

GOSSIP of the FIGHTING GAME

Biddy Bishop of Seattle has written to Dan McEnroe, matchmaker of the Pastime Athletic club, asking for the whereabouts of Kid Scaler. Biddy wants Scaler and Louie Long to fight.

A poorly attended benefit was given to Dick Fitzpatrick at the Spokane theater last night. The star boxed with Joe Cotton and Kid Parker. The principal bout which is the talk of the town today was the one-sided affair between George Douglass, one of the cleverest men in the country, and Mike Scaler. The spectacle of Douglass dancing around Mike and trying to "show him up" was disgusting. Knowing he had a willing boy to work with and one who is strong and husky, but no boxer, Douglass went in and made the bout look very poor.

Johnny Reid's proposition for a fight club at Milton, near Tacoma, has received a knock-out blow from the county authorities and the proposed meeting between Tommy Burns and Mike Schreck is off.

Barney Mullen is now in Seattle and there is talk of a fight between him and Dave Holly, conqueror of Rufe Turner. They think well of the Irishman over on the Sound. Turner whipped him in one punch at Sacramento, but anyone is liable to win in a punch, be he the worst of dubs. Before that Barney lost on a foul to Rufe, and had him squealing like a pig about being fouled.

MARATHON RACE AT CHICAGO TODAY

CHICAGO, Ill., June 30.—In connection with the championship games which are held here today under the auspices of the A. A. U., a marathon race will be run this afternoon. Nearly two score runners are entered for the event, among them some of the best amateur long distance runners of the United States and Canada. The start will be made on Sheridan road, near Evanston and the finish will be at Marshall Field, where several laps of the track will be run in full view of the audience witnessing the championship games. A fine cup will be given the winner and trophies to the first six to finish. Fancy diamond medals will be given to the first two.

INDIANS STILL BLIND AT BAT

The same old story at Hoquim yesterday—Grays won. Judging by the score of 4 to 1 the game was good enough, but it seems impossible for the Indians to connect with the ball. Rush pitched a good game, but even then there was nothing doing for the Indians.

If such poor success is kept up on the road Dorsey's men will certainly have to get a move on themselves when they come home.

Walter McCredie, the Portland manager who is running things and spending money for the "Judge," seems to think he has a hold upon Terry McKune, the fast little player on the Spokane team. Reports say Walter has Terry's "John Henry" to a contract. Fine time of the year to let this out. The probabilities are that Walter is making some more of his "simple" talks.

HOME RUN HIT CINCHES GAME

A home run over the left field fence by Jack Driscoll in the last turn at bat of the Northern Pacific won the game at Natatorium park last night. De Pati, the railroad twirler, was at his best and the Rapp & Lloyds could get only one hit off his delivery. The final score was 1 to 0 in favor of the railroaders.

A ZULU WARRIOR

This is a type of the Zulu warriors who are causing England an immense amount of trouble in South Africa.

His headdress consists of his hair and string bark woven one into the other, with clay and butter grease and a point made of antelope horn scraped down.

The funeral of O. O. Peck will be held at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at his home at 2013 College avenue. He was a pioneer of the west and was among the gold hunters who rushed into California in 1849.

At the Theaters

THE WASHINGTON

The Belcraire Brothers, in a hand balancing act and acrobatic work, are scheduled to head the bill for the coming week at the Washington theater. The brothers are claimed to be among the best of their kind on the road, and are reputed to have an act that is strong in every detail. The fact that they have been assigned to the chief place on the program speaks well for the record they have made in other cities.

Ada Jewell, operatic vocalist, will be another strong feature on the week's bill. She has a clear and sweet soprano voice and sings a number of songs in a way that captures the audience.

One of the funny features on the program will be Dick Lynch, who burlesques the illustrated songs in a humorous manner. He is billed as "the world's greatest dancer."

Al Jolson does a blackface monologue act which should make a sure-fire hit. Edith Dombey and company give a dramatic playlet that is full of fun and originality. The plot is well carried out and well acted. There will be a new departure in the illustrated song this week, Charles Allman singing a coon melody entitled "Go Home." The moving picture machine is billed for a humorous chowing of "The Invisible Man."

THE SPOKANE.

A theatrical announcement that will arouse much interest among amusement patrons is of the coming visit to this city of Henrietta Cronnan, an actress who ranks as one of the greatest artists on the American stage, while in comedy she is acknowledged to be without an equal in the English speaking language. She appears at the Spokane theater July 9-10 in "Merry, Mary Quite Contrary."

THE COLUMBIA.

"Parson Jim" will be the offering of the Byron Douglas company at the Columbia theater for the week beginning tomorrow evening. "Parson Jim" is not really a parson at all, but a man who earned the sobriquet by escapades in his younger days and who was unable to shake it off when he finally settled down. The plot and scenes of the play are laid around Gloucester and Dorchester, the well known New England fishing hamlets. At the time of the opening of the play Jim has settled down in life and has thrown the past behind him. He falls in love with his adopted sister, Edna Fairchild. Edna is finally led into marrying a gay and handsome, but unworthy, young New Yorker, being finally saved from disgrace and unhappiness through the efforts of Parson Jim. Every character in the play is said to be a strong one, and the piece should bring out the best work of the Douglas company and the play prove the banner success of their present engagement.

In the play during the coming week Mr. Douglas will be seen in the title role, a part which he created in this country. Miss Henriette Browne will be cast as Edna Fairchild, the foster sister, and the part will bring out some of her best work. The balance of the company will be seen in suitable roles. The last performance of "The Circus Girl" will be given this evening.

THE AUDITORIUM.

The last performance of "Up York State" will be given at the Auditorium tonight by the Jessie Shirley company. "Turned Up," a roaring comedy, is the offering of this popular company and playhouse for next week.

SPOKANE WILL GET THE MONEY

WASHINGTON, June 30.—As one of the results of the senate and house conference it is assured that the amount of appropriation for Spokane's federal building will be $100,000 for this session of congress.

HUGHES WILL SPEAK

The socialist meeting at Oliver hall Sunday evening at 8 p. m., will be addressed by H. L. Hughes, socialist candidate for the supreme bench.

THE GIRL AL DIDN'T MRRY

The two men resembled each other enough to be brothers. Both were tall, dark, sported heavy mustaches, had piercing black eyes, were intelligent and keen looking, and were blessed with magnificent physiques—but one was shackled to a seat on a Santa Fe train coach car. He bore the inquiring glances of the passengers with a nonchalant smile and was evidently not a whit abashed by his embarrassing situation.

Jefferson talked freely in the presence of his prisoner, and the two men acted as old friends.

"Al has nine wives that I know of," said Jeff, "and more, no doubt, that I never heard of."

"Fourteen only," said Al.

"For three years," continued the sheriff, "I've hunted Al, and now I've got him; but I'll be surprised if I land him alive. He's a wonder."

In 1884 he landed in Waco as a cattle buyer. He had plenty of money. In two weeks he was engaged to Miss Annie Bond. She was a peach-erine; all the boys were after her.

"Didn't get her; you neither," said the prisoner, grinning.

"No, but you did," went on the sheriff. "Old man Bond loaned this 'ere Al $5000. He was stuck on him."

"So was Annie," laughed the prisoner.

"Yes, you cuss," went on the sheriff. "So this Al here skipped out three days later. In 1885 he married a widow in Pontiac, Mich.—just thing of such a roaming lover—and got $8000 from her. In 1886 he deserted two brides. He absolutely went back to Antonio and captured Maud Brassell, the prettiest girl in the town."

"In the goods," said the prisoner twirling his mustache.

Of course you yau your money, But you get your money's worth, For what does money mean to ou When Rocky Mountain Tea's on earth? W. H. Murgittroy's.

"Before this cuss eloped with Maud and her bank roll," continued the sheriff, "he had proposed to and been accepted by five different girls."

"And, bless me, if here ain't one of them now," exclaimed the prisoner.

A tall, handsome girl had entered the car at a way station stop. She looked at the sheriff and his companion.

"Why, Albert, dear," she said. "Oh, Genevieve," and he held out his shackled arms, and the dulcet tones of his voice were as the murmurs of a rippling brook.

The sheriff and the others laughed, but before the girl could answer there came a terrific crash—then darkness—the sound of splintering wood—the roar of escaping steam—the vivid glare of bursting flame—cries of agony—cries of "Oh, God! Save me!" "Pull me from under hehre."—smoke suffocating—torturing fire—devastation—the horrible mingling of a headon wreck.

The sheriff and his prisoner found themselves shattered beings of humanity. The fire of the debris was burning around them. A few feet away the prisoner discerned through his dimmed eyes the woman who had entered the car.

"Sheriff," he said, "can you unshackle me?"

Slowly the sheriff, with one free hand, laboriously produced the key. Freed, Al groped to the girl. With a superhuman effort, he tore away the debris which held her pinioned and allowed her to roll easily down the bank of the track.

"I would have married you, Jennie," he called to her, "if this and—some other things hadn't happened." Then he became unconscious.

Later they found two magnificent looking men folded in each others' embrace, but from each the spark of life had fled.

WOMAN'S SUFFRAGE OVER IN ENGLAND

By Miss Edith Palliser, Head of the Central Society for Women's Suffrage.

LONDON, June 30.—The prime minister and a majority of the members of the house of commons are in favor of women's suffrage. It is true, the cause has been injured by the unseemingly and unofficial demonstration of inexperienced women who invaded the house of commons and broke the rules of etiquette by making such a display. Had it not been for this action I think we would have obtained already a vote in favor of the franchise.

There are four million women wage earners in England who demand the right of political representation.

We demand the right to a voice in such matters which touch the lives of women at every point, such as, for instance:

The policy which gives cheap or dear food, which does or does not tax the necessities of life.

The laws dealing with the liquor traffic.

The education and protection of children.

The care of the old.

The land question, especially in relation to housing and the unemployed.

The laws regulating the hours and wages of industry, and the legal position of the great women working class movements, especially co-operation, trade unionism and friendly societies.

Also the foreign policy of the nation.

Married women whose work is at home should have the vote because they contribute by their unpaid labor in the home just as directly as if they brought in wages; their claim is as strong as that of the direct wage earner.

WOMEN SUFFRAGISTS PARADING LONDON STREETS.

each year; so much so that last year 73,000 men in England classed as "illiterates" were allowed to vote. This was permitted while hundreds of thousands of well-educated women were kept back from the polls.

How strongly this injustice is felt may be learned from the fact that already petitions have been signed by 73,384 women textile workers; and 133 trade and labor unions—representing more than 100,000 women workers—have also moved in the matter by petitions presented to the house of commons.

For many years women have been allowed to vote on local school boards, as guardians of the poor law, and in other public local functions, and in every instance where they have exercised these powers their influence has been felt as beneficial. In New Zealand woman's suffrage was granted in 1893, and in Australia in 1902.
