CELEBRATION IN ROME

ROME, Dec. 8.—There was a grand spectacle in St. Peter's yesterday on the occasion of the celebration of the jubilee of the proclamation of the Immaculate Conception. Observances in connection with the jubilee have been in progress for a month or more, and the celebration reached a glorious climax yesterday with the celebration of a papal mass in St. Peter's, followed by the solemn crowning of Plus X. of the mosaic picture of "Our Lady" the choir chapel. The interior of the vast basilica was illuminated and adorned with magnificent hangings, and the building was filled with a great concourse of people, including all the pontifical dignitaries, diplomats and the Roman nobility. From all parts of the Catholic world prelates and priests had journeyed hither to participate in the celebration. From the United States there was present a pilgrimage of more than 1000 by members of the church, headed by a distinguished delegation of clergymen that included Bishop O'Donnell of Brooklyn, Bishop Charras of Indianapolis, President Morrissey of Notre Dame university and a number of others. Italian troops kept order in the square in front of St. Peter's, while the pontifical bodyguard was stationed within the cathedral. Pope Plus, attired in his state robes, was borne on the sedia gestatoria at the head of an imposing procession composed of the entire papal court, 500 patriarchs, cardinals, archbishops and bishops. A roar of cheering rose from the multitude on the pope's appearance, but the applause was quickly hushed by the guards. When the cortege reached the choir the pope alighted, took his seat on the pontifical throne, and the cardinals and other ecclesiastics massed around him. The solemn ceremony of the papal mass was then proceeded with. A feature of the impressive ceremonies was the singing of Paganini's new cantata, "All' Immacolata." The crowning of the mosaic picture of "Our Lady" followed the celebration of the papal mass. Exactly 50 years ago yesterday, immediately after the mass in which the dogma of the immaculate conception was defined, Plus IX. set a rich crown on this image, but the new crown placed here today by Pope Plus X. is vastly more precious. It consists of 12 large stones, formed of hundreds of precious stones, and united by an aureole of solid gold. An interesting feature in connection with the present jubilee celebration has been somewhat overshadowed by the brilliant ceremonies in St. Peter's. This is the "Marian Congress" now in progress in the vast Church of the Twelve Apostles, and in the halls of the Cancellaria and the Roman seminary. All countries of the civilized world are represented in the congress and also in the Marian exposition, which occupies the eight large halls on the first floor of the Lateran palace. The festival of the Immaculate Conception of the Blessed Virgin is traceable in the Greek church from the end of the fifth century, and in the Latin dates from the seventh century. A great controversy prevailed for a long time in the west as to whether and in what sense the conception of the Blessed Virgin Mary was to be held immaculate, and in what sense the Blessed Virgin herself was to be held conceived without sin. In the end, at the instance of bishops in various parts of the church, Pope Plus IX. addressed a circular to the bishops of each nation calling for their opinion and that of their people as to the faith of the church on the point. On the receipt of replies all but absolutely unanimous, the pope issued a solemn decree in Rome, in a numerous council of bishops, on December 8, 1854, declaring the doctrine to be an article of Catholic belief, and proposing it as such to the universal church. On the promulgation of this dogma, which has been accepted throughout the Catholic world, churches named after the Immaculate Conception sprang up in the United States first, and afterwards throughout Christendom generally. On this occasion, 50 years ago, when the doctrine was formally declared, tablets were placed in St. Peter's recording the names of all the cardinals and bishops who took part in the council. Of all these hundreds the last survivor was the late Pope Leo XIII., whose name occurs on the list far down among the cardinals of the time. The late pope was looking forward eagerly to the jubilee celebration, in which, however, he was to be denied taking part by the hand of death.
