scientific fact that it is electricity, and not oxygen, which is the curative agency in all diseases of the lungs. This is right in line with the claim that our method of applying electricity is the only cure for many of those diseases which ordinary physicians regard as incurable. Come in and see our big static machine and from our X-Ray apparatus, or write us for free consultation in diseases of men and women.

PREACHER--PUGILIST NOW PEACEFUL PLAYER

Unique among the men of the squared circle, standing out as a man who has never taken a drink of liquor, smoked a cigar, pipe or cigarette or known of the revelries of most of his kind is Willard W. Bean of Salt Lake, a fighter who has been a principal in as many battles as any fighter of his experience, but who is now a member of the "Corianton" company. He has been a preacher, pugilist and actor.

Bean is a brother of the author of the play being presented here. He discredits all praise for his part of the work, but it is a fact that he was a great help to his brother in staging the production.

Bean was asked to become a member of the company when it was first organized to take charge as stage director. At that time he was a member of the police department in Salt Lake. He contracted only to stage the play, but has been urged to stay with the company through the season.

HAD JOLLY GOOD TIME AND SAVED HIS COIN

A well known mining man and prospector had an experience last night calculated to turn even the hair of a hardy follower of the blind goddess. He bolted down from his room at a hotel this morning, hair all unkempt and general appearance awry—one of those all night looks. The following story of his time as told by him looked out:

"I had, or rather I tried to think and couldn't. Do you blame me?"

On his appearance in the hotel office the clerk was all smiles. His beaming countenance only tended the more to worry and "rub it in" on the wayward gold hunter. After joshing him the clerk reached into the safe and threw him a fat envelope, which contained his watch, diamond stud and a big roll of bills.
